DEMAND PROBE OF STIMSON AND KNOX ON HAWAII

Bring Out All Facts, Congressmen Urge.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Criticism of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson as officials fundamentally responsible for the Pearl Harbor disaster featured congressional reaction today to the report of the Roberts commission.

From numerous quarters came demands for a further investigation by congress or by the Roberts commission of the record of Secretaries Knox and Stimson in preparing for the defense of our Pacific outposts and of the Roosevelt policy of diverting our armed forces and armament from the Pacific to the Atlantic region, Europe and Africa.

Washington Laxity Studied.

While senators and congressmen generally advocated the court martial of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Lieut. Gen. Walter C. Short, whom the Roberts commission held primarily responsible for the disaster, there were many who stressed the finding that the army and navy authorities in Washington were not alert to the danger of Hawaii, believing that Japan would strike first in the southwestern Pacific.

The President, according to the White House, is studying the Roberts commission report to determine whether to court martial Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short.

"The report speaks for itself," was all that Secretary Knox would say when asked for comment on the findings of the Roberts commission. Secretary Stimson declined to comment as did Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, all of whom were found negligent in various particulars in connection with preparations for the defense of Hawaii from a surprise attack.

Walsh Has Questions.

Sen. David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, said that his committee will begin at once a studied analysis of the Roberts commission report for the guidance it will afford to legislation in the future and to determine whether there should be a further inquiry into the responsibility of the higher navy authorities either by the senate committee or another agency.

"The thing that has impressed me and needs to be explained," said Sen. Walsh, "is this: If it is true that Secretary Knox on Jan. 24, 1941 [article 7 of the report] wrote Secretary of War Stimson concerning the increased gravity of the Japanese situation and envisaged a surprise attack upon Pearl Harbor why thereafter was there a gradual depletion of naval strength in the Pacific?

Units Shifted to Atlantic.

"That policy of depletion, we have understood, resulted in a transfer of many naval units from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Also why was there no attempt to increase our military strength in Hawaii? I should like to know to what extent our naval and military strength was depleted."

Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] demanded an investigation of Secretaries Knox and Stimson to determine their responsibility for policies and dispositions of our armed forces and military equipment that caused and contributed to the disaster.

"The report of the Presidential inquiry board," said Sen. Brooks, "shows that the demand constantly made by many of us in congress that our own national defense must first

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—The navy department tonight announced the Norwegian tanker Varanger had been sunk this morning by enemy submarine attack off Sea Isle City, N. J.

The announcement said 42 survivors were landed at the Townsends Inlet coast guard station, near Sea Isle City, Cape May. The 4th naval district in Philadelphia, Pa., said the 42 composed the entire crew of the ship.

It was reported three torpedoes struck the tanker, a motorship of 9,305 gross tons, and that she sank in 12 minutes. The tanker was armed.

Gun Knocked Overboard.

"The ship was struck at 2:10 a. m. [Chicago time] by a torpedo amidships on the port side," a navy spokesman said in Philadelphia.

"The force of the explosion knocked the radio room and a 4 inch gun overboard. Seven minutes later the ship was struck by a second torpedo. Five minutes later a third torpedo struck. The ship sank immediately after the third torpedo."

The navy spokesman said two enemy submarines apparently made the attack, but declared this report was unconfirmed. He said the crew included two naturalized Americans.

The survivors, partially clothed and covered with oil, were rescued from two lifeboats by the fishing boat San Gennaro about 20 miles off the New Jersey coast southeast of Sea Isle City.

Dewy Monchetti, captain of the San Gennaro, said he heard an explosion shortly before 2:30 a. m. and sighted the two lifeboats tied together, with sails erected on both, about five hours later.

Second Boat Joins in Rescue.

Monchetti said he took the two life boats in tow and proceeded toward Sea Isle City, but that another fishing boat, captained by Dominic Constantino, later took over one of the lifeboats. Both were towed into Townsends Inlet.

Dr. Alexander Stuart of Sea Isle City, who treated the survivors as they were brought to shore, said only seven of the tanker's crew were injured seriously. He said the captain of the vessel, Carl Horne, about 50, of Philadelphia, was not injured. All of crew had left the tanker before an internal explosion shook the vessel.

Residents in Atlantic City reported they heard explosions about 2:30 a. m. [Chicago time].

GANDHI STONED BY MOB; SAYS HE DOESN'T MIND IT

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 25 (AP).—Demonstrators hurled stones, brandished black flags, and shouted "Boycott Gandhi" today when Mohandas K. Gandhi, Independence leader, addressed a public meeting at Nagpur in the central provinces.

When he invited the demonstrators to step up and state their complaint, one protested that Gandhi, once the foremost champion of the "untouchables"—members of Indian castes excluded from the social and religious privileges of Hinduism — no longer was interested in them.

THE TWAIN SHALL MEET

13 Flee State School; Total 24 in 9 Days

Thirteen young lawbreakers escaped from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles last night in two separate breaks for liberty. Their flight brought the number who have escaped from the institution since Jan. 17 to 24. Nine of the 11 in the earlier escapes, however, have been recaptured.

A widespread search for the 13 fugitives, six of whom were considered dangerous, was begun immediately. Two, Robert Chamberlain and Robert Kirkwood, both of Chicago, were captured on route 47, near the school, by State Policemen John Lawson and James Fitzgerald several hours later.

Building Plans Altered.

The escapes came shortly after the Gunning state legislative commission subcommittee had altered building plans for the school's new unit for incorrigibles at Sheridan to make the unit more like a home and less like a prison. The alteration has brought protests that the coddling of hardened young toughs will result.

The 670 inmates of the school live in dormitories, known as cottages, most of which have a capacity of 45 boys. Each cottage is in charge of a house father and house mother.

The first escape was about 5:30 p. m., from the Taylor cottage. Seven of the inmates smashed a window, bent back the light bars outside, and scrambled out. Attendants saw them and gave chase, but the fugitives quickly scaled the institution's wire mesh fence.

Police Notified Quickly.

Russell W. Ballard, managing officer of the school, promptly notified the state police and Sheriff Marcus W. Damisch of Kane county.

But even as the search went forward seven in Grant cottage smashed an unbarred window on the landing between the first and second floors, jumped eight feet to the ground, and made off. One of them was captured by an attendant, but the others got over the fence.

Altho the escapes were almost identical, school authorities said they did not believe they had any relationship.

Eight of those who escaped, including Kirkwood and Chamberlain, were Chicagoans: Donald Yarborough, Joseph Rossi, Bennie Dorfman, Ray Urso, Harry Nefford, and Harold Tracy. The others were Chester Short of Bloomington, John Hardesty of Danville, Donald Hoffman of Granite City, Charles Logan of Lawrenceville, and Robert Summers of Du Quoin. Most of them were between the ages of 15 and 17 years.

Mayor Dashes to Capital on Call by F.D.R.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Kelly received a telephone call from Washington, D. C., about 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Capitol Limited was scheduled to leave in 20 minutes. When it pulled out the mayor was aboard as a passenger.

In Washington yesterday, altho it was Sunday, he was received at the family door of the White House and spent almost an hour talking with President Roosevelt.

Late in the afternoon the visitor was whisked to a west bound train for the return trip. He will arrive in Chicago this morning.

Faces Barrage of Questions.

When the mayor reaches the city he will be met with the heaviest fusillade of questions he ever has faced in his public life. They will fall into two categories.

First, he will be asked if he is going to run for United States senator at President Roosevelt's request. He has said he will run if the President asks.

Second, he will be asked if his being summoned to the White House was connected in any way with the report on Pearl Harbor, issued Saturday. He probably will be asked if a possible change in the cabinet was discussed.

First emphasis, however, will be placed on the senatorship. When Mayor Kelly returned from Washington 10 days ago he said he had told the President all about all the Democratic candidates here. He said the President did not ask him to run but that he would run if the request came from the chief executive.

Dodges Pledge to Courtney.

Last Wednesday the mayor waived an opportunity to declare himself for State's Attorney Courtney. The prosecutor had said he would run if the Democratic county and state committees asked. The mayor said the organization would speak for itself. That attitude and the statement four days earlier of the mayor's conditional willingness to become a candidate are believed to have been reported and interpreted to the White House.

The theory that the Pearl Harbor report might have been the cause of the summons to the capital was based on the belief that when the telephone call was put thru to Mayor Kelly Saturday afternoon, the President had been concentrating his attention on the lengthy document. And a conference on the senatorship could have been held any time this week.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—American-Filipino forces have handed the Japanese a setback in the Philippines, killing hundreds and capturing large quantities of supplies and equipment in a surprise counterattack.

This "smashing success," as the war department's communique today happily described it, relieved an immediately perilous situation for the defenders and was a great strategical triumph for Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It was a birthday gift, incidentally, as MacArthur was 62 on Monday, which already has arrived in the Philippines.

Anchor Flank on China Sea.

The situation prior to the counter-attack was this:

For 48 hours Saturday and Sunday the Japanese had been hammering at MacArthur's left flank anchored on the China sea side of the Bataan peninsula. Fresh enemy troops were pouring into the fray from boats and were infiltrating behind the defenders' lines.

Guns of Japanese warships, standing off the coast, were supporting the attack. Outnumbered, the American-Filipino forces were being driven back and losses were heavy on both sides.

Japs Flee in Disorder.

"His powerful concentration of 155 millimeter artillery fired with deadly accuracy on the enemy lines," the war department related. "American and Filipino troops then charged. They found the Japanese infantry completely disorganized. Enemy troops fled from their positions, leaving hundreds of dead and large quantities of supplies and equipment on the battlefield."

As a result of this disconcerting maneuver, the Japanese pressure on the left eased up and, for the time being, the war department said, the situation has been "stabilized."

It added, however, that a renewal of the attack could be expected as soon as the enemy reorganized his forces.

Claim Mountain Taken.

TOKIO, Jan. 25 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Imperial headquarters announced today that Japanese warplanes continued to pound the American fortress of Corregidor and "enemy vessels" near by.

Abucay and Mount Natib, at opposite ends of MacArthur's first line of defense on Bataan, were said to have fallen as the Nipponese forces pushed southward thru steep terrains and tangled jungles.

BATHTUB, SWIM SUIT AND THEFT! IT'S BIG MYSTERY

A satin bathing suit provided the police and Myer J. Samuels and Samuel Goldberg with a mystery yesterday.

Samuels and Goldberg live on the second and third floors, respectively, at 630 Waveland avenue. During the day burglars broke into their homes, stealing $12 from the Goldberg apartment and $312 in furs and jewelry from the Samuels apartment.

The bathing suit was left in the Samuels bathtub. Mrs. Samuels said it wasn't hers, and besides it was size 16 and too small. Mrs. Goldberg said ditto. Neither Samuels nor Goldberg wants the bathing suit, nor do police, and they'd all be happy if the owner or the burglars—especially the latter—would claim it.

Nazis Reveal Execution of Two More in France

VICHY, France, Jan. 25 (AP).—For the fourth successive day the Germans announced today the execution of two Frenchmen before firing squads in the occupied zone. One of the pair was charged with activity favoring the enemy and the other with illegal possession of weapons.

HERE'S SUMMARY OF DISPATCHES ON DAY'S FIGHTING

Latest developments on world's fighting fronts:

American-Filipino defenders of the Philippine island of Luzon scored what the war department communique called a "smashing success" against the Japanese. As the invader hammered Gen. Douglas MacArthur's left flank by land and sea, the American commander—62 years old today—ordered his right flank to attack. The communique said Japanese forces fled, leaving hundreds dead and large quantities of supplies and equipment on the battlefield. Tokio reported that Japanese warplanes continued to pound the American fortress at Corregidor and "enemy vessels nearby."

United States cruisers and destroyers of the Asiatic fleet reported sinking five more Japanese transports, possibly six, in the Dutch East Indies. This apparently brought to more than 20 invasion ships sunk or damaged by United States and Dutch sea and air forces in a 48 hour attack on an invasion fleet in Macassar strait.

Fight Japs in New Guinea.

Australians fought Japanese invaders on the island of New Britain, 800 miles northeast of the mainland, altho the island capital of Rabaul had been abandoned. So had Lae, capital of Australian New Guinea, only 425 miles from the mainland, which had been bombed and machine gunned.

Despite heavy Japanese pressure, the British were reported holding firm in Malaya 60 to 75 miles from Singapore. Tokio claimed to have taken 6,000 prisoners and killed 600 defenders in one five day battle. Meanwhile, large Chinese forces were reported concentrating for possible drives on the Indo-China and Thailand bases of the Malay invaders. American and Chinese flyers bombed a Jap air base in Hanoi, French Indo-China.

Thailand Declares War.

Japanese-occupied Thailand, according to Tokio, declared war on the United States and Britain because of an RAF raid Saturday on Bangkok. The fate of Moulmein, Burma, was in doubt as British forces fell back before Japanese-Thai invaders.

Russian forces claimed to have wiped out Adolf Hitler's winter line from "end to end." Stockholm heard Hitler moved his headquarters to Minsk as the Red offensive reached the vicinity of his old base at Smolensk. Berlin claimed to have repulsed Red attacks in the Kharkov area.

British bombers claimed "probable destruction" of a 20,000 ton liner carrying reenforcements to Libya, where a fierce tank battle with a German-Italian army was in progress near Agedabia.

U. S. WARSHIPS' TOLL NOW 7 IN 48 HOUR BATTLE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—The navy department announced tonight that five additional enemy transports and possibly one other had been sunk in Macassar strait by units of Adm. Thomas J. Hart's Asiatic fleet.

The announcement raised to at least seven the number of vessels sunk by United States destroyers and cruisers in this big-scale sea engagement with the enemy. The navy announced yesterday that two vessels had been destroyed and a third was believed sinking after several torpedo and close range gun hits had been made on Japanese destroyers and transports.

Suffer No Losses.

Tonight's communique, No. 33, based on reports received up to 8 p. m., Chicago time, said:

"United States cruisers and destroyers of the Asiatic fleet have sunk five additional enemy transports, and probably one other in the Macassar strait without loss to our attacking forces."

The communique was believed to indicate that the two day old battle in the waters between Borneo and Celebes still was continuing. The first official mention of cruisers participating in the sea battle indicated also that it may be continuing in greater force. American and Dutch air forces also were participating and Java headquarters of the United Nations previously reported three ships had been sunk, four probably sunk, and no fewer than 12 damaged in the running battles.

On Direct Invasion Route.

Macassar strait is an almost direct route from Davao, Japanese naval base in the Philippines, to Bali in the Dutch East Indies.

Thruout more than 48 hours, the United States fleet has lost not a single vessel. A previous communique told of the only casualties—four men injured, one seriously.

The five additional vessels brought to 37 the number of enemy ships sunk by the United States navy since the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor Dec. 7. The army has accounted for 11, making a total of 48 Japanese ships definitely sunk by American forces.

Java Tells of Battle.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS ON JAVA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 25 (AP).—United States and Dutch air and naval forces, striking for more than 48 hours at a huge Japanese expedition threading Macassar strait, have sunk or damaged 18 ships and dealt the severest blows of the war to the invaders, official and authoritative reports said today.

Despite these almost continuous attacks, however, the Japanese have forced three new landings in the outer islands protecting Australia and Java, the nerve center of the Netherlands East Indies, and their bombers have ranged far and wide in attacks which indicate imminent efforts to penetrate further the numerous south seas.

Battle Japs at Balik Papan.

The Dutch announced the Japanese had put forces ashore at the east coast Borneo port of Balik Papan, facing Macassar strait, where they were meeting with strong resistance from a Netherlands force fighting amidst the blackened and tangled ruins of oil refineries and wells which had been ordered destroyed.

This invasion, which brought the Japanese within 500 miles of the main Dutch naval and air base at Surabaya on Java, was accompanied by another at Kendari, on the southeastern tip of the Celebes, more than 400 miles to the east of Balik Papan.

Simultaneously, an Australian communique announced the Japanese occupation of Kavieng, in New Ireland, across the coral sea from the Australian sub-continent.

Dutch Bomb 3 More Ships.

Dutch airmen scored the newest of the blows upon the badly battered Japanese expedition off Balik Papan today, blasting two cruisers and a transport with four direct hits from 660 pound bombs, said an authoritative report to Aneta, Dutch news service.

Preceding this report, the first communique of the war issued by Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's headquarters of the united nations forces said air and naval units had sunk three ships and damaged 12 others in attacks over the previous 48 hours. Four of the damaged ships probably were sunk, the communique said.

These "constant" attacks on the convoy began the afternoon of Friday, when Dutch dive bombers counted 12 direct hits on eight ships, including a large warship, heavy cruiser, light cruiser, and a destroyer, the communique said. The Dutch communique today said all eight ships had been left burning.

Two of these ship casualties had not previously been reported, for the Dutch communique had told only of one huge Japanese liner capsized, a transport's side ripped open by bombs, and a destroyer raked with several hits.

Then on Friday night the American naval force dashed boldly into the midst of the convoy and with torpedoes and guns caused one transport to blow up and riddled another until it was left in sinking condition, the communique said.

[A navy department announcement in Washington, D. C., Saturday night said one ship was sunk and another left listing, in addition to the ship blown up, and that several other destroyers and transports were damaged.]

Heaviest Blow at Japs Yet.

"The losses inflicted on this Japanese convoy are the heaviest the enemy has suffered in any single operation since the war began," Wavell's headquarters declared.

The joint toll exacted by the Dutch and American planes on Saturday was not given in separate scores, but the communique told of a unique battle when several American flying fortresses were attacked by 12 Japanese fighting planes.

Despite their great size, these high flying, four motored, formidably armed fortresses shot down five of the Japanese fighters without loss to themselves, the announcement said.

The Dutch, in addition, said their planes and ground gunners had shot down six Japanese planes, and damaged many others, and that their bombers had again attacked Kuching, the capital of Sarawak on the west coast of Borneo.

Kendari Landing Unheralded.

In attacking jungle-enclosed Balik Papan and penetrating the 90 mile wide Macassar strait, the direct approach to Java itself, the Japanese had encountered the heaviest opposition they have met in the south seas, but to the east their landing at Kendari was virtually unheralded.

There the Japanese had negotiated a twin approach to Java thru the Molucca sea. Kendari is about 700 miles northeast of Surabaya, and about 400 miles southwest of another Dutch air and naval station at Amboina.

Japanese air attacks during the last few days were dotted in almost a semicircle about this advanced post in the Moluccas. Besides bombing Halon on Amboina itself, where 11 persons were killed, the Japanese air force raided Namlea on the island of Boeroe which is but 90 miles west of Amboina, and attacked Sorong and Manokwari, on the north coast of eastern New Guinea.

36 DEAD IN FIRE ON NORWAY SHIP HIT BY TORPEDO

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Jan. 25 (AP).—Thirty-six men died in the flames enveloping a Norwegian tanker as the result of a torpedo attack by a submarine in the western Atlantic recently, it became known tonight with the arrival of five survivors, who were on the tanker's bridge when the attack came. After 15 hours in an open boat the five were picked up by a British freighter and brought here, the port to which they were heading to join a convoy when the submarine sank their ship.

The survivors said all lifeboats on the starboard side of the tanker caught fire immediately in the torpedo blast. Blazing oil cascaded from the wounded carrier and they had difficulty in lowering boats from the port side.

As the five pulled away they saw their captain on the deck but were unable to turn back because of the blistering heat. The skipper went down with the ship, steadfastly refusing to jump.

New Zealand Tells of Plea to U.S., Britain for War Aid

Wellington, New Zealand, Jan. 25 (AP).—Prime Minister Peter Fraser said today that New Zealand had received a heartening response to pleas to the United States and Britain for aid in the Pacific war. This was the first official disclosure that New Zealand had joined Australia in such appeals.

Britain Decides Against Producing Synthetic Rubber

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—Britain was said today to have decided against producing rubber synthetically to replace lost Malayan rubber sources because shipping space is needed to import other needed materials and because of the high cost to start production.

NIGHT ATTACK BY JAPS BEATEN OFF BY U. S. INFANTRY

Hand to Hand Fighting in Bataan Described.

BY CLARK LEE.

WITH UNITED STATES INFANTRY FORCES, BATAAN FRONT, Jan. 23 (AP) [Delayed].—American troops fought their third large scale ground engagement of the war early today, turning back a strong Japanese night attack with heavy losses to the enemy.

Dawn showed the ground in front of Americans barbed wire covered with dead and wounded Japanese, while the American lines remained intact.

This all-American unit thus continued to prove the superiority of American troops over the Japanese. Every time the two forces have met the Japanese have been defeated.

This morning's attack followed yesterday's day long shelling and bombing of the American position by the Japanese. The enemy's 105 mm. field guns pounded the American lines from dawn to dusk while his planes droned incessantly overhead. In one attack 17 dive bombers simultaneously swarmed down on the Americans.

Attack at 3 A. M.

Enemy activity ceased at sundown, but American commanders ordered their troops on the alert in anticipation of a night attack. It came at 3 o'clock this [Friday] morning, when 1,000 Japanese who had crept thru the underbrush toward the American wire opened fire with rifles, submachine guns and grenades, supplemented by firecrackers.

American light and heavy artillery opened fire immediately, plastering no man's land with shells, while infantrymen jumped to their machine guns and rifles. The defenders located the advancing enemy by tracer bullets and by light exploding shells.

Only a handful of Japanese penetrated as far as the American positions, where they were quickly disposed of in hand to hand fighting. Despite the Americans' deadly fire, the Japanese pressed their attack for nearly two hours before retiring to their own lines.

The yells and moans of wounded Japanese were clearly heard outside the American barbed wire.

Like Indian Warfare.

As the front quieted down, with the exception of occasional American artillery fire, the officer commanding this sector of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's defense described the fighting as "a combination of the positional fighting of the World war and oldtime American Indian warfare. There are occasional frontal attacks along definite lines, supplemented by infiltration of snipers."

The Japanese are especially adept at sniping. Carrying only a handful of rice plus their arms, they sneak thru the lines, hide high in the trees, and remain motionless for hours awaiting their chance.

The average Japanese is not an expert marksman, but their snipers are specially chosen crack shots. This American unit flushed six snipers out of a single tree yesterday.

Americans, on the other hand, have successfully staged numerous night raids across no-man's-land. One major, altho frequently wounded, refused to go to the hospital and led repeated raids to gather prisoners and information.

Run From War Whoops.

The American commander disclosed that the "first time American troops charged the Japanese, the enemy ran." This was while the American-Filipino troops were moving into position on the Bataan peninsula several weeks ago. To prevent the isolation of other units, the commander said, the Americans fixed bayonets, shrieked war whoops, and attacked the Japanese, who fled in disorder.

In a second engagement, however, the Japanese fought courageously, resisting yard by yard as the Americans successfully carried out line straightening operations.

American officers consider the Japanese 14th army a first class body of troops. This army had been trained for the past 15 months in Formosa by Gen. Masaharu Homma, obviously for the purpose of attacking the Philippines.

Present front line enemy troops average 24 years in age, having reinforced the youngsters who were used in the original landing operations and who are still used as occupational forces in various parts of the islands.

American troops in this area are tough and aggressive. The same is true of plucky Filipino soldiers who are holding neighboring sectors on a front where enemy aerial attacks and observation impose severe disadvantages on Gen. MacArthur's forces.

JEWELRY, OLD COINS STOLEN.

Burglars who entered his apartment yesterday by forcing open a rear transom, obtained $500 worth of jewelry, old coins, and currency, D. D. Dryman, 9115 South Ada street, reported to police.

Marine Posters

Three of the seven posters selected by marine corps for distribution in recruiting drive.

The marine corps has selected seven posters created by workers at the WPA Illinois Art and Crafts project for reproduction and distribution as recruiting posters, it was learned yesterday. The posters feature such slogans as:

"Join the U. S. Marines—drop in on Tokio."

"Tell it to Tokio—U. S. Marines."

"Axe the axis with action! Join the U. S. Marines."

With the last named slogan is depicted an assault landing boat. The poster has been approved, but the boat, an old style model which made only eight miles an hour, will be redrawn to depict the modern type now in use. The new ones do 30 miles an hour.

The posters were made under direction of Ralph Graham. They will be reproduced in colors and distributed to recruiting stations thruout the 9th naval district.

VIGO, Spain, Jan. 25 (AP).—Direct steamship service between Spain and the United States, interrupted by the war, will be resumed Feb. 7 when the Spanish liner Marquess de Comillas sails for New York. Authorization for the voyage was granted today. She will call also at Havana. Operating officials announced a 75 per cent increase in passenger fares.

CHINESE MASSING ON THAI BORDER; BANGKOK BOMBED

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 25 (AP).—The united nations forces lashed hard by air against Japanese positions in southeast Asia over the week-end and were reported massing for a major land assault at the rear of Nipponese armies pushing overland toward the allied bastion of Singapore.

A heavy force of RAF bombers raided Bangkok, capital of Japanese occupied Thailand, inflicting widespread damage Saturday night. They dropped 500 pound demolition bombs on a powerhouse and on other targets. Flying at low level in the face of strong anti-aircraft fire, the bombers skimmed a mere thousand feet above their objectives, machine gunning searchlight and gun batteries in this second major attack on the Thailand capital this month.

Unofficial information indicated the air force in Burma is being continually reënforced by newer models of fighters and bombers.

Chinese Massing Big Force.

By land Chinese troops were reported engaged in a great mass movement in China's southwestern province of Yunnan and along the Thailand frontier, reducing the numerical superiority enjoyed by the Japanese in Thailand in the opening offensive.

A British communique said Chinese reënforcements had been pouring into Burma for the last few days. From Burma these troops could push into either Indo-China, also Japanese occupied, or into Thailand and pound at the rear of the Japanese forces working southward from there toward Singapore.

Chinese dispatches suggested that the men of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek might be ready now to follow up their recent heavy raids on Hanoi, capital of Indo-China, with an overland assault opening up a second big front for the Japanese land forces in this corner of the continent.

British Forces Withdraw.

Meanwhile, the British announced a withdrawal before Japanese pushing westward along the Burmese coast on the Gulf of Martaban, taking up new positions "somewhere in the Moulmein sector" 100 miles east of Rangoon. Military commentators cast no light on the fate of Moulmein itself.

Two merchant ships were reported sunk by enemy action in the Bay of Bengal, survivors being landed in Burma. The sea attacks were believed made by a Japanese submarine. There was no estimate of casualties. One report said the vessels were carrying hundreds of civilian refugees to India.

Thailand Declares War on U. S.

TOKIO, Jan. 25 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—A Domei dispatch from Bangkok said Thailand declared war on the United States and Britain today and immediately ordered an advance into Burma by 100,000 Thai troops massed along the border.

Teiji Tsubogami, Japanese ambassador at Bangkok, was quoted as saying "The British raid on Bangkok last night is the immediate reason for the declaration of war today."

Imperial headquarters said 44 enemy planes had been shot down in attacks on Singapore and Rangoon during the last four days.

Mexico Guards Oil Fields, Seizes Saboteur Suspects

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Jan. 25 (AP).—The Mexican army today placed the oil fields and refineries around Tampico and in northern Vera Cruz state under heavy guard as a precaution against sabotage and reported several suspected saboteurs had been arrested. The 6,000 workers have received identification credentials.

Home on Furlough

Lieut. William T. Sutherland, a naval pilot who was marooned eight days aboard a disabled patrol plane off the Panama coast earlier this month, was reunited with his wife, Helen, in Chicago last night. She met him as he arrived from Florida. It was a happy reunion. The Sutherlands plan to stay temporarily at the home of her brother, Louis Weicker Jr., 2329 East 70th street, then go to their home in Normal, Ill. He is on 30 day furlough.

Six other men shared Lieut. Sutherland's experience. Motor trouble forced their plane down in stormy seas, damaging its radio and destroying its navigation instruments. Day after day they drifted helplessly in gale winds and waves 25 feet high while sharks hovered nearby. "No one was dismayed, morale was high, and not once did we give up hope of being rescued," said Lieut. Sutherland.

Five days were required to repair the radio. Contact with shore was established and help was sent out.

American Pilot Shoots Down Sixth Jap Bomber

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 25 (AP).—Edmund F. Overend, former United States marine corps flyer now fighting with an American volunteer squadron in the western Pacific, cabled friends today that he had shot down three more Japanese bombers Friday, bringing his total to six. "Shot down three bombers over Rangoon," the cable read. "Came thru O. K." He downed three bombers in a single action on Christmas day.

BRITISH HOLDING LINE IN MALAYA AS BATTLE RAGES

Rival Air Forces Pounding Locked Troops.

WITH BRITISH FORCES ON THE MALAYAN FRONT, Jan. 26 [Monday] (AP).—British troops fought in a steady downpour and boot-high mud thruout yesterday to hold positions stretching across Johore state from 60 to 75 air miles from Singapore.

The Japanese attacked heavily in the central sector without gaining and made persistent infiltration attacks against their left flank. They were continuously bombed and strafed by British planes.

Japs Attack "Relentlessly."

SINGAPORE, Jan. 25 (AP).—Relentlessly pressed by Japanese ground troops and continuously pounded by fighters and bombers in the air, Britain's imperial forces grimly held their ground and even carried out some successful counterattacks north of Singapore today.

The Australians, British and Indians fought with dogged persistence from positions which had not been generally changed in 24 hours.

Today's communique said heavy fighting continued around the Batu Pahat anchor on Malacca strait to the west, 60 miles northwest of Singapore, where battle has raged for several days.

It announced failure, however, to hold the rugged positions around Parit Sulong just to the northeast, despite the four-day fight of two encircled Australian battalions.

Yong Peng Clash Obscure.

There was no further report of fighting in the Yong Peng area to the east, where Australian gunners yesterday repulsed a Japanese mechanized force which presumably was attempting to strengthen the encircling troops.

Farther east, however, the British carried out a successful counterattack north of Kluang, 50 miles north of Singapore, and won back some positions.

It was in this zone that the RAF delivered its most telling blows in a night attack, dropping many tons of bombs from a low altitude on railway lines, roads, a railway junction and a bridge and starting numerous fires at Labis, 80 miles north of Singapore.

On the east coast, in the Mersing area, 65 miles north of Singapore, stout artillery defense confined the Japanese to minor patrol actions.

"62 Miles from Goal"—Tokio.

TOKIO, Jan. 25 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Japanese troops were within 62 miles of Singapore in Malaya, imperial headquarters said tonight. They claimed to have captured Mersing on the east coast of the Malay peninsula, 65 miles north of the British naval base, reported taking 6,000 prisoners and killing 600 in a five day battle at the western end of the shortened defense line and said Parit Sulong, four miles west of Bukit Payong in western Malaya, had fallen and that the booty included 28 tanks, 32 armored cars and numerous other weapons. Continued attacks along the entire front were reported but it was admitted that they were meeting "stubborn resistance."

BUSINESS GOES ON IN SINGAPORE THO BOMBS FALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 25.—Japanese bombers may be blitzing Singapore, but Singapore still is seeking business.

New Zealand firms report that cabled inquiries for trade have been received from the besieged Malayan city during the past week.

During the bombing of last Thursday, one Singapore export organization cabled a firm here offering pineapples and asking that the New Zealand firm send orders for execution if tonnage is available.

AUSTRALIA ASKS VOICE IN EMPIRE COUNCILS OF WAR

Japanese Expand Holdings on Outer Islands.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 26 [Monday] (AP).—Imperiled Australia delivered a new, plain spoken demand on London today for a direct voice in imperial war councils as the Japanese, apparently in steadily rising strength, expanded footholds on Australian soil against the commonwealth's outnumbered defenders.

The war cabinet, which had sat thru the week-end, followed up its second appeal to London and Washington, D. C.—for planes and ships to support its own marshaled fighting power now that invasion has hit Australian shores—with a frank communication to Prime Minister Churchill.

Message Reflects Urgency.

The message, reflecting the urgency Australia repeatedly has stressed in appeals for help in her self-defense, contained two points:

FIRST—A strong request for the immediate formation of an empire war council in London.

SECOND—A call for an allied war council to direct basic strategy in the Pacific.

"Australia's position regarding higher strategic direction of the war is clear and decisive," declared the dominion prime minister, John Curtin, at Perth, West Australia.

"We make it plain that we claim representation in an imperial war cabinet so that Australia's voice and counsel may be heard directly.

"We also claim that a Pacific council should be established on which countries particularly concerned with the Pacific may collaborate in the most effectual way in dealing with war problems in this theater."

More Transports Unload.

Reassuring word previously had come from London that aid was being studied for the dominion, whose own fighting men are writing valiant chapters in North Africa and Malaya, but still Japanese transports were unloading more and more men in the island groups flanking Australia and the commonwealth was facing the grim threat that Japan's widening war would spread to its own continental beaches.

Churchill informed Curtin by cable that he was "fully considering the Australian requests."

The Japanese, meanwhile, were on at least three islands in the Bismarck archipelago and Solomon Islands, northeast of the big Dutch and British island of New Guinea.

First Time in 154 Years.

War Minister Francis Forde announced that Australian militia—in action against an alien invader for the first time in Australia's 154 year history—and supporting units of the Australian imperial forces [AIF] were fighting "magnificently" on Rabaul peninsula, on the Island of New Britain.

The Australians evidently had given up the city of Rabaul, the island's capital and chief port, to conserve their strength.

Forde said land and air forces had been pitted against the Japanese in a heavy battle raging since Friday among the hills back of the city but that troops had not been asked to make a stand on exposed beaches because of enemy warships within the harbor.

The defenders now have pushed their line across the western end of the peninsula but there is every indication that the Japanese are being constantly reënforced. One dispatch said 17 Japanese vessels had been observed and that the Australian defending force evidently was overwhelmingly outnumbered.

Clouds Hamper Bombers' Aim.

The air force raided Rabaul harbor but low clouds hampered the bombers' aim and still greater difficulty was experienced in observing results of the attack. Air Minister A. S. Drakeford, nevertheless, said bombs fell in the target area and some hits were observed.

Besides the reënforcements Japan is putting ashore at Rabaul, landings also were made at Kieta, on the eastern shore of Bougainville Island, the closest of the Solomon group to New Britain. Japanese also landed Friday morning at Kavieng, on New Ireland, east of New Britain.

Other landings probably were made in this area, army reports said, either in unsettled districts or in regions where communications were destroyed.

Japs Wreck All Buildings.

Forde said the latest word disclosed that Japanese marines at Kavieng had wrecked all buildings in the town which the Australians had not previously demolished, presumably before withdrawing just in advance of the invaders' arrival.

Lae, the capital of Australian New Guinea, which was bombed and machine gunned heavily from the air on Thursday, was said to have been evacuated. It is on the island's northeastern coast.

"Shortly and bluntly," Forde declared in an appeal for allied help in the Pacific, "it is Japan or us. . . .

"Australia does not believe that the insolent immensity of Japan's design is everywhere appreciated as keenly or in as true perspective as it is in the commonwealth.

"Nor do we believe that its fundamental relation in the axis grand strategy is perceived as sharply as necessary."

Declares Australia Presents Vital British Empire Issue

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—"Australia's demand for immediate war supplies as well as a seat in the war cabinet in London has created a first class imperial issue overshadowing everything else in the forthcoming war debate in the house of commons," the political correspondent of the Daily Mail wrote today.

The article was printed under a front page streamer headline "Premier Facing Empire Crisis."

The writer added that opinion in parliament has become "gravely disturbed" by news from Australia of the threat of invasion of the commonwealth, which comes on top of the distressing stream of events in Mayaya, "in themselves an early cause of anxiety among members."

Dismayed by Appeal to U. S.

In another newspaper, Beverly Baxter, a Conservative member of parliament, wrote:

"I hate to see the dominion's premier [John Curtin] appealing simultaneously to the President of the United States and the prime minister of Britain. It breaks tradition of a century and cuts the cord of unity. . . . I am sorry Mr. Curtin has seen fit to make a direct appeal to Washington, D C."

The whole question of imperial cooperation in planning allied war strategy is being given fresh consideration by the British cabinet, the political correspondent of the Daily Telegraph said.

Responsible quarters here believe the cabinet would welcome the delegation of a special Australian minister to attend cabinet meetings when matters affecting Australia and the western Pacific are discussed.

Voice in Policy Making.

It also was disclosed plans are under discussion for consultation with the dominions when a policy is framed—a measure which is thought to be even more important for effective imperial coöperation. Such plans, it was stressed, would make it possible for the ministers to take cognizance of views of the dominions concerned before the policy reaches the final stage of cabinet consideration.

Besides the Australian question, it is expected Churchill's speech at the start of the three days allowed for debate will deal with questions of general coöperation among the allies in the fields of operation and supply. Demands also will be made on Churchill to replace ministers who no longer enjoy the confidence of parliament and public opinion and to consider the appointment of a minister for war production.

Puts Some Blame on U. S.

The political correspondent of the Reynolds News, after saying Churchill's personal position is strong and predicting he will ride out the storm, winning a vote of confidence, contended:

"America's frank admission of the failure of her Pearl Harbor chiefs will make the prime minister's task easier, for it has been an open secret that far eastern setbacks were in a large measure due to the absence of promised support from America.

"This fact," he added, "explains why the Malayan coast was left open to Japanese attack and was partly responsible for the lack of [air] protection for the Prince of Wales and the Repulse [battleships which were sunk]."

TWO AUSTRALIAN BATTALIONS HOLD FOE BACK 4 DAYS

General Calls Malayan Feat Astounding.

BY C. YATES M'DANIEL.

WITH BRITISH IMPERIAL FORCES ON THE MALAYAN FRONT, Jan. 25 (AP).—How two Australian battalions, ringed by Japanese machine gun nests in the Malayan jungles, grimly held up an enemy advance for four days and even came near a break-thru against overwhelming enemy infantry, tanks, artillery, and dive bombers was told today by Aussies who cut their way thru the wilderness to reach the British lines.

"There has not been a more astounding effort in this war or the last," beamed Australian Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, himself a veteran of Gallipoli.

Go to Help of Indian Brigade.

The two Australian battalions moved into the Muar river sector, along the Malayan west coast, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 17 and 18, to help an Indian brigade which had encountered a stronger Japanese force, their commander related.

Soon after reaching the Muar river sector, the Australians beat off one heavy attack by Japanese infantry, strongly supported by tanks. Within half an hour, Australian gunners had knocked out 10 enemy tanks and compelled the Japanese infantry to run for cover among the rubber trees.

By Monday, however, the Japanese had seeped around, encircling the outnumbered Indians and Australians. The surrounded men tried to fight their way thru but they found the road behind them blocked for seven miles by felled trees in which the Japanese had set up a network of machine gun nests.

By nightfall, the Japanese had tightened the cordon around the Australians, ceaselessly pounding them with artillery, mortars, aerial bombs, and machine gun fire while snipers in the trees tried to pick off outposts.

Repel Japs with Bayonets.

The beleaguered men got no sleep Monday night. Ordered to withhold their fire in order to conserve dwindling ammunition supplies, the Australians repelled repeated Japanese attacks with bayonets.

On Tuesday the situation was desperate. Food and ammunition were nearly exhausted and the Australians were carrying with them an increasing number of badly wounded. At this point Bennett ordered the battalion commanders to destroy their transport and fight their way back the best way possible.

At 6 p. m. Tuesday wireless communications ceased in the midst of a message. Australian headquarters feared the worst. But at 8 a. m. Wednesday came the laconic message: "We now thru roadblock with guns and transport."

Proud of Men's Achievement.

Bennett's face lit up with a grim smile as he showed us on the map that that meant his men had fought their way thru a seven mile long corridor of enemy machine gun nests.

Thursday morning Bennett radioed: "Regret there is little prospect any success of attack to help you. Lloyd's party [the commando unit] if successful should have appeared before this. Twenty of your men and many Indians have already returned. You may at your discretion leave wounded with volunteers, destroy heavy equipment and escape. Sorry unable help after your heroic effort. Good luck. Gordon Bennett."

On Thursday RAF planes dropped medical supplies and food to the isolated men but the last chance to help them fight thru the Japanese cordon had passed.

Isolated groups of Indians and Australians still are fighting their way to the British lines. Many of them are wounded. All are suffering from fatigue and hardship. But there has been not a word of complaint.

CHURCHILL CAME TO AMERICA IN NEW BATTLESHIP

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—The 35,000 ton battleship Duke of York, Britain's newest capital ship, carried Prime Minister Churchill to the United States and now is in active service, the admiralty announced tonight.

Last August Churchill hinted the Duke of York was ready for service when he called the Prince of Wales, later sunk off Malaya, almost the newest battleship.

The Duke of York was launched in Clyde about two years ago by Queen Elizabeth. It was understood that shipyard men, working day and night shifts, completed arming the giant battleship. No mention has been made of the Jellicoe and Beatty, which were laid down in 1937 for completion in 1941, and it is possible they also are at sea. At the outbreak of war Britain was believed to have 15 capital ships in service.

Chinese Planes Drop 200 Bombs on Hanoi Airdrome

CHUNGKING, Jan. 25 (AP).—The Chinese air force, with American volunteers presumably taking part, has delivered a smashing new attack on the Japanese air base at Hanoi, French Indo-China, while Chinese soldiers on land are scoring successes against Japanese forces in three widely separated parts of China.

American volunteer flyers fighting with the Chinese have shot down 190 Japanese planes against the loss of only five of their own craft in clashes up to Saturday, the Central Chinese News agency reported tonight in a Kunming dispatch. This figure did not take into account considerable numbers of Japanese craft destroyed on the ground.

Twenty miles north of Hongkong Chinese forces recaptured Tamshui, east of the Canton-Kowloon railway, killing more than 400 Japanese, a headquarters communique announced.

Drive on 2 Other Fronts.

In western Hupeh province, in north central China, Chinese forces are attacking the Japanese west of Siangyang and northeast of Ichang, while in southern Hunan province, in central China, the Chinese were on the offensive north of Sinyang.

This was the second powerful Chinese air assault within three days on the Hanoi airdrome, one of Japan's principal bases for her widening Asian warfare. On Thursday, Chinese bombers dropped 20 tons of explosives on the base.

Swooping in low, yesterday raiders were unmolested by Japanese planes and all returned safely to their bases. In the raiding force were some planes of a new bomber type.

Hanoi, capital of Tonkin province in French Indo-China, is one of the advance bases Japan won thru treaty with the French Vichy government and built up as a strong overseas outpost. It is of prime strategic importance for Japanese operations westward across the Burmese border toward Mandalay and Rangoon and northward against China herself.

DEFY FRENCH PROTESTS.

That the Chinese returned to the attack on Hanoi yesterday indicated open defiance in Chungking of French wrath over the first attack. Vichy announced that its minister in the Chinese capital had been instructed to protest a recent areial attack on a Tonkin province airdrome, presumably Hanoi.

A Berlin official broadcast of a communique issued in Hanoi, acknowledging that Indo-Chinese territory had been revisited by Chinese air raiders, disclosed that some casualties had been inflicted in the first attack.

That French Indo-China's part in Japan's plans is dividing the loyalties of its inhabitants was indicated by another official German broadcast which said Adm. Jean Decoux, high commissioner of the colony, had reiterated his loyalty to Marshal Petain.

Decoux excoriated what he termed foreign efforts to range Frenchmen against each other and emphasized that he was determined to fulfill his task of preserving French authority in France's Pacific empire. He warned De Gaullists that Petain would know how to deal with them when, one day, France's "lost sons" knock at their country's door.

CANADA RATIONS SUGAR; ¾ POUND ALLOWED A WEEK

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 25 (AP).—Canada announced the rationing of sugar tonight, effective immediately, and set a limit of three-quarters of a pound a week for each person.

The Canadian action followed the Washington announcement last night that rationing of sugar would start soon in the United States with consumers there to be held to about a pound a week.

Purchases will be in the usual way and there will be no coupons, stamps, or tickets. Requirements of manufacturers, hotels, and other establishments will be controled by the sugar administration and provision for them will be made, it was announced, in accordance with circumstances.

DIES OF FALL INJURIES.

DEMAND PROBES OF KNOX, STIMSON IN HAWAII AFFAIR

Congress Leaders Bitter in Criticism.

"An additional inquiry should be made to determine:

"[1] Why our secretary of the navy and secretary of war consented to the sending of our military and naval equipment to other countries and other parts of the world when they knew war with Japan was inevitable, and our most important outpost was inadequately supplied with 'personnel, materiel, and equipment to put it on a war footing,' as stated in Justice Roberts' report.

"[2] Who was responsible for the concentration of our fleet in Pearl Harbor making it so vulnerable to air attack in light of all the experiences and lessons previously learned in modern warfare, and, especially in light of the letter written by the secretary of the navy to the secretary of war on Jan. 24, 1941, stating: 'If war eventuates with Japan, it is easily possible that hostilities would be initiated by a surprise attack upon the fleet or the naval base at Pearl Harbor.'

Private Interests Questioned.

"[3] What private enterprise the heads of either our navy or war department have been engaged in that diverted their attention from the all-important duty of developing our nation's best possible defense against

"[4] What diligence was used by the navy and war department heads to determine the knowledge or ability of the officers assigned to the duty of protecting our important outposts and building our national defense.

Favors in Promotions.

"[5] What favors have been extended in granting commissions, advancements, and assignments in our navy and army by the heads of those departments.

"Certainly this national disaster should cause us to make further searching inquiry into the knowledge, ability, and outside interests of the men entrusted to the direction and development of our national defense as we move into the all-out war effort on all fronts and before they spread abroad our American youth and distribute our national resources to the four corners of the earth."

Points at Roosevelt.

While administration supporters dwelt on the culpability of Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short and minimized the responsibility of higher authorities, many senators and representatives who have been critical of the Roosevelt war policies from the start were disinclined to exempt the President himself as commander in chief of the armed forces from a share of the blame. Typical of this view was the comment of Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.]

"I've never believed," said Hoffman, "that the commanders on the islands should be held entirely responsible for the Pearl Harbor disaster. Surely, a major portion of the blame should be placed upon the shoulders of the occupant of the White House as the commander in chief of the armed forces at home and abroad, and those directly responsible to him.

Report Termed Inadequate.

"The report plainly ignores the responsibility of the secretaries of the war and navy departments, Henry Stimson and Frank Knox. It states that Knox and Stimson were in constant touch with Secretary Hull on the question of the Japanese negotiations. Why, then, did not these secretaries issue specific instructions as to exactly what was to be done to protect American soil from an invader? Was it, because of their very lack of qualifications for the offices they are holding, that they didn't know? Then it fell upon the chief of staff and the chief of naval operations to issue the order and see that it was carried out.

"The report, which is vague on these points, is good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough in dealing out the blame to officials responsible to the American people for the security of the nation."

Rep. Paul Shafer [R., Mich.], emphasized the failure of administration officials in Washington to see to it that orders for the defense of Hawaii were carried out by the commanders on the scene.

Exoneration Questioned.

"The report made it plain," said Shafer, "that the President's committee was determined to exonerate the heads of the departments of state, war, and navy, which was to be expected of a group composed, with one exception, of army and navy officers. However, there is still a serious question in my mind whether or not Secretaries Hull, Stimson, and Knox should be exonerated in the light of certain facts in the committee's finding.

"There was obviously a serious laxness on the part of officials in Washington in seeing that their orders were carried out, especially when they were more fully aware of the Japanese situation than officers thousands of miles away could have been. Why the island commanders were not held to a more strict accounting of their actions in response to orders from Washington before it was too late is a question which the committee has not answered. It must be answered before the matter can be considered to be settled to the satisfaction of 130,000,000 citizens."

The point that the fundamental responsibility for the greatest naval disaster in our history rests with the high administration officials who formulated the national war policy was stressed by Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], a majority member of the senate naval affairs committee. He said the Roberts commission should be greatly commended for the expedition with which it performed its work and for the fair and patriotic report which it submitted to the President. The administration is to be commended, he said, for the promptness with which it made the report public.

Demands Other Probes.

"But," said Sen. Gillette, "I feel that there are findings in the report which clearly indicate that supplemental investigations should be made. It is evident that there was either dereliction of duty or lack of sound judgment somewhere along the line of the development of policy, making the raid as successful as it was and perhaps contributing to the false sense of security.

"Whether further action will be taken by the Roberts board or initiated or carried on by other agencies, I am not prepared to say, but I anticipate further action."

Outright neglect of duty was imputed to Secretary Knox by Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.].

"The report," said Sen. Clark, "is a shocking exhibition of neglect of duty. It seems to me that if Secretary Knox hadn't been so constantly engaged in making speeches telling how quickly we could knock the Japs over, his subordinates might have been better advised as to what was going on."

The failure of Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short to carry out integrated measures to prevent a surprise attack caused numerous legislators to suggest legislation for a unification of navy and army command for war operations. Sen. Robert M. La Follette [P., Wis.] reflected this view and also pointed to passages in the Roberts commission report indicating that the higher authorities in Washington clearly share the responsibility for the disaster.

Points to Administration.

"It seems to me," said Sen. La Follette, "that the report should result in a thoro congressional investigation of the feasibility and advisability of a more unified organization of defense. Secondly, while the report fixes primary responsibility on the commanders in Hawaii and while there isn't any doubt of their negligence, it shouldn't be overlooked that the report twice mentions the fact that the administration apparently shared the view that an attack on Hawaii was impossible."

Sen. La Follette said he referred first to the statement in the report that "there are and have been diverse views of national policy respecting the basing of the entire United States fleet at Pearl Harbor," and secondly to the statement in the report that the failure of the army and navy commanders in Hawaii to confer and coöperate with respect to the warnings received by them "resulted largely from a sense of security due to the opinion prevalent in diplomatic, military, and naval circles and in the public press that any immediate attack by Japan would be in the far east."

Rep. John D. Dingell [D., Mich.] recalled that on the day after the Pearl Harbor attack he demanded court martial proceedings be instituted against the responsible army and navy officials, the first to urge this step from the floor of congress.

"The Roberts report bears me out in every particular," he asserted. "It is a case of criminal negligence and confirms all my fears and deductions of what happened in Hawaii. While I am satisfied that the blame has been placed largely where it belonged, I am not satisfied that all the other officials should have been completely exonerated.

"In my opinion, Gen. Arnold [H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps] and Gen. Brett [Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, formerly chief of the army air corps and more recently named deputy commander of allied forces in the far east] bear part of the responsibility for the lack of equipment and the failure of the air force in a crucial time. It is hard to see how Gen. Martin [Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Martin, commander of the Hawaiian air forces who was removed when Adm. Kimmel was relieved] could be exonerated. While second in command, certainly his actions were not so circumscribed as to prevent the air force from being ready when it was needed. Nor is there adequate explanation for the manner in which the air force was destroyed on the ground.

Back Into Bread Line.

"No time should be lost in punishing those responsible. When high army and navy officials, to whom the people entrust the safety and security of the nation, are found wanting in an hour of peril they should be kicked out of the services and back into the bread line."

A widely held view that the Pearl Harbor disaster was the price the nation paid for the President's policy of diverting American armament to the defense of the British empire was voiced by Rep. Melvin J. Maas [R., Minn.], ranking minority member of the house naval affairs committee:

"Our splitting of our Pacific fleet may have saved England, but it cost us what we lost in the Pacific," said Maas. "The Japanese would never have attacked Pearl Harbor if we had not split our fleet. They did not send troops into Indo-China until we did weaken the Pacific fleet.

Coördination Lacking.

"To me the great tragedy is the fact that the Pearl Harbor disaster was partly due to a lack of coördination between the army and the navy. If there had been one man in charge in Hawaii the Japanese attack would not have been successful."

Maas recalled that he has had pending for a number of years legislation providing for a joint army and navy staff, but that he never could get any action on it because of army and navy opposition.

Rep. Harry Sauthoff [P., Wis.] called for immediate, public court martial.

"I am not satisfied that the high officials of the government were not at least partially responsible for the Pearl Harbor disaster," he said. "Therefore, these men who have been found guilty in the Roberts report should be court martialed and permitted to put up the best defense possible even if it hits cabinet officers.

Recalls Gen. Mitchell.

"The war department lost no time in court martialing Billy Mitchell and Col. Muhlenberg for telling the truth.

[Col. William Mitchell, formerly assistant chief of the army air service with the rank of brigadier general, was court martialed in 1924 for criticizing army and navy policy regarding air power. He resigned from the army after conviction and died in 1935 before most of his policies and prophecies regarding air power, including the vulnerability of battleships to air attack and the advantages of unified air command, were spectacularly vindicated in the present war. Congress recently voted him the post-mortem rank of major general. Col. H. C. Kress Muhlenberg, formerly commandant at Hickam field, Hawaii, was acquitted by a general court martial last week of charges that he improperly criticized the government in discussing the attack on Hawaii in a speech before a flying club. Col. Muhlenberg said Hawaiian defense had been impaired by dispersing American planes all over the world.]

"There is no reason why there should be any delay in instituting similar proceedings against these fellows who have been charged directly with being derelict in their duty. The court martial should be open to the public so the people can have full knowledge of the defense they put up, regardless of whom it involves.

"The report is an amazing recital of utter disregard for all warnings. It confirms statements that the equipment at Pearl Harbor and, I take it, the islands in general, was not what it should have been. But, of course, we couldn't have planes at Hawaii and give them away to other countries at the same time.

Why, God Only Knows.

"Most amazing in my opinion is the news that our airplane detector service went off duty at 7 o'clock—why, God only knows—the fact that an enemy submarine got inside the harbor and no precautions were taken . . . and the fact that a noncommissioned officer detected the planes before the attack, transmitted the knowledge to a lieutenant who did not think the knowledge of enough consequence to report it further. It was an astounding set of circumstances combining to bring about the greatest tragedy in American military history.

"If we had had a separate and unified air force, which would have been fully equipped and on guard, the Japs would never have had a chance. Again Gen. Billy Mitchell has been proven right in his warnings to this country years ago."

Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], ranking member of the house foreign affairs committee, said he thought the report a fine one as far as it went, but that it was woefully weak in explaining the failure of the war and navy departments to make clear to the officials on the islands the exact situation with regards to Japan. He criticized the "guess work" of the departments in leaving it to subordinates to take precautions and the apparent absence of a check up by the departments to determine what was being done to safeguard the islands.

"I am not satisfied that the complete story is being told," he said. "The report is very clear that the commanding officers ought to have taken certain precautions and that they did not take them. But that is as far as it goes. It seems evident that the United States had served an ultimatum on Japan, but the report does not make clear whether the departments in Washington made this definite to the leaders on the islands.

"No Check-ups Made."

"You can't just say you are negotiating and let it go at that, especially when you know that the next step may lead to war. That is where the criticism of the administration is emphasized. The war and navy departments should have made it plain to their commanders that an ultimatum had been served, if this was the case, and that war might come at any time.

"There was too much guess work about what the generals were doing and no check-up made from Washington to follow thru the important orders. The departments failed to get any acknowledgement of their messages. None of this is made clear in the report, which is its chief weakness. It should have been more specific as to what blame is attached to the higher officials."

DRIVE SHATTERS HITLER'S WINTER LINE, REDS CLAIM

Capture Town 170 Miles Northwest of Moscow.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26 [Monday] (AP).—Adolf Hitler's winter line has been virtually wiped out from end to end and mopping up operations are progressing rapidly in a vast triangle southwest of Moscow from the area of Smolensk to Kursk, the Russians reported tonight.

The midnight communique announced that soviet forces driving westward had recaptured Nelidovo, on the Moscow-Riga railroad 170 miles northwest of the capital.

Weather hardened Red troops, making the most of the severest winter conditions experienced by continental Europe in many a decade, were declared further to have occupied 54 additional populated centers in their great uninterrupted advance.

Areas Purged of Germans.

Russian sources said cleanup operations were in full swing in the area east of a 270 mile line running from the vicinity of Smolensk, heretofore Hitler's main headquarters, to Orel and Kursk.

The Moscow region and that around Tula, 100 miles south of the capital, have been "completely freed of Germans," these informants said. They added that the Kalinin sector, 95 miles northwest of Moscow, similarly is being purged.

Spearheads of the Russian offensive already have swept far west of these points and the Germans were declared on the run before the still charging Red forces. The soviet information bureau said that from Jan. 16 to 22 a total of 694 inhabited places were liberated.

50 Miles West of Rzhev.

Nelidovo is 50 miles west of Rzhev, soviet encircled northern anchor of the shattered German front before Moscow, and was by-passed in the Russian drive last week to Kholm.

Zapadnaya Dvina, 30 miles west of Nelidovo, already is in soviet hands and Red army units are striking from there toward Veliki Luki, next important point on the rail line running to the Latvian border.

Deepening wedges were reported steadily driven by Red forces from Kholm southward to Toropetz, a broad, 50 mile line described as "the spinal column of the entire front." Thus the Russians were pressing a vast double pincers aimed at flanking the Germans south of Leningrad and in the Smolensk area.

Fresh Reserves Brought Up.

Fresh reserves brought in from east of the Ural mountains were reported thrown into the battle by Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, who is directing the soviet offensive. Voroshilov's forces were declared now to be within some 65 miles of cutting all communications between the German armies of the center and south and those on the Leningrad front.

With a surprise attack in the Donetz basin, southern Russian armies have advanced 12 miles in 20 hours and recaptured 13 villages, frontline dispatches said.

The midnight communique announced the sinking of a 5,000 ton German transport in the Barents sea [a part of the Arctic].

A supplement to the midnight communique reported that soviet planes yesterday destroyed five German troop trains, smashed three infantry battalions and a cavalry squadron.

Say Hitler Moves to Minsk.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—The British radio broadcast today a Stockholm report that Adolf Hitler had abandoned his personal headquarters behind the Russian front at Smolensk and moved to Minsk, 200 miles farther west and near the old Russian-Polish border.

Reds Attack Near Kharkov.

BERLIN, Jan. 25 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The Red army, strongly supported by tanks and aviation, made fierce and repeated assaults in the Kharkov region in the eastern Ukraine but all were respulsed, the high command declared today.

German dispatches also reported similar assaults in the Valdai hills south of Leningrad, but said these likewise were thrown back in fierce cold. German bombers were credited with sinking a small transport in the Arctic waters off the Rybachi peninsula.

[The German radio said the Russians were repulsed in an attempt to land 200 men in the rear of Nazi troops encircling Sevastopol, the big Russian Black sea naval base. The Rome radio told of another soviet sortie in the Crimea, where it said the Russians "took advantage of the fact that the great lagoon around the northeastern Crimean coast is frozen over, and managed to land about 1,200 men." It added, however, they were taken prisoners by the Germans.]

Plotting Anti-Submarine Strategy

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

ARMY, NAVY, AIR COMMANDS UNIFY DEFENSE OF EAST

3 Arms Report Full Co-ordination.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—A joint statement from army and navy headquarters here disclosed today that the two service branches had established "a closely coördinated defensive and offensive network system" to protect America's eastern seaboard from enemy attack.

Lack of complete navy-army liaison at Hawaii was criticized by President Roosevelt's special investigation committee as a cause of the Pearl Harbor disaster Dec. 7.

The joint statement issued here said that land, sea, and air patrols were jointly directed by a command triumvirate consisting of Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding general of the eastern army forces; Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, commander of the North Atlantic naval coastal frontier, and Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commanding the first air force.

In Constant Communication.

"Thru elaborately prepared methods of liaison they are available to each other 24 hours a day," the statement said, "and the forces available to them mesh into unified action within a matter of seconds of the receipt of an alert or any activity by enemy surface or air forces along the Atlantic coast.

"This arrangement has been in force for some time and insures close coördination of these services with definite objectives in view."

The statement said that Gen. Drum, Adm. Andrews, and Gen. Krogstad met frequently to perfect coördination at a secret installation in metropolitan New York which acts as a nerve center and operations base for the joint far-reaching patrols.

Details Still Are Secret.

Pointing out that secrecy surrounding the joint army-navy operations network had first been lifted in an authoritative statement in Washington last week that several enemy craft which had attacked shipping along the Atlantic seaboard would not make the "two-way trip," the statemen said:

"Details of the plan must still continue to be secret, but the comforting thought for men and women in American homes along the Atlantic seaboard is contained in this account of close and continuous coöperation between all defending army, navy, and air forces.

"Specially trained staffs of officers and enlisted specialists of sea, air, and ground forces," it concluded, "are on permanent detail, day and night, both in the secret headquarters and in the widely disseminated command posts of the units involved."

WOMAN ACCUSES EX-FELON SEIZED AS RAPE SUSPECT

Charles Jackstavich.

Charles Jackstavich, 30 years old, an ex-convict who gave his address as 3518 West 39th street, was identified at the detective bureau showup yesterday by a woman who said he attacked her Saturday night in an apparent attempt at rape.

The woman, Mrs. James Devine, 3130 West 38th place, said Jackstavich seized her at 38th street and Albany avenue and knocked her down. She said she struggled with him, managed to elude his grasp, and fled. "I don't remember," was Jackstavich's only comment.

Jackstavich was seized earlier yesterday in a tavern near Archer and Western avenues for questioning concerning recent assaults and rapes in the Brighton Park district.

Vichy Denies Axis Planes Use Its African Bases

VICHY, France, Jan. 25 (AP).—The ministry of colonies officially denied today that any axis planes had made use of its airdromes to bomb Fort Lamy in Free French equatorial Africa.

(The Free French, announcing the bombing of Fort Lamy on trans-African air routes last week by a twin-motored axis plane, said it was presumed the raider had refueled at a Vichy-controled airport in North Africa because of the distance from Libya.)

Three Naval Commands Reshuffled by British

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—The admiralty announced tonight a reshuffle of naval commands at Rosyth, Scotland, on the Mediterranean island of Malta and in the Orkney and Shetland Islands. Vice Adm. Sir Wilbraham T. R. Ford was promoted to admiral and ordered from Malta to Rosyth, effective about April. Vice Adm. Ralph Leathan was named to replace Ford at Malta, effective Jan. 19, and Vice Adm. L. V. Welles was appointed commander of the Orkneys and Shetlands station effective Jan. 7.

LONDON THRONG HAILS VISITING SOVIET WORKERS

Top Production Needed to Win, British Told.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Thousands of Londoners today gave uproarious welcome to Russian trade union delegates on the occasion of their first public appearance in this country at a demonstration held in Empress hall. Singing of the "Internationale" preceded the speeches.

Sir Walter Citrine.

Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress general council, said in his address that "altho Russian victories have given hope and inspiration to the whole world, and have shattered forever the myth of German invincibility, the end of the struggle has not yet come. Russians are wisely looking forward to a period of bitter trial."

Urges More Aid.

Sir Walter warned that there would be a resumption of the German offensive next spring, and that Britain should try to use these intervening months to do something practical to help her Russian allies.

"It is no use proclaiming our aid to soviet Russia unless we follow that up with some manifestation of what is meant," he said.

"When the [Russian] delegates draw up their reports, after visiting the war factories all over the country, they will not all be flattering to us," he predicted, "for some shortcomings will be found."

Expect Top Production.

"The Russians are convinced," he asserted, "that without maximum production in this country, it is entirely impossible to implement the pledge [of aid] we made in Moscow on your behalf."

N. M. Shvernik, leader of the Russian delegation, declared that Russia represented "one single armed camp ready not only to fight but to win." The Russian people are unconquerable and will take full retribution, he assured his listeners. "They and the army live with but one aim—to smash and annihilate the enemy."

REDS TO TAKE BERLIN, THEN DEAL WITH JAPS, SAYS CORLISS LAMONT

Corliss Lamont.

Corliss Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont, of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., last night predicted that the Russian army would march to Berlin in 1943 and added, "It might even happen before that." Lamont, who has toured soviet Russia twice, is in Chicago to speak tonight before the Professional and Business Men's forum in the Congress hotel.

"Hitler," Lamont said, "has suffered an enormous defeat, altho he is not licked yet. Stalin will take proper action against Japan in the far east after Russia has beaten Hitler in Europe."

RUMANIA INTERNS 2 EX-OFFICIALS, TWELVE OTHERS

Marshal Antonescu.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 25 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Fourteen Rumanians have been sent to a concentration camp on the orders of Chief of State Marshal Antonescu for "leading a dissolute life of pleasure at a time when the Rumanian army is fighting for justice and honor and a united country is making sacrifices."

They include the former cabinet director, Radu Lobel, and former press undersecretary, Eugene Titeanu.

Report 150 Under Arrest.

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 25 (AP).—Dispatches from Bucharest said tonight that at least 150 persons had been arrested there for opposing the policies of the axis-aligned Rumanian government, including 14 former political leaders.

Did Not Conform.

A communique said that their attitude did not conform to that necessary for the safeguarding of the country and that they had manifested their beliefs.

Just a year ago Bucharest was the scene of street fighting during a shortlived revolutionary attempt.

Hear Rumanians in Russia Urge Revolt in Homeland

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—The Moscow radio said tonight that a conference of Rumanian prisoners in Russia had adopted a resolution urging Rumanian soldiers to lay down their arms and overthrow the régime of Gen. Ion Antonescu.

BALDNESS CAN BE PREVENTED

Science has never discovered a way to grow hair on a bald head—and baldness remains a permanent condition except in very rare cases to the unfortunates so afflicted, but rapid strides have been made by John E. Warner and his associates in the prevention of baldness. Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation—and in every case honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful. Many cases treated have resulted in a more luxuriant growth of hair and a greatly improved appearance. Each case is studied individually and constantly and each person treated is given detailed instructions on scalp hygiene at the conclusion of the treatment so that a healthy head of hair is a permanent condition. Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN—NOT IN ADVANCE. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. daily, Saturdays to 6 P. M.

There is a separate department for women. Other Warner offices located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcer Pains

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcer pains caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Walgreen, Stineway and drug stores everywhere.

20,000 TON LINER HIT IN LARGE AXIS CONVOY TO LIBYA

Great Tank and Infantry Battle Rages in Desert.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 25 (AP).—British bombers and torpedo planes have intercepted the largest axis convoy ever sent into the central Mediterranean bearing reënforcements for the German-Italian counterattack in Libya—and probably destroyed a 20,000 ton liner, set another transport afire and torpedoed a destroyer. A battleship, a cruiser, and one other merchantman also may have been hit.

The convoy was escorted by a battleship, four cruisers, and 15 destroyers. A torpedo attack was launched against the battleship which started violently on a zigzag course, and the flyers were unable to tell whether the explosive had found its mark.

Planes Launch Three Torpedoes.

Three torpedoes, launched by naval planes, found the flanks of the great liner which previously had been set afire by bombs. The next day, when the convoy was moving at slower speed toward Tripoli, western Libya, the liner was not seen, and one of two remaining ships was afire.

The attack started Friday night and continued in daylight the following morning. A torpedo crashed into the stern of a destroyer, causing a violent explosion.

"It was thought that one of the cruisers and two merchantmen were also hit," the communique added.

British imperial and axis land forces, meanwhile, were engaged in a great tank and infantry battle in a vast triangle extending to a point 40 miles east of Agedabia, and upon this battle may hinge the fate of Britain's hard won advance 300 miles across the desert wastes of Libya.

Split in Small Columns.

Fighting in the Agedabia triangle was described as "confused with opposing forces split up into a number of small columns." The Germans had made a 130 mile thrust since the offensive was sprung from El Aghelia at the base of the Gulf of Sirte three days ago. Some of the axis forces were located heading for Antelat, some 50 miles to the northeast of Agedabia.

The conflict shifted a little to the east and northeast of Agedabia, the British communique showed, precipitating sharp fighting southwest of Saunnu, 42 miles east of Agedabia. Antelat is 20 miles northwest of Saunnu and considerably inland from the Gulf of Sirte.

The direction of the battle seemed to indicate that Nazi Gen. Erwin Rommel was pointing the spearheads of the recently reënforced axis army toward Mekili, in an attempt to bypass Bengazi and other Mediterranean coastal points, made hazardous by the guns of the British navy.

Pilot Bails Out Before Army Plane Strikes House

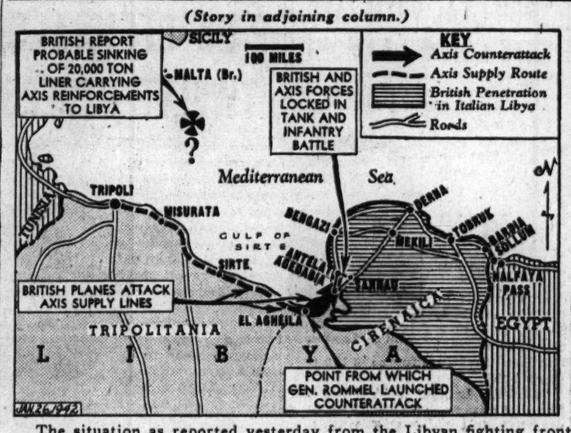
Everett, Wash., Jan. 25 (AP).—An army pursuit plane crashed in a residential district today after the pilot bailed out over the bay because of engine trouble. No one was injured. Col. A. C. Strickland, Paine field commanding officer, said the flyer, Lieut. Laune C. Erickson, Salt Lake City, Utah, was pulled out of the bay. The plane sidewiped one unoccupied house, cut thru a large maple tree and crashed into the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Iverson.

Hershey Warns U. S. Arms Demands Will Triple Jobs

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, asserted tonight America's industrial manpower must be tripled in the next 12 months to keep pace with demands for equipment of the expanding military forces. If the war is long, he told the annual secretaries' conference of the Indiana State Medical association, it might be necessary for partly disabled and older men to take over industrial jobs.

Armies Locked in Desert Battle

(Story in adjoining column.)



The situation as reported yesterday from the Libyan fighting front is told in captions on the map. British sources said the progress of the battle against the Nazi counterattack was "confused."

QUINT'S AILING LEG EXAMINED; REPORT DELAYED

Condition Not Serious, Specialists Indicate.

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 25 (AP).—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Emilie fidgeted with curiosity just outside the door of a bedroom in their nursery here today while two orthopedic specialists examined Marie, smallest of the sisters Dionne, for suspected muscular atrophy of one leg.

The results of the examination, by Dr. John Laing McDonald of Toronto, appointed by the Ontario provincial government, and Dr. Roma Amyot of Montreal, called in by the Dionne family physician, were not announced.

Keith Munro, business manager of the 7 year old quintuplets, said afterward, however, that he had been authorized by Dr. McDonald to announce that no serious lesion [injury or hurt] had been found.

Ordered by Premier.

The examination was ordered Friday by Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario after receipt of a report from Dr. I. Joyal of North Bay, the Dionne family physician, who had examined Marie's leg at the request of the quintuplets' father, Oliva Dionne, during a recent absence of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, personal physician to the little girls.

Dr. Dafoe, Papa Dionne, Dr. Joyal and the quintuplets' nurse, Gertrude Provincher, were in attendance at the consultation and examination which took two hours.

The quintuplets took the arrival of the strangers in their stride. They frolicked with the party for a while until Marie, without protest, was separated from the others and taken into the bedroom.

All Are Examined.

Then the other four gathered at the bedroom door and talked in whispers. Once during the two hours Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Emilie were ushered into the bedroom so that Dr. McDonald and Dr. Amyot might look briefly at all their legs.

When the examination was ended the children, Marie included, played together as usual and spent some time outside in the spring-like air, skating on their playground rink.

It was believed that nothing further would be known on the findings of the two doctors until their report is handed to the Ontario government. It is thru the provincial government that the quintuplets are wards of the crown.

GIRL FOILS PURSE SNATCHERS.

Miss Irene Carter, 25 years old, was knocked down by a purse snatcher near her home at 1427 East 66th street yesterday morning. She clung to her purse and screamed until her assailant fled empty handed. Miss Carter said he was a man about 28 years old who wore a small mustache.

Blizzard Hits Scotland and Northern England

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—A blizzard swept northern England and Scotland from coast to coast 10 days ago, isolating towns and threatening vital supply routes. In Glasgow a 12 inch snow blanketed the business section. Near Fort William buses and trucks were buried in 20 foot drifts. Small towns in Northumberland and Durham were cut off for days.

ENGLISH MINERS DEFIANTLY VOTE TO KEEP STRIKING

Demand Release of Three Jailed Officers.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Bettershanger coal miners in Kent who have been on strike for 16 days met this morning at a massmeeting which reports describe as the largest ever held in Deal, and unanimously decided not to resume work until the management has agreed to meet their terms. This decision amounts to open defiance of the letter strikers received Saturday morning from the management urging them to return to work immediately in the national interest.

Altho the strike originated from a wage dispute, the defiant attitude of the miners and their decision to flout the orders of the management is reportedly the result of the bitter resentment they feel over the conviction and imprisonment Friday of three of their union officials, as well as the fine of 3 pounds [about $12], with the alternative of one month in jail, imposed on 35 workers.

The miners will make strong representation to obtain the release of the three officials. They declare that "we will go to work as soon as the management meets our terms. In regard to the fines levied upon us, we just cannot pay until we earn some money."

Describing sentences imposed on the three union officials as "harsh and vindictive," Emmanuel Shinwell, Labor party member of parliament, in a speech at Murton, in Durham, yesterday, drew a parallel between these sentences, and the small fines imposed on food racketeers.

He also declared that the workers were not prepared to brook this kind of distinction, and that protests against the sentences would be made with the object of achieving rectification within a few days.

PERSONAL LOANS

Our Low Rates SAVE You Enough to Make One Payment on Your Loan

IF YOU intend to borrow, read these facts about loan costs. It will take you only a few minutes. Yet it may save you as much as $21 on a $200 loan—or nearly $30 on a $300 loan—for one year. That's certainly worthwhile!

Here's the Proof

Use this quick, easy way to see how much you can save at Merchandise Bank—or how much you really have to pay elsewhere.

Before you borrow, multiply the amount of the required monthly payment by the number of payments. That will show you how much more you have to pay back than you get.

Consider this example: On a typical advertised plan elsewhere, a $200 loan calls for 12 monthly payments of $19.36. You will be paying back $232.32. But you only get $200. Hence the loan actually costs you $32.32.

A Monthly Payment Saved

At Merchandise Bank a $200 loan repayable in 12 months costs you only $11 (equal to only 1½c a day for each $100!). That is our total charge for a loan with one co-maker, the basis on which many people prefer to borrow because the cost is lowest.

You save $21—more than enough to make a monthly payment on your loan! And, without extra cost, you get Life Insurance which pays the loan in the event of your death and relieves your family and co-maker of all obligation.

On Signature Only

If you prefer, you can borrow here on your signature, in which case a $200 loan to be repaid in 12 months would cost you $16. You save $16.32—more than half of the cost in the example above.

(a) over 21 years of age.
(b) employed 2 years on present job with established concern.
(c) $100 or more monthly income.

Low Monthly Payments

Because our loan costs are less, your monthly payments also are less here. See (and compare) this table of typical monthly payments.

AMOUNT OF NOTE	EASY MONTHLY PAYMENTS
	12 Months	6 Months
$100	$ 8.33	$16.66
200	16.66	33.32
300	25.00	50.00
500	41.66	83.32
750	62.50	125.00

Amounts up to $2,500

PARAGUAY ENDS AXIS RELATIONS; 3 MORE TO ACT

Uruguay Hands Envoys Their Passports.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 25.—While delegates to the Pan-American conference of foreign ministers rested and enjoyed Brazilian hospitality today, news was received that Paraguay has broken diplomatic relations with the axis powers, following similar action by Uruguay and Peru Saturday.

In Montevideo the Japanese, German, and Italian ministers to Uruguay were handed their passports and Uruguayan representatives in the axis countries were notified to leave immediately. The Uruguayan cabinet met and approved the breaking of relations as recommended by the Rio conference.

Brazil, Bolivia, and Ecuador are expected to break soon with the axis. Argentina and Chile have indicated they will not break relations.

Work on Resolution.

Committee meetings were the only activities of the conference today as the delegates prepared to adjourn Tuesday. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Brazilian Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha were endeavoring to phrase a resolution declaring the allies of the United States nonbelligerents so that Argentina and Chile would accept it.

Gabriel Turbay, Colombian delegate, was the star orator last night when 21 delegates discussed the Atlantic charter. He emphasized the need of fighting totalitarianism with every possible weapon.

Brazil played host to the newspaper men at the conference today, inviting them to the resort town of Petropolis to see the new resort hotel of Quitandinha, now half completed, which will be the largest and most modern in South America.

Vargas Praises Welles.

President Getulio Vargas received the reporters and made a short speech praising the work of the conference and the energy of Sumner Welles, to whom he said goes the largest share of credit for its success.

Ministers from Ecuador and Peru are working with Welles and Aranha to put the final touches on the boundary dispute settlement between the two countries.

While Argentina's obstructionist policy won her much adverse publicity, senior delegates expressed the opinion that she will coöperate far beyond expectations when the time comes.

Nazi Night Raiders Appear Over Southwest England

Active Across Dover Strait.

FOLKESTONE, England, Jan. 25 (AP).—RAF fighter squadrons were more active over Dover strait today than at any other time in the last two weeks and many attacks were believed to have been delivered in German occupied France. Squadrons flew back over the coast from the directions of Calais and Boulogne.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.
What event in your life contributed most toward making you grow up or mature?

WHERE ASKED.
Lincoln building, 3166 North Lincoln avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Walter J. Scheringa, interviewer for loan company, 4318 Laramie avenue—I hadn't given much serious thought to growing up—not even in my high school days. Then came the crash of '29. Instead of college I worked during the day and in the evenings I went to night school. That heavy schedule made me get down to business.

Mrs. William J. Pearson, housewife, 1742 Wellington avenue—When I was only 17 we moved to Chicago from a small city. A year of city life did a lot to mature me, but added to that was my share of responsibility in trying to earn some money for my four younger brothers and sisters. For a whole year I was the only wage earner in the family.

Mrs. F. B. Wensel, teacher, 2738 Pine Grove avenue—It wasn't an event but just the position I held in the family that did more toward making me old for my age than anything else. I was the oldest of three girls and every one depended on me to be the responsible one when we were at home or out together.

A. W. Trebilcock, insurance salesman, 9319 Pleasant avenue—Life never was a very serious business with me and I'm afraid that my parents thought I never would be anything more than just a kid. But then I joined the navy. A year and three months really did things for me. My parents were well pleased with the change.

Mrs. J. Bieschke, housewife, 1704 Barry avenue—When I was 14 my grandmother moved to our city to live with us. She was very ill and was in bed for a year. I spent much time keeping her company and being quiet about the house. Then she died. It was the first death in the family and I think it had a sobering effect on me.

Dr. A. G. Sprecher, dentist, 5520 Glenwood avenue—I really believe I took my time in growing up but there was an event in my later life that aged me plenty. A major operation that kept me down for more than two months gave me much time for contemplation and I came out of that with a new outlook.

4 'TRUNK BANDITS' LOUDLY ACCUSED BY THEIR VICTIMS

Put Under Special Guard at Police Showup.

Twenty-five middle aged and prosperous men, most of them indignant because they had been crammed into the trunks of their own cars after being robbed by a holdup gang, pointed out four men as the robbers yesterday at a showup in the detective bureau.

A number of the victims were accompanied by their wives. The couples were so loud in their denunciation of the robbers that a special guard to protect the accused men was established by Walter Storms, deputy chief of detectives.

The victims lined up after the showup, all eager to be the first to sign a complaint.

Confess 40 Holdups.

The men accused as the trunk bandits are: Harold Fleeger, 21 years old, seized at 854 East 64th place, and Vernon Haynes, 24, Owen Enos, 18, and Gerald Fleeger, 42, all arrested at 6417 Maryland avenue. Harold Fleeger and Haynes deserted from the army at Fort Sheridan Dec. 2. Gerald Fleeger is Harold Fleeger's uncle. All were arrested by Sergts. Con Czernikowski and Morris Friedman.

Lieut. Kyran Phelan said the three younger men have confessed participating in 40 holdups, which the police say netted between $6,000 and $8,000. Phelan said that Gerald Fleeger has confessed taking part in one holdup. The gang generally used Gerald Fleeger's car, according to Phelan, while Gerald waited in the neighborhood.

Chief Storms, who conducted the showup, said the bandits' plan was to rob only men of middle age, on the theory that they were more likely to have achieved prosperity and be carrying large sums of money. The robbers, Storms said, would come upon their victim while he was parking his car, take his money, and then shove him into the car's trunk.

Drive to Abandoned Spot.

One of them would drive the victim to some abandoned spot, where the driver would leap out and scramble into the car in which his comrades followed. By the time the victim was able to free himself the gang would have made its getaway.

One of the victims was George Crane, Criminal court lawyer. The gang robbed him of $250 and a $250 watch on Jan. 15 in front of his home at 7754 Crandon avenue. He was about to be jammed into the trunk when he persuaded the robbers to let him go.

"Know him, chum?" asked Storms.

Britain to Permit Food Shipments to Greece

LONDON, Jan. 26 [Monday]—(AP).—The News Chronicle said today Britain plans to relax her blockade to permit food to reach the starving populace of Greece. The newspaper added that arrangements to this effect are expected to be announced at the next session of parliament.

FAIL TO LINK GANG RIDE SUSPECT TO OTHER OFFENSES

Joseph Esposito, ex-convict accused of being one of the men who took Frank Zito on a gangland ride last July 26, was put on display at a detective bureau showup yesterday, but the spectators did not connect him with any other crime.

Joseph Esposito.

Zito's ride was a strange one in gangland annals, for Zito, altho beaten and shot, survived to accuse his assailants. Joe Montana Jr., who killed a policeman in 1923 and went free, already is under sentence of 10 to 14 years in prison for the attack.

Esposito, who is 30 years old, lives at 844 Lytle street. He was arrested Friday by Sergt. Tim O'Connell and a detective squad. Police say Esposito has confessed that he was present when Zito was slugged, but that the prisoner asserts he left the ride party before Zito was shot.

Esposito has demanded his freedom on habeas corpus proceedings to be heard at 10 a. m. today. Habeas corpus actions are usually instituted in behalf of prisoners facing no formal charge. Some observers said that Esposito evidently does not know that the grand jury is reported to have voted a true bill charging him with assault to kill.

SEA LANES RULE CALLED ALLIES' ACE IN THE HOLE

Foreign Policy Report Is Optimistic.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Probably the greatest single military factor now favoring the united nations is their potential control of world trade routes, the Foreign Policy association declared tonight.

In a survey of the shipping situation the association said that "Germany's interior lines of communication can never become the aggressive instrument the allies have at their disposal in control of the seas."

The report warned that unlike the first World war when ships of other nations carried American troops, during this war any substantial expeditionary force will have to be carried by the United States merchant marine.

Balance Called Vital.

The great problem, said the report, is to achieve a proper balance between naval and merchant ship construction. The merchant fleet is vitally important to wartime transport expeditionary forces and supplies, and expert technicians are needed to handle apportionment of shipbuilding facilities, the report said.

"It is estimated," the report continued, "that it takes 17 deadweight tons of shipping to transport a soldier, and 3.4 tons to maintain him 3,000 miles from home. A fleet of 7 million tons would be required to supply 2 million men. On the basis of these figures an American expeditionary force of this size would engage the great bulk of American tonnage that has till now been employed in maintaining a steady flow of raw materials coming into and war supplies going out of the United States."

Half of Tonnage Allocated.

According to the Office of Facts and Figures there were 8,000,000 gross tons of ocean going merchant shipping available to this country when it became involved in the war, but more than 4,000,000 tons, or 50 per cent of this total, had been transferred or allocated out of United States commercial shipping.

A total of 227 ships, or 1,100,000 gross tons, had been transferred to foreign flags; another 200 vessels, totaling 1,500,000 gross tons, had been transferred to the army and navy; and at the President's direction a pool of 2,000,000 tons of shipping has been allotted to "nations resisting aggression." In his annual message to congress this year the President called for building of 8,000,000 tons of shipping this year, and 10,000,000 tons next year.

Herculean Task.

"The Herculean job of building ships for this war tends to overshadow the problem of how to utilize existing tonnage," said the Foreign Policy association's report. "In the last war, as in this one, because of the submarine blockade and the huge military needs, shipping space was the limiting factor in allied resistance. The pivot of the whole wartime economic organization, therefore, was the interallied maritime transport council.

"Until now the countries fighting the axis have not found it necessary to establish a counterpart for the interallied maritime transport council in this war. When they do, by utilizing the talents of American, British, Norwegian, Dutch, and Greek shipping experts as a nucleus, they will have achieved the maximum efficiency, both defensively and offensively, of the chief advantage they have over the axis powers."

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

"I am a practicing physician, unmarried, and 39 years old," writes Dr. E. F. W. in a recent letter to the Friend of the Yanks department. "If I thought that I would be drafted I would apply for one of the commissions which I understand the army is handing out to doctors. But do you think it would be wiser to wait until I actually am called under the draft before asking for a commission?"

Physicians in Demand.

Qualified physicians are wanted by the army. Such men are offered immediate commissions as reserve officers, with rank and pay in keeping with their age and professional qualifications, providing they are between the ages of 21 and 60. Both married and single men are acceptable.

However, if a physician of selective service age waits until he is drafted into the army in the hope that he may somehow win a last minute deferment, the story will be a different one, according to army authorities.

Enter Army as Privates.

Such men will go into the army as buck privates and will live the life of a buck until the army sees fit to appoint them as medical officers. And it is possible that the army might see fit to move slowly in such cases.

QUESTIONS.

Mrs. C. F. K. writes: "I am an old lady of 64, solely dependent upon my only son. He has just been classified 1-A and his local board refuses to listen to our pleas. What can we do?"

ANSWER: Under the selective service system your son is entitled to have his case reviewed by an appeal board, which has the power to change the local board's decision if it sees fit. Have your son go to his local board, contact the government appeal agent of that board, and request that person's help in preparing an appeal. However, the appeal must be made within 10 days after your son is notified of his classification.

Private A. L. H.: "I am now in the army, but I have been told that I could get a commission as an ensign in the naval reserve because of my legal training if only I could get a discharge from the army. Can you tell me if the army would grant such a discharge? I haven't been able to get a definite answer from any officer here in camp."

ANSWER: Army authorities tell me that it would be impossible for you to obtain a discharge for such a reason.

Mrs. G. C. writes: "I am the wife of a Yank who will soon be drafted. When he goes into training would it be possible for me to move to the town nearest his camp? That way we could be together on his evenings and days off. Would the army object to such an arrangement?"

ANSWER: The army would have no objections, but I'm afraid you would find yourself living a gypsy life. Your husband first will be sent to a reception center, then to a training camp, then to a service or combat unit. He may shift from camp to camp any number of times, and you would have a difficult time keeping up with him. Also most army towns are tremendously overcrowded, and living space often is almost impossible to find.

CANNERS PONDER PROBLEMS UNDER SUGAR RATIONING

War Production Aid Will Speak Tomorrow.

The canning industry, one of the nation's largest consumers of industrial sugar, was uncertain yesterday what effect the sugar rationing program announced Saturday in Washington will have on their 1942 production.

Thousands of canners representing the 900 companies who pack 75 per cent of the nation's canned foods were gathered in the Stevens hotel for today's opening session of the National Canners' association.

Tomorrow afternoon, according to an official of the convention, A. E. Bowman, chief of the sugar section of the newly organized war production board, is scheduled to speak.

It is hoped his comments will clarify the extent to which industrial sugar will be rationed.

One Pound Per Week.

The program as outlined by Price Administrator Leon Henderson will limit each person to approximately one pound of sugar per week and will reduce industrial consumption from 40 pounds per capita in 1941 to 27 pounds this year.

Sugar rationing cards will be issued to householders who presumably will have to register in order to obtain them. Other details have not been announced.

The canners' convention will be devoted principally to discussion of the industry's situation in the wartime economy.

Speaks on Army's Needs.

About 25 representatives of federal agencies are scheduled to address the convention and participate in panel discussions. Today Lieut. Col. Paul P. Logan, assistant chief of the subsistence department of the quartermaster general's office in Washington, will discuss the army's needs. John L. Baxter, chief of the canned food section of the WPB, will tell the canners how the government will purchase canned food stocks.

At a meeting yesterday the association's board of directors voted to establish a nutrition research bureau with an executive director and an advisory committee of scientists.

THE ROBERTS REPORT.

The Roberts commission was appointed to determine whether "any derelictions of duty or errors of judgment on the part of United States army or navy personnel" contributed to the success of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The commission found that the admiral and general commanding had been negligent and had committed grave errors of judgment.

No other conclusion could have been reached in the face of the appalling record of blundering carelessness which the committee amassed. As far as the commanding officers are concerned, the finding is conclusive. They failed to cooperate. They failed to prepare against a possible attack from the air. They failed even to make sure that such precautions as they had ordered—like the closing of the net at the mouth of the harbor—were carried out.

At Pearl Harbor many orders necessary to assure the safety of the army and navy were not given and of those given some were not obeyed. For this the commanders, of course, are to blame, but it does not follow that others may not have been culpable also. It will be well to have a further investigation to disclose whether officers and officials senior to the investigators were as untouched by responsibility for the catastrophe as might at first appear.

Toward such an inquiry the Roberts report offers a good many leads. The references to lack of equipment and backwardness of training in the navy and army are particularly illuminating. The commission rightly says that if only the means at hand had been utilized to the full, the extent of the damage would have been greatly lessened; but the fact remains that the most important of the nation's outposts was poorly equipped to defend itself.

"It is true, as we have found," said the commission in a pregnant paragraph of the report, "that due to the enormous demand on the nation's capacity to produce munitions and war supplies there was a deficiency in the provision of materiel for the Hawaiian area. . . . This was well known to the government departments and local commanders." In spite of that fact the secretary of the navy in his annual report, made public only a few hours before the attack, announced to the world that the American navy was fit and ready for whatever might ensue.

This statement was made altho, as the commission says, "the responsible commanders made numerous recommendations to the war and navy departments for additional forces, equipment, and funds which they deemed necessary to insure the defense of the Hawaiian coastal frontier under any eventuality." These requests were not met. The report says "the national situation permitted only a partial filling of these requirements," but it is far from clear that the failure can be excused on any such grounds. There was no restriction on the sending of soldiers to Hawaii. Billions had been appropriated for American defense. There was no obligation on the part of our government to ship planes, guns, and ammunition to foreign theaters of war before our own safety was assured. On this showing Adm. Kimmel and Lieut. Gen. Short were not the only ones who had neglected the defenses of Hawaii.

The commission rightly points to the fact that the messages to the commanders at Hawaii had emphasized the preparations which the Japanese appeared to be making for a descent upon the southwestern Pacific and for sabotage in Hawaii. The commission finds that to that extent the commanders had been misinformed. That doesn't excuse them, but it does show that the staff work in Washington was a good deal less than satisfactory. The Japanese staff knew what was going on in Hawaii, but our intelligence service was not equally well informed about Japanese plans. A commander who had been assured that the enemy was preparing an attack against objectives 4,000 miles away might well concentrate his attention upon offensive rather than defensive plans, as Adm. Kimmel seems to have done. If his mind was directed to a far distant enemy and not to assuring the security of his own command the misleading information from Washington must have been partly responsible.

The Roberts report to some extent refutes the rumors that the defenses of the base were not manned when the attack came. Stories had spread about this country to the effect that half the command was absent on leave after a big night's carouse. This was not the fact; it was not quite that bad. Not half, but only two-fifths of the naval officers were absent from their posts when the bombers arrived.

"Reports from large ships and destroyers that were in Pearl Harbor," says the finding, "show 60 per cent of officers on board and 96 per cent of the men." These figures disclose a shocking state of indiscipline in the navy. In a time of crisis 40 per cent of the officers were granted extended shore leave as against 4 per cent of the men. It was the business of the higher officials and officers in Washington to know what was going on at Pearl Harbor and to remove incompetent and lax commanders. That wasn't done. Washington had failed to make Kimmel and Short toe the line.

It was also the business of the men in Washington to make certain that the officers commanding at Hawaii did not underestimate the air arm. In this connection it must be remembered that the commanding officers were hand picked in Washington. If they lacked imagination and the ability to read the lessons of the war in Europe, they shared their failing with the men who put them in command.

It was not just Kimmel and Short; the army and the navy departments, and almost all the top ranking generals and admirals share the responsibility for the greatest defeat ever inflicted upon the American navy.

TVA TRICKERY.

The house on Friday passed unanimously and sent to the senate a bill appropriating 12½ billions to the war department, principally for plane construction. Slipped in among the military appropriations was $30,000,000 to build another TVA dam. Congressman Lamberson of Kansas sought to introduce an amendment striking out this piece of waste, but was denied recognition by the speaker in favor of Congressman Cannon, the manager of the bill. By a parliamentary trick Mr. Cannon prevented a separate vote on the TVA pork.

Just what it is proposed to do with the dam when it is built is questionable, since private power companies have had all their orders for delivery of additional generating machinery during the present year canceled. The navy needs the factories. Some of the orders were placed a year ago, but deliveries are not expected before 1944. It would provoke a national scandal to divert equipment to the political power project while denying it to industrial areas where it may well be needed for armament production.

The trickery by which the TVA dam was included in the airplane bill was typical. To many of the New Dealers the war is a convenient excuse for promoting socialism. Their invariable reply to pleas for sacrifices and for conservation of raw materials and industrial capacity for the essential purposes of war is, "somebody else, not us."

THE RAILROADS DELIVER.

The disclosure at Washington that since Pearl Harbor some 600,000 troops have been moved with their equipment to new stations will hardly come as a surprise to suburbanites living along the railroads running west from Chicago. For some weeks now they have been hesitant about getting on the far side of the tracks, for fear of being blocked there for a half hour by a succession of freight trains.

The full details of this tremendous movement of men and materials probably cannot be disclosed for military reasons, but enough of the story has been released to show that the railroads of the country did a tremendous job and did it quickly and efficiently. The passenger traffic alone amounted to more than 10 days' normal travel on all the railroads in the country, and was handled without civilian passengers being more than faintly aware of it. Chicago, as the railroad center of the nation, can take pride in this achievement, since the major portion of the movement was necessarily directed from this city and a large part of the traffic passed thru here.

No better test could have been devised of the railroads' readiness to meet any war emergency and of their ability to coöperate closely with military authorities on short notice. If there is any disposition in Washington to repeat the blunder of the last war, when the government took over operation of the railroads and very nearly ruined them in the process, this accomplishment under private management ought to be remembered. The railroads are being run now by the men who know best how to run them and to deliver to the country the greatest transportation effort of which they are capable.

THE ALEXANDRIA RIOT.

The war department has placed the blame for the riot at Alexandria, La., on one military policeman and the civilian police force of the town. In all, 29 Negro soldiers, almost all of them from northern states, were injured. The report condemned the policemen for indiscriminate and unnecessary shooting after one Negro soldier resisted arrest by the military policeman. The investigation is to continue, the war department announces, so that deficiencies in military police control may be corrected.

As long as the department persists in sending colored troops into the Jim Crow belt, just so long can it expect a continuation of such disorders. The experience of the past, from the riot years ago in Brownsville, Tex., to last summer's ugly incident near Gurdon, Ark., should serve as a warning.

The treatment of colored troops in the south will hardly be conducive to a winning morale when they finally face the country's declared enemies.

FOOTNOTE ON READER INTEREST.

The young lady who opens the mail to the Voice of the People has been working overtime since one of our correspondents, signing himself "Justice," expressed his opinion of English sparrows. He reported that he had found food treated with arsenic to be efficacious. The pro-sparrow faction is numerous. The mildest of its suggestions has been that "Justice" ought to be given some of his own sparrow food.

This puts us in mind of a columnist from another city who told us recently that when he wanted to see how widely his column was being read he published a piece on man's best friend and most faithful companion. His observations were to the effect that the mutts were untidy, unsightly, probable disease carriers, and in any civilized community would be rounded up and dispatched to the lethal chamber. He got his response all right and when he told us the story he was visiting in Chicago, whether on business or as a fugitive from his readers we refrained from asking.

This technique is recommended to the various measurers of reader appeal. If you want to find out whether your subscribers are paying any attention to what you say, just insert something, preferably on the mean side, about dogs or cats or our little feathered friends. This is best done just before the annual vacation.

Returning to the sparrows, we feel this is a topic on which we can afford to take a completely neutral stand.

Editorial of the Day

WHERE SOME RUBBER GOES.

[New York World-Telegram.]

At a time when auto tires are being strictly rationed and a still more serious shortage of rubber is definitely threatened it isn't at all comforting to read in the annual report of the United States comptroller general that—

"Considerable investigation has been made during the last few years in order to determine the extent to which the government owned automobiles have been used for the personal convenience of officials and employés of the various departments and establishments, as a result of which it has been disclosed that in many instances officials are provided transportation to and from their homes and that such automobiles [with chauffeur] are used for personal convenience after official hours.

"It has been further disclosed that in a few instances officials and employés keep the cars at their homes over night and week-ends, during which periods they are used for the personal convenience of such officials and employés. The cars are usually provided with gasoline and oil from the government supply at closing time, and, in many instances, upon being returned to the government garages, the tanks are empty, even tho they have not been driven on official business."

READING BETWEEN THE LINES.

As we read the news, war or otherwise, we often see things that are not there. For example:

Maj. Thomas J. H. Trapnell awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in the Philippines.—Unless our memory has gone groggy, 80,000 Chicagoans saw him play football on a bitter cold afternoon in Soldiers' field, when Army and Navy fought it out to a 21 to 21 finish.

* * *

Northwestern university's hospital unit called to Camp Custer.—Among its medical officers we note: Droegmueller, a top-notch pole vaulter for Northwestern; Mohardt, who played football for the Bears and Notre Dame; Kernwein, fleet half back for the University of Chicago in 1924 and 1925, and Fitz, former medical counselor for the Tribune's staff.

* * *

Bernard Cronin, Australian author, suggests dropping bombs into the craters of Japanese volcanoes.—He "made" the first page with this idea a week after it had been suggested in this column. A better scheme would be to toss 10,000 mammoth delayed action depth charges into the Tuscarora Deep. The sea floor there, deepest on earth, is believed to be a vast volcanic crater and the center of Japan's earthquake troubles.

* * *

Japanese land on New Britain.—This island, largest in the Bismarck archipelago, was discovered by Capt. William Dampier, an ex-buccaneer who became an explorer for the British admiralty, in command of the Roebuck, in March, 1700. He named it Nova Britannia. He wrote in his "Voyages": "It is very well inhabited with strong, well-limbed Negroes, whom we found very daring and bold at several places." Germany was in control of these islands from 1885 until 1920; New Britain was then named Neu Pommern.

TO A GIVEN-AWAY DOG.

You've changed—no longer do you play
In quite the same abandoned way.
Your owners call you, and you go
Politely to each one to show
That you've accepted that decree
Which gave to them a part of me.
But then you come with stately pride
Once more to press against my side,
And in your eyes I see the pain
That deep within my heart has lain.

I thought that you'd be better free
The way a dog like you should be:
Free to run, to romp, to play,
To chase a rabbit every day.
Instead, I've placed you in exile,
But only for a little while;
They wouldn't understand, you see,
That you belong to only me,
And in spite of all they've done
Your loyal love is just for one.

On a dark night, cold and still,
I'll be waiting on the hill,
And when the light streams from the door
I'll whistle softly—as before,
Together you and I will race
Across the meadow's stubbled face;
And the revealing light of day
Will find us safely far away. . . .
Ah, Duke, I live for that day when
You'll be at my side again.

Consider the Switchman and His Job.

Did you ever stop to think about the shoes you wear, the food you eat, the furnishings in your home, and how they reached you? A hundred car freight train arrives in the yards and heads in on the lead track—the track that leads to 15 to 25 switch tracks. The hoghead and the skipper wash their faces and go home. Now the snakes and stingers take over. Both words mean the same—it depends on their union membership as to designation, but both are switchmen.

They are the toughest bundles of sun tanned and wind burned rawhide ever gathered together—physically, I mean. Ever try to nail a grab iron when a boxcar was moving 15 miles per hour? They do it daily. They face a yard goat coming at them at 6 to 10 miles per hour, raise the inside foot and mount the running board as nonchalantly as you would light a cigaret. Note—always the inside foot—then if they slip, they are pushed away from the rails, and not between them.

They scoot up the side of a boxcar and decorate the tops as the engine pushes its way thru puzzle switches and in on warehouse tracks. They hang like monkeys on grab irons and pull the pins for flying switches, then unload and nail a car three lengths back to repeat the performance. At times, grab irons and tops are coated with glare ice, but that doesn't even slow them up. Always that lantern in the crook of the left arm. They have the old fortitude and they can have their jobs—I'll push a pencil. Adrian of Arizona.

ELUDE CORONARY MISHAPS.

SOME of these days we hope to shout loud enough to decrease the number of coronary accidents. Arteries grow old and wear out, like rubber bands. When an area of degeneration forms within a coronary vessel, which supplies nourishment to the heart muscle, we should not be astonished when occlusion [plugging] occurs.

Thrombosis may come about abruptly. True enough, there may be brief bouts of discomfort before stoppage is complete. But this in itself should be sufficient warning as the symptom imitates angina pectoris, altho the agonizing stabs may not be related to exertion.

By and large, however, the sudden creation of a dam within one of these pathways is characterized by pain and shortness of breath. Not infrequently, the patient is at rest. Perhaps during the night distress is felt beneath the breastbone and unless something is done promptly it may increase in severity—becoming unbearable.

In the meantime the sufferer tosses about in an attempt to find a comfortable position. When discovered, he may be pressing his hand over the heart. He, perhaps, has regarded the incident as indigestion and may have taken a dose or two of soda. But the agony continues until the physician provides a powerful narcotic.

The above is the usual picture, but there are exceptions. Sometimes pain is slight. The victim, however, will look extremely ill, gasping for breath, with the extremities bluish [cyanotic]. Occasionally, vomiting will be pronounced.

Why are all these signs important? First of all, the cardiac organ has become tremendously embarrassed because it cannot secure enough food. A segment of muscle has been totally deprived of circulation and may be looked upon as paralyzed. The balance of the fibers are carrying on as best they can.

Naturally, we wish to relieve the heart of unnecessary effort. This means rest in bed for a period of approximately six weeks, despite the fact that as soon as pain vanishes the patient may feel as well as ever or, as he puts it, "I am perfectly able to go to work." But time is essential to give the destroyed portion a chance to heal. No activity whatsoever is permitted, as nature is endeavoring to repair an organ while it is on the job. We cannot stop the beats during the rebuilding process.

Much evidence is furnished by the electrocardiogram. The first record taken may be normal, but within two or three days the characteristic changes begin to appear.

Certain aids are of great value in tiding over the first 24 to 48 hours. Oxygen can be supplied. As soon as possible, the diet may be increased from liquids—fruit juices—to about 1,000 calories daily. Reduction for overweights is usually helpful. Resumption of the normal food regimen can well await the return to the office.

Fortunately, recovery is the rule. The outcome will depend upon skilled management and the extent of the injury.

While we can look upon these seizures as "coming from the blue," we know full well that they have been long in the making. Arteries do not spoil over night. It takes years of abuse to prepare a coronary vessel for one of these attacks. We can save hundreds—yes, thousands—of these victims if we can persuade our friends, particularly those who are past 65, never to eat heavy meals, never to run for a train, to shun outbursts of anger, and to develop a judicial mental attitude.

USUALLY NOT.

Mrs. R. K. writes: Is a murmuring heart dangerous?

REPLY.

Not as a rule. It all depends upon the condition of the heart muscle. A narrowed valve orifice [stenosis] may present more symptoms than one that fails to close completely. A murmur is present in both conditions.

NOT A FACTOR.

S. F. T. writes: I am taking calcium for arthritis. Will this cause hardening of the arteries?

REPLY.

No danger. You are probably deficient in this important mineral. Degeneration within the conduits must precede hardening.

THE NEW STRATEGY

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

RENT CEILINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Much has been said recently about controling rents. I am the owner of an apartment building and have been wondering who is going to pay the following increases in operation and maintenance:

Eight and a half per cent in the cost of fuel; 5 per cent in real estate taxes; 15 to 25 per cent in decorating costs, and 7 per cent in water bills.

Are we landlords, who must bear the major share of these increases, asking too much when we raise our rents 5 per cent, or from $42.50 to $45 for a four room apartment with janitor service and refrigeration, and from $52.50 to $55 for a five room apartment? The above are just a few of the increases we must absorb. LANDLORD.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—"Any increase of rents beyond the level of last October must be justified," states Ald. Arthur G. Lindell, "otherwise the federal government will freeze rents."

In other words the tenant gets protection against a hike in his rent by the federal and local governments, but what protection does the landlord get from the rise in local and county taxation?

DR. T. H. MADAY.

SCRAP IRON.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I went down to the basement of my residence and found about 300 to 400 pounds of old iron. I also went down to the basement of our business office and found about 2,000 pounds of old iron.

I think if you could get the Chicago Real Estate board to get all its members to go and help find old tanks, etc., lying around which are of no use we would all be surprised at the amount of old iron that could be found. V. J. CURTO.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 21.—To the collection of scrap iron Oak Park could contribute the useless high iron bar fence and gates that inclose the recently purchased small park grounds at Home avenue and Pleasant place. The fence is crooked and unsightly and there is no need for it at all. How many other similar fences inclosing old residences could be scrapped! Let's go and scrap 'em for the scrap with the Japs! A. F. DANA.

EIRE IS NOT OBLIGATED.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Relative to Eire opening up her harbors for bases for the allied fleet, it would be suicidal for Eire to do other than remain neutral. Were she to open up her harbors it would bring the war directly to her shores. The entire world knows she is in no position to adequately defend herself. Eire owes her independence to her own people, and while she appreciates and will never forget the friendly attitude of these United States, do not forget that Americans of Irish parentage brought about to a large extent this friendly and helpful attitude. M. FLETCHER.

COLORED POLITICAL LEADERS.

Chicago, Jan. 23. — The recent exposé of conditions on the south side relative to the policy racket brings to mind the type of political leadership the Negro people are forced to accept. The 3d ward "gun toting" Democratic Committeeman Mike Sneed has so notoriously conducted himself in office that it is high time that he be cleaned out along with vice conditions now under investigation. DISGUSTED DEMOCRAT.

THE GREAT SPARROW BATTLE.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 22. — The scene: Oak Park elevated station; time, 9 a. m.; event, battle royal between three suburbanites over the last copy of THE TRIBUNE; reason, antis versus sparrowites in Voice of the People.

This writer is a strong anti but will listen to any argument a sparrowite may suggest. OAK PARK.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 23.—I can assure you that the "pro-sparrows" who are protecting these birds are totally ignorant of their habits and economic value, thereby driving our valuable birds from our gardens. A sparrow's life span is 40 years. They forgo the dangers of migration, can live on refuse as a rat does and at the rate they multiply, one can see how they overwhelm birddom.

A few years ago I placed a wren house in our garden, otherwise frequented only by English sparrows. There were constant forays. What chance did a pair of wrens have with 10 or more sparrows ganging up on them each time the female left her nest. All activity about the wren house finally stopped and upon investigation, we found our little wren dead on her tiny eggs, both eyes destroyed.

Our song birds need protection and nothing will be done about these prolific rats of the air until enough interest in valuable birds is aroused to place a bounty on the English sparrow.

"Why should I feel discouraged,
Why should the shadows come,
Why should my heart be lonely,
And long for heaven and home,
When Jesus is my portion?
My constant friend is He:
His eye is on the sparrow,
And I know He watches me.

JOSEPH LASE AND THE NAVY.

Chicago, Jan. 23 — THE TRIBUNE published an article on Jan. 22 announcing that Mrs. Roosevelt has recommended J. P. Lash for a commission in the United States navy. This man has been favoring un-American movements during time of peace and now he is recommended for a commission whether he is qualified or not. I was an officer in the United States army between 1921 and 1937. I have been turned down repeatedly, because of age, for a reserve commission and I am still under the draft age.

When Mr. Lash can be considered from Washington for a commission without any apparent qualifications, and men of my age and position are not worth considering, what is the matter? F. D. G.

WOMEN IN THE ARMY.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Let's keep women out of the army if we are to win this war. A war is a job for men, not for women. What is the matter with our millions of young men? I saw women in the old Austro-Hungarian army. When they started in, that was the beginning of the end of it. Mr. Marshall and Mr. Stimson are for it. If they want some tips, call on me.

ESTATE FEES.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Should an attorney employed by an administrator in administrating an estate take balance of fee before all his work is complete?

2. Should he give a receipt to administrator for balance of fee received?

3. He claims it is unnecessary to give administrator a receipt as he is equally responsible for estate and receipt is on file in his office.

4. How is an administrator fee paid on handling a cash estate? J. M.

1. Ordinarily we would consider it preferable to delay the payment until after the services have been completed.

2. Yes.

3. On the facts stated we would not approve of his refusal.

4. The present statute does not fix a definite percentage. The amount that the court would allow would depend on the extent and quality of the administrator's services. The amount allowed to the attorney would depend on the extent and quality of his services. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RETREADED TIRES AND CAMELBACK MAY BE RATIONED

Order Is Expected Early Next Month.

Camelback, which is used in tire retreading and recapping, will be rationed on or about Feb. 9, it was reported yesterday from Washington, D. C. It also was reported that retreaded tires in the hands of dealers would be rationed.

Frank Bane, director of field operations for the office of price administration, told a meeting of tire rationing administrators and regional directors of the OPA Saturday that retread shops have three or four months work ahead of them already.

The rationing order is expected to include both the best grade camelback [virgin rubber] and second grade camelback.

Move Into New Quarters.

The tire rationing administration for the Chicago area moved into its new headquarters yesterday in the Builders building, 1 North La Salle street. The space, which usually rents for $5,000 a year, will be provided without charge. It was offered to Michael F. Mulcahy, city rationing administrator, by Leo J. Sheridan, agent for the building. The office, with its 1,500 square feet, will adjoin that of the women's division of the civilian defense.

Desks, chairs, filing cabinets, and other furniture were provided by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. Mulcahy said a force of 15 workers will be on the job by Tuesday.

Mulcahy announced that for the first 18 days of the tire rationing program, certificates have been issued for the purchase of 143 passenger tires, 495 truck tires, 104 passenger tubes, and 327 truck tubes.

Expects Increased Demand.

Mulcahy said it was apparent that Chicagoans would not consume their January allotment of 1,988 passenger tires and 3,972 truck tires. He predicted, however, that the number of certificates issued during the last week of January would be considerably larger than during the other three weeks.

The 172 certificates issued between Jan. 16 and Jan. 22, permitted the recipients to buy 68 passenger tires, 52 passenger tubes, 294 truck tires, and 206 truck tubes.

The majority of the certificates—124—were granted under classification "E," which includes public utilities. Physicians were granted 26 certificates. Thirteen others were granted for police, fire, and government vehicles.

Following is the list of certificates granted by the eight tire rationing boards between Jan. 16 and 22:

MONEY STICKS WHEN IT SHOULD GO WINGING ON

So Do Police Guards, Night and Day.

At 11 o'clock Saturday night a neighborhood business man slipped a bag containing a large sum of money into the night depository slot on the Halsted street side of the Mid-City National bank at 801 Madison street.

Half way in, the bag stuck. The business man tugged and pushed and pulled. But half way in and half way out the bag remained.

The business man couldn't leave his money there while he went to telephone for help. He didn't want to stay, because he was carrying still more on his person.

Watchman Comes to Aid.

At last a night watchman discovered his plight and telephoned the Des Plaines street police. Lieut. Joseph Murray sent over two policemen to guard the money and one to escort the depositor back to his own safe with the remaining cash.

But the policemen guarding the money discovered that they had inherited all the depositor's troubles and more. Other night depositors came to drop money in, found they couldn't because the slot was clogged, and didn't want to carry their cash back to the stores.

Busy Escorting Depositors.

The third policeman had to keep on escorting depositors back.

All day yesterday, the guards remained, and all last night. The third policeman continued to convoy night depositors.

This morning, when the bank doors and the vaults reopen after the week-end, experts will try to coax the bag of money in from the inside.

WORKER KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE ON SOUTH SIDE

A man identified thru his workman's badge as Julius Neminety, 45 years old, 4609 Oak street, Hammond, was killed early yesterday at 136th street and Brainard avenue when he was hit by an automobile driven by Stanley Majka, 25, of 13120 Houston avenue, a carpenter.

Andrew Winters, 65, of 1947 Monroe street, died in County hospital late Saturday of injuries received Oct. 15 at Ashland avenue and Jackson boulevard, where he was struck by a car driven by Hymen Hoffman, 25, of 3853 Wilcox street, a postal clerk.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 80 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 62 were killed in Chicago, where 1,616 were injured in the same period.

ENGINEER WHOSE TRAIN KILLED 2 IN AUTO TAKES LIFE

Glen Wadsworth, 54 years old, was found dead yesterday beneath his car on a country road three miles southeast of his home at 1417 Dickens street, Joliet. His overcoat covered his head and the exhaust pipe of the automobile. Police said he had died from inhaling the exhaust fumes.

Police went to his home, where his family told them that Wadsworth was an engineer for the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad. The relatives said he had been worrying over an accident in which his train killed two women in an automobile Dec. 31 near Lake Zurich.

The police report on the accident, however, said that the women's automobile had been driven into the side of the moving train.

65 POUND BABY TAKES A STROLL DAY HE'S BORN

The population of the Brookfield zoo was increased by one baby giraffe yesterday. The baby, named Jiffy, is the offspring of Jack and Minnie Giraffe, who came to the zoo in 1934 and are now about 9 years old.

Robert Bean Jr., assistant director of the zoo, said that Jiffy, a male, is somewhat small for a newborn giraffe, but that he appeared to be full of ginger. Jiffy is just under 5 feet tall, and weighs about 65 pounds. Most baby giraffes are about 5½ feet tall and weigh 75 to 80 pounds.

Living up to his name, Jiffy was walking about, altho wobbling a bit, an hour after he was born.

Soldier on Leave Shot by His Buddy with Air Gun

Private William J. Bailey, 22 years old, of Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., was wounded in the right hand yesterday when an air gun, being handled by his buddy, Private Raymond Conrad, 23, also of Chanute field, was accidentally discharged in the home of Bailey's stepfather, Clarence Rhinevault, 842 North Harding avenue.

2 FREIGHT CARS CRASH IN STREET; TIE UP TRAFFIC

Two runaway freight cars rolled down a 12 foot embankment of the North Western railroad at 1850 Diversey parkway early today, and sprawled across the boulevard, barricading motor traffic.

The cars, both empty, were on the end of a long freight train which was being backed on a dead end track parallel to and west of the viaduct and on the north side of the street. Two brakemen, Thomas J. O'Brien and George Schmiel, leaped just as the cars crashed thru a bumping post at the end of the track and started downward to the street.

The runaways, one a coal gondola, the other a box car, crumbled a brick retaining wall and crashed on the sidewalk, then moved rockily across the pavement to the south side of the street. There they broke off a light pole, which smashed into a warehouse window.

The cars stopped, end to end, north and south, across Diversey parkway.

GIRL WHO STAYS IN GRADE 4 YEARS GETS HEARING AID

Judy Duffy, 12 years old, 1112 South Albany avenue, seemed to have trouble with her school work. She was willing, intelligent—yet she stayed in one grade four years.

Recently her mother, Mary, asked THE TRIBUNE for advice. Sally Joy Brown, feature writer, suggested that Judy be taken to the new hearing aid bureau of the Chicago Society for the Hard of Hearing, 410 South Michigan avenue, a nonprofit organization.

Yesteday Judy had a new hearing aid device, shaped to fit her ears, and the blurred sounds she formerly heard are now coming thru to her clear and distinct. She was the first patient of the hearing aid bureau which will open officially Wednesday under the direction of Mrs. Arthur J. Utter.

The society gives aid whenever possible—at no cost, if necessary—to any person who is hard of hearing. It is estimated that one out of every 10 persons has hearing difficulty.

HER COAT STOLEN WHEN BOWLING.

Mrs. Mario O. Rubinelli, 639 Addison street, wife of an optometrist, reported to police yesterday that her $350 fur coat was stolen from a bench while she was bowling in the alleys at Erie street and McClurg court.

WHY THOUSANDS OF DOCTORS have prescribed this for

BAD COUGHS (CAUSED BY COLDS)

Famous Herbal Remedy Brings PROMPT Relief!

For years thousands upon thousands of Doctors' Prescriptions called for Pertussin to relieve coughs—bronchial, croupy, and night coughs—due to colds. This is the same effective yet inexpensive Pertussin you can get today from your drugstore.

Pertussin brings quick relief because it's scientifically prepared to work internally. It acts at once to relieve your coughing spell and to increase natural secretions in the respiratory tract in order to soothe dry, irritated membranes. It improves ciliary action and loosens sticky phlegm so that it is more easily raised.

Pertussin is entirely free from opiates, chloroform, and coal tar products. it can be taken freely whenever needed and is safe for both old and young—even small children. All drugstores.

If cough persists—see your Doctor.

DR. ZENOS, NOTED AS PRESBYTERIAN LEADER, IS DEAD

Dr. Andrew C. Zenos, dean emeritus of the Presbyterian Theological seminary and for more than half a century a prominent figure in the Chicago presbytery, died last night in Presbyterian hospital. He was 86 years old, and lived at 834 Chalmers place, on the seminary campus.

Dr. Andrew C. Zenos.

Dr. Zenos was a minister for 60 years. During this span he also was a professor for 50 years, seminary dean for 20, and secretary of the Chicago presbytery for 25 years.

He retired as dean in 1940 and as secretary in 1941. He continued teaching until last Christmas.

Dr. Zenos was born of Greek parentage in Istanbul, Turkey. He was graduated from Princeton university in 1880. He was considered an authority on historical theology and wrote several books on religious subjects.

Dr. Zenos leaves his widow, the former Ruth Schlager; three daughters, Mrs. Clinton Lowrie, St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. Julia Linnell, Chicago, and Mrs. Helene Parkhill, Lansdowne, Pa., and four grandchildren.

BOY AIDED BY 2 OF 500 OFFERING BLOOD IMPROVES

More than 500 blood donors volunteered their services in behalf of Douglas McDaniel, 4 years old, victim of a rare blood infection, whose plight was described by THE TRIBUNE, Jan. 15. Two of the volunteers who had recovered from the disease were chosen and today Douglas will return to his home, 5449 Pensacola avenue, well on the road to recovery, according to his physician.

The youngster was taken to St. Anne's hospital on Jan. 6 and a mastoid operation was performed. He was stricken with streptococcus viridans and only the blood of a person who had recovered from the disease could be used in transfusions.

Douglas is the only son of Wallace H. McDaniel, a bank cashier, and his wife, Adella. The physician in charge of the case was Dr. Jerome Hayden.

HINT JURY QUIZ OF GAMBLING IN NORTH INDIANA

After completion of its regular call early this week, the Lake county [Ind.] grand jury may begin an investigation of gambling conditions in that vast industrial area, it was indicated last night.

If requested by the jury, Ben Schwart, chief deputy prosecutor, said he would leave the gambling probe entirely in its hands. He explained that such procedure is common in Lake county grand jury investigations.

Members of the jury would not comment on the gambling quiz report. They began their session at Crown Point a week ago.

DON'T HAVE CHILDREN

without first being examined for Gonorrhea and Syphilis!

Since unsuspected venereal infections are a frequent cause of disaster at childbirth, every expectant mother should be thoroughly examined for them early in her pregnancy! Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT," the Public Health Institute makes a full examination for gonorrhea and syphilis at very low cost, and gives individual treatments at fees so small as to be within the reach of every wage earner.

G. A. TOMLINSON, LAKES AND RAIL LEADER, IS DEAD

Cleveland, O., Jan. 25 (AP).—George A. Tomlinson, who rose from a $6 a week police news reporter to president of the Alleghany corporation, top holding company of the Van Sweringen railroad interests, died in California last night.

Tomlinson, who would have been 76 years old tomorrow, was chairman of the Pere Marquette railroad and president of the Tomlinson Great Lakes fleet.

Tomlinson, along with George A. Ball of Muncie, Ind., flashed on the national financial scene in 1935, when they bid in the collateral of the defaulting Van Sweringen railroad empire for $3,121,000, continuing the two brothers, O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, in power until their deaths. Tomlinson sold his holdings to Ball at cost. The corporation controled eight railroads.

FOUND HANGED; NOTE ASKS BODY GO TO A SCHOOL

A man identified as R. E. Boyles, 45 years old, 723 West 119th street, was found hanged from a tree near Morgan and 128th streets yesterday, apparently a suicide.

He left a note, dated last Sept. 21, stating that he wished his body delivered to the nearest medical school, and added, "I do not care what happens to my personal property."

A postscript, dated Jan. 23, expressed the wish that the Nagoda family, with whom he lived, receive his personal property. Kensington police said the family was absent, apparently on a vacation.

WAR GOVERNORS COMPARE NOTES ON THEIR DUTIES

Illinois' war governors, Frank O. Lowden of World war I. and Dwight H. Green of World war II. eased themselves into soft chairs in St. Luke's hospital yesterday and chatted for more than an hour about their wartime responsibilities.

Gov. Green had dropped in to pay his respects to the elder statesman of the Republican party on the eve of his 81st birthday. Mr. Lowden told his visitor he was feeling fine and was undergoing a routine physical examination.

"I don't look ill, do I?" Mr. Lowden smiled. "Well, I'm not. If my doctor says it's all right I plan to celebrate my birthday at the home of my daughter on the south side, then Tuesday night I'm going to Arizona for the rest of the winter." Mrs. C. Phillip Miller, the former Florence Lowden, lives at 5757 Kimbark avenue.

Nation Forgets Differences.

"You know, governor," Lowden told Green, "you have more unity in Illinois than any governor ever had. After Pearl Harbor the entire nation decided at once to forget differences and go about the business of winning this war.

"During my administration it took quite a while for the people to realize what the first World war meant. We had trouble with a number of political leaders and pacifist groups.

"Near the end of the war the people were unified to a great extent. But we didn't have the unity you have today in carrying out the state's war program.

"Nothing could have happened to shock the people like Pearl Harbor, not even a similar assault on the Philippines on the opening day of the war. The attack was so infamous that it aroused everybody."

Wanted to Volunteer.

When war came Mr. Lowden said he wanted to volunteer for service, "but I found there was no provision made for men over 80 years old."

"Gov. Green found an answer to that, however," Mr. Lowden smiled. "He named me honorary chairman of the Illinois State Council of Defense. I am not physically able to take an active part in the organization, but I will be available for consultation at any time."

ASK DRUG STORES TO COLLECT USED TUBES, SAVE TIN

New York, Jan. 25 [Special].—The nation's 60,000 drug stores are being enlisted in a drive for collection of thousands of tons of tin in used tubes from toothpaste, shaving cream, and other drug products, a committee operating with approval of the bureau of industrial conservation in Washington announced tonight.

Every drug store in the country will be asked to set up receptacles where customers coming to make new purchases may deposit used tubes. The drive is sponsored by a joint committee of the Packaging Institute of America and the Collapsible Tube Manufacturers' association. Joel Lund, chairman, declared that users of tube products throw away 20 to 25 tons of collapsible tubes a day.

"There are 6,000 tons of tin now in use in collapsible tubes," he said, "and 85 per cent of that amount is represented in drug store products."

The used tubes will go to the Tin Salvage institute in Hillside, N. J., organized by the committee for the purpose.

RADIO INDUSTRY MOVES AHEAD IN WAR CONVERSION

The radio industry is forging ahead in its efforts to convert its plants to a $100,000,000 a month production of military radio supplies, Paul V. Galvin, president of the Radio Manufacturers' association and the Galvin Manufacturing company, said yesterday. His statement followed an announcement by the War Production board that production of radios for civilian use had been ordered cut.

The curtailment was ordered by WPB so that the radio industry could devote itself to filling orders for $2,000,000,000 worth of communications equipment for war uses.

In addition to radios for ships, aircraft, tanks, and other motorized weapons, the industry is producing many other communications, signaling, navigation, radio locator, and direction finding devices.

HOUSING COUNCIL CONVENES TODAY ON PLANS FOR '42

Last year's activities of the Metropolitan Housing council and the group's plans for this year will be discussed today at the council's annual meeting in the La Salle hotel, it was announced yesterday by John R. Fugard, president.

Bleeker Marquette, director of the Citizens' Housing association of Cincinati, O., and also consultant to the Cincinnati Metropolitan Housing authority, will discuss housing for defense at the meeting.

The Metropolitan Housing council was established eight years ago to seek improved housing and neighborhood conditions in Chicago.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A story in THE TRIBUNE yesterday stated incorrectly that Benjamin Bachrach, public defender, would go before Justice Francis Wilson of the Illinois Supreme court today to ask for a reduction in the bond of Hugh Greer Carruthers, who is appealing a conviction of rape. Carruthers will be represented by Attorney Walter Bachrach of the firm of Moses, Kennedy, Stein, and Bachrach.

MAYOR'S MINUTE RADIO MESSAGES TO START TODAY

Mayor Kelly and Mrs. Kelly both will be heard on the air today in connection with the launching of two new civilian defense radio programs. Mayor Kelly will be heard in the first of a series of one minute daily Messages of the Day in his capacity as civilian defense coördinator.

Mrs. Kelly.

These one minute transcribed messages will be aired on all local stations, each station selecting available time. Most stations will present the message, which today will be introductory in tone, twice a day.

Mrs. Kelly, who is extremely active in civilian defense and service men's center work, will be the guest speaker on the first broadcast of a new W-G-N program, Women in Defense, to be aired from 4:20 to 4:30 p. m. today. This program will be aired on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at the same hour.

W. H. TAFT HIGH IS SALUTED ON W-G-N PROGRAM

William Howard Taft High school was saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program on W-G-N yesterday. Several hundred pupils from the school and guests visited W-G-N's main studio last Wednesday when the program was transcribed.

Philip Maxwell, master of ceremonies, added two more names to the Roll of Honor: Bill Stephen of Taft and Elaine Bielefield of Holland, Mich. L. A. Hoefer, Taft principal, spoke briefly.

Next Sunday on the 50th broadcast of the series a special program will be given for the 50 principals of high schools that have been saluted. The principals are to be guests of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which sponsors the program on Wednesday when the program is recorded.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR BUILDING AIRPORT AT U. OF I.

Conferences on the proposal to appropriate $200,000 for the purchase of land for an airport at the University of Illinois are underway, Gov. Green said yesterday. But pending full discussion no decision will be announced, he said. The university board of trustees made a formal request for the oppropriation at its monthly meeting Saturday. Ben Regain, chairman of the Illinois Aeronautics commission, said the war department is interested in training flyers at the university.

ANNUAL SPRING MARKETS OPEN IN CITY TODAY

Chicago's annual spring markets will open today for a three week run, with 2,300 of the city's manufacturers and wholesalers and an additional 1,000 from other cities participating in the exhibits and meetings in loop hotels.

It is expected that 18,000 visitors will attend the market

Homemakers Group to Hear Speakers on Stabilized Buying

Women attending a meeting of the Chicago and Cook County Homemakers' association tomorrow in the Hotel La Salle will be told by men prominent in the food industry how to help stabilize consumer buying and protect the American family table. The association is drawing its speakers from the National Canners' association convention. Mrs. Cornelius Peeples, president of the group, has announced that both the luncheon at 1:30 o'clock and the afternoon session will be open to all homemakers who wish to attend. Board members will meet at 11 o'clock to discuss how the association's work in the consumer field can be coördinated with the national defense program.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

What They Read.

The popularity of noon hour book talks, coupled with the increasing circulation of books among business women, piques one's curiosity as to the reading taste of the business girl. Just what does she read after she's washed out her stockings . . . pressed a skirt . . . done the dishes . . . and organized herself for another day?

Private secretary: "Inside Asia," by John Gunther.

I. C. ticket seller: "How Green Was My Valley," by Richard Llewellyn.

St. Luke's nurse: "A Journey for Margaret," by W. L. White.

Dress designer: "This Above All," by Eric Knight.

Bookseller: "Beautiful End," by Constance Holme.

Manicurist: "Random Harvest," by James Hilton.

Double Time Competitor.

Sally says: "In the daytime, the business girl competes with men; in the evening, she goes home, changes into her glad rags and competes with women."

Seven Job Essentials.

Three inquiries came almost simultaneously regarding the qualifications necessary for the position of personnel director.

A thoughtful, successful, and charming business woman, with many years of experience, lists these qualities as being essential to the job:

1. Personality [an approachable manner, an interest in people, a well adjusted viewpoint].

2. Astuteness in estimating the character and fitness of a job applicant.

3. Knowledge of the various scientific tests for employment and how to give them without flustering the applicant.

4. A knowledge of typing.

5. Ability to keep records on a large number of employés and to keep them up to date.

6. Facility in expressing herself in counseling and training employés.

7. Understanding of the business and the functions of the various departments.

Knows What She Wants.

A new build-up for the business girl from the annual meeting of the National Retail Dry Goods association: "Practical considerations for the widest buying group in this country, the average working girl, dictates styles and colors. Classic simplicity always heads the list. She does know what she wants and given the opportunity to declare her preferences . . . buys them."

War Changes a Name.

An employé, accustomed to the name Adelor J. Petit on a letterhead, recalls an incident of another wartime. Judge Petit's father enlisted for service in the Civil war. "Petit," said the recruiting officer, "that's foreign, isn't it? Can't have any foreigners in this army . . . let's see . . . we'll change it to 'Little.' And 'Adelor'—we'll change that to 'Albert'—'Albert Little'." And "Albert Little" it was up until the last pension check sent to Judge petit's mother.

Rachmaninoff Plays Prelude; It's a Jubilee

BY EDWARD BARRY.

What do you think is celebrating a golden jubilee this year? Sergei Rachmaninoff's prelude in C sharp minor! Tossed off in a preoccupied moment in the composer's boyhood, it has been pursuing him up and down the world for half a century now.

Possibly because he wished to honor the little piece in its jubilee year, possibly because he was in a hurry and remembered that in the days before he put his foot down the prelude sometimes concluded the encore group and served as a sort of "Home, Sweet Home," Rachmaninoff played it yesterday at the Civic Opera house as the third and last of his extra pieces.

Applause like machine gun fire broke into the prelude's opening measures as the audience recognized the piece. There was more applause at the end—for, played by Rachmaninoff, the prelude is not at all an unattractive work. Its big chords had a rich clang and its charging middle section a great deal of momentum.

The recital as a whole was pleasing and relaxing. There were countless opportunities to enjoy the pianist's easy sonorities and luminous melody lines. He did not go in much for fireworks, and when he did he tossed them off easily.

A movement of Mozart's A major sonata led to Beethoven's C minor sonata [Opus 111] and that to a Schumann novelette. A Rachmaninoff transcription of a Bach prelude, gavotte, and gigue turned out to be one of the afternoon highlights. The gavotte was an especially fine example of clarity of conception and jeweled precision of execution.

A miscellaneous group of song transcriptions concluded the program proper. The pianist added a Chopin mazurka, a second piece whose identity neither this reporter nor those he asked knew, and his own prelude.

A program of Hebrew and other near eastern music was sung in Kimball hall last night by Carl Urstein, Palestinian baritone. A voice of ringing strength and great tonal beauty, combined with a good feeling for color variety, enabled the singer to project movingly the many different moods which underlay the songs.

The music was predominantly serious and even sorrowful, but there were episodes of light fantasy and restrained joy. Notes in English on the content of the songs appeared on the program.

Observing of Priorities

SMART "PRIORITIES DRESS."

This is a really patriotic little frock, because it strictly observes the need for conserving metal. There's not a single hook, eye, zipper or metal fastener of any kind on this model, for it wraps around the figure securely. It's not a bit like the dowdy wrap-arounds of the era of World war I., but a smart dress which conceals well its defense period function.

Style No. 2509 is designed for sizes 12, 14 and 16, and 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material for frock with three-quarter length sleeves; 3⅛ yards for short-sleeved version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

'They Can't Get You Down' Has Critic on Ropes

"THEY CAN'T GET YOU DOWN."

Musical comedy in 2 acts and 25 scenes. Book and lyrics by Henry Myers and Edward Eliscu. Music by Jay Gorney. Settings by Frederick Stover. Costumes by Georgia Anderson. Musical numbers staged by Danny Dare. Book staged by Mortimer Offner. Presented by Jack Kirkland, Dwight Deere Wiman, and the authors, in the Studebaker theater, Sunday evening, Jan. 25, 1942.

THE PLAYERS.

BY CECIL SMITH.

There is no way of glossing over the pathetic fact that this new musical entertainment from the west coast is consistently dull in conception and pervasively amateurish in presentation. Not even an attractive array of tasteful, if simple, settings helps much, nor can the few experienced and effective members of the cast succeed in making a good thing of material which is usually bland and colorless when it is not altogether pointless.

The story seems like a single sketch from "Meet the People" blown up into a full evening's length. The basic idea is full of possibilities, for the plot begins where the final curtain falls on the ordinary college musical comedy, and proceeds thru the hardships and misunderstandings of a young couple who are trying to live on $25 a week. But the plot material is spread too thin, and yet is given too much prominence; and the dialog is generally labored and pedestrian.

In its song and dance aspects the production serves to emphasize, even more sharply than "Meet the People" did, the extent to which Hollywood has succeeded in remaining out of the main currents of contemporary theatrical development and growth. There is not one moment of refreshing or interesting dance composition, and the dancing is entirely a kind of routine, if animated, trucking which has long since run its course and disappeared from the stage east of the Rockies.

In sum total, the entire show is a compendium of opportunities wasted and implications unrealized. The opportunities and implications are promising enough, however, to suggest that a few good play surgeons could, with a few months' time, make profitable use of them. A good deal would also have to be done with Jay Gorney's score, which is monotonous in tempo, nuance, and expressive range, even when the composer himself conducted the opening performance.

It is always difficult to write about performers who are working against the odds presented by unflattering material. Berni Gould, a graduate of "Pins and Needles," does, however, find enough to work with to make his burlesque of a middle European fifth columnist carry a good deal of comic weight. Julie Sherwin and Johnnie Johnston, as the young romantic leads, achieve an air of commendable lightness and charm. Donald Brian, a far cry from Prince Danilo in his character as a high-handed newspaper publisher, turns in a well conceived job of acting, but is out of his element in a song in burlesque gay '90s vein. The members of the ensemble are young, and when the prescribed activities remain within their abilities they are attractive and charming.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN.

After You, My Dear Alphonse.

Whoever is elected air raid warden of that south side block bounded by 58th and 59th streets, Woodlawn and University avenues, the public may be confident he will do the job with dignity, circumspection, and a touch of erudition, as should be, for the Oriental institute and the Rockefeller Memorial chapel of the University of Chicago are in it. The area also contains two homes, and two alone, the residences of Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the chapel, and Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university. As only a resident of the block may be its warden and, as residents elect their warden, the question is: which?

No, Really?

When Silence Was Golden.

Or Don't You Think So?

W. W. suggests a slogan for Mr. Ickes: Oil out for defense.

How to Lose Friends.

Apparently being tire administrator is a thankless job, and the tire administrators from 48 states who gathered here Saturday were in gloomy mood, soon to lose all ancient friendships, all tender love, all extra tires in their own garages. But it took Joseph Buell Ely, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, to give their feeling cogent expression. Ely is chairman of the Massachusetts tire board, a post to which he was appointed by Gov. Leaverett Saltonstall, a Republican.

"Yes," sighed Ely, "a Republican governor appoints a former Democratic governor to this job to do the dirty work. Still, I guess if I were in the chair, I'd appoint a Republican."

The Grab Bag Is Closed, Gentlemen.

At the same meeting it came out that high government officials in Washington were shocked to learn that they do not come within the eligibility classification for extra tires. At least a dozen congressmen a day have been turned down.

Ah, Si, Senor.

Conchita, Mexican chanteuse who learned the English language with the assistance of the newspaper comic strip, is a vivid, dark center of attraction at the Hotel La Salle's Pan-American café. The other evening a distinguished looking diner asked her if she could sing something from Carmen, her dress and dark vivacity being something like those of Bizet's heroine. "Ah, si, señor," cried Conchita, who is an obliging soul even if her reception of English is faulty. And she began a soulful rendition, to the diner's justifiable amazement: Carmen 'Round the Mountain.

Social Encounter.

Mrs. Raymond Smith had Monday night duty at the U. S. O. center in Highland Park and busily tried to cheer up a boy from Fort Sheridan. He was glum and unresponsive until, after he said he came from the Bowery, she said she once worked at the Educational Alliance settlement there.

"Gee," he said, his eyes brightening. "I used to go to dances there. It's just a few blocks from my house. My girl went with me. Her name was Lizzie Katzenhauser, but we don't keep company no more because she changed her name to Felicia Faron and she expects me to live up to that. Gee, I can't afford it."

Just as You Say.

Girls in the chorus of Panama Hattie ran around briskly Saturday afternoon collecting money for a gift for a member of the cast. Up came Jan Richards. "I want to get in on this," she said merrily. "Sure, sure," they told her. "But it'll cost you $2." "O, that's all right," Jan said. And that is how Miss Richards, who was married Saturday, gave herself a wedding present.

Quartet Season Closes

The series of three philharmonic string quartet concerts, sponsored by the Lake View Musical society, was brought to a close last night in the Goodman theater. The final program paid homage to the Dvorak centenary by including the Czech composer's Quartet in A-flat, Op. 105. Schubert's quartet movement and Bloch's neglected Quintet for piano and strings completed the concert. Rudolph Reuter was the assisting pianist in the quintet.

Written in 1923, the Bloch work possesses considerable power and beauty. It has dated less than many compositions of its period, probably because the composer was highly individual in his choice and treatment of material.

The Dvorak quartet, warm and mature, abundant with the composer's eloquent melodies, made a fine contrast to the Bloch, as did Schubert's spontaneous selection. After a ragged start the quartet settled down into its usual good form. Mr. Reuter blended the piano part of the quintet with the string sonorities with excellent musicianship and a praiseworthy sense of balance.

Capital Drains City's Suburbs for War Tasks

BY JUDITH CASS.

"THERE are more Chicagoans in Washington than in Chicago," reported a former north shore resident who returned from the capital this weekend for a flying visit. And, exaggerated tho his statement was, it bears out the evidence of disconnected telephones and "for rent" signs on suburban homes — testimonials of the growing numbers of Chicagoans who are answering their country's call and moving eastward.

Within two weeks the Henry L. McIntyres will have said their farewells and moved to Washington. Mr. McIntyre will be serving in the Office of Price Administration. Mrs. McIntyre and 5 year old Robin plan to leave Chicago about Feb. 8.

Frederick W. Fairman already is in Washington hard at work in what was known as the Office of Production Management until last week. His wife and two little girls will follow him as soon as their Lake Forest home is rented — sometime within the next week or two, they hope.

Gustavus F. Swift Jr. and Wife in Washington.

After a flying visit to Chicago for the marriage on Saturday of Miss Marie Swift and Robert E. Spiel, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift Jr. returned yesterday to the capital. Comfortably established by now in Washington, the young Swifts will be living there as long as he holds his position in the signal corps offices of the war department.

Mrs. James S. Knowlson is in the east visiting her husband, who holds an important position as one of Donald M. Nelson's right hand men. The Knowlsons haven't closed their home in Hinsdale, however, and Chicago still is "home" to them and their children.

James Edward Day's bride, the former Mary Louise Burgess, by now has joined her husband in Washington, where they have taken an apartment. The Days closed their Evanston home when he was assigned to the legal department of the navy, and until Saturday Mrs. Day was staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Burgess of Hubbard Woods. Kenneth Jr. also is a Washingtonian for the time being, as he is serving with the bureau of navigation.

Mrs. Adlai Stevenson Pays Visit in Chicago.

Walter S. Frazier is another Chicagoan who has gone east at Uncle Sam's service for an "indefinite stay." The Adlai E. Stevensons, of course, practically are "old settlers" in Washington, for they went east last summer. Mrs. Stevenson returned to the capital on Thursday after a visit with her mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter.

Others, including the Eugene du Ponts and the Joseph E. Riches, will not be moving to Washington as their friends had expected. Mr. du Pont will be back some time this week after a temporary stay in the eastern city, and he and his wife have all expectations of remaining in Lake Forest. The Riches, who were called east earlier by the navy, are back in their attractive house in Lake Forest. Mr. Rich's mother, Mrs. R. Joseph Rich, and his sister, Mrs. James G. Shennan, also returned last week-end from a trip to New York.

The proximity of the Great Lakes Naval station will be keeping a number of Lake Foresters here. The A. Werk Cooks, recently back from two weeks of California sunshine, believe that his naval orders will permit them to stay on the north shore. The Sewall Gandners and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Borland II. fall into the same group. Still awaiting orders are the Walter Cobb Colemans.

Mrs. Leo M. Nicholson is preparing to leave for Washington to join her husband, who has been appointed director of storage facilities for the country.

Miss Carolyn Mellinger Valentine's Day Bride.

Miss Carolyn Louise Mellinger and Franklyn Bliss Snyder Jr. will have a St. Valentine's day wedding. They plan to be married at 8:30 o'clock on Feb. 14 in the First Congregational church of Evanston, the Rev. Hugh Elmer Brown officiating. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey H. Mellinger, will give a reception at the Glen View club. Invitations will be mailed on Saturday.

Miss Mellinger will have Miss Shirley Garnett as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Jean Jones and Miss Cherry Sue Orr of Kenilworth; Miss Eloise Hills of Syracuse, N. Y.; Miss Barbara Hale of Coral Gables, Fla.; Miss Jeanne Gaudy of Evanston, and Miss Marilyn Gooder of Deerfield.

Already numerous parties have been given for Miss Mellinger and young Mr. Snyder, whose father is president of Northwestern university. Mr. and Mrs. George Jones entertained at a dinner and theater party, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gaudy at a luncheon at Camellia House, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Gooder at a cocktail party, and Mr. and Mrs. Carey Orr at a dinner and shower. Miss Jones will give a luncheon and shower on Feb. 7, and Mrs. Leland Mates and the Cyrus L. Garnetts haven't yet set the dates for their parties.

Hubert M. Eitel and Michigan Girl Engaged.

At a party yesterday in their home in Kalamazoo, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Allman Todd announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Hubert Messinger Eitel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Henry Eitel of East Division street. Miss Todd attended Kalamazoo college and was graduated from the Katharine Gibbs school in Boston, Mass. Her fiancé attended the North Shore Country Day school and the University of Virginia and studied for his certificate of public accountancy at Northwestern university. No date has been set for the wedding because Mr. Eitel expects to enter military service shortly.

At a tea in Belleair, Fla., yesterday afternoon Mrs. Charles H. White of Chicago and Belleair announced the engagement of her daughter, Jane, to Arthur C. Hunt of New York and Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hunt of Branchport, N. Y. The wedding is planned for spring. Miss White attended the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Hunt, who was graduated from Cornell university, is assistant to Arnold S. Kirkeby, president of the Kirkeby hotels.

On Sunday, Feb. 8, Mrs. John L. Cochran will have her first experience as hostess at the Casino club since her election to the club's presidency a few weeks ago. An informal party with backgammon, bridge, and other games followed by supper has been planned for that afternoon. Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, chairman of the club's entertainment committee, is making arrangements for the party and among her assistants are Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham.

Alexander Tansman to Play at Arts Club.

Alexander Tansman, Polish composer and pianist, who left Paris with Mrs. Tansman and their two daughters just a day before the Germans occupied the French capital, will be the especial guest at dinner and will play at the Arts club next Sunday. "Rhapsodic Polonaise" which Mr. Tansman wrote and dedicated to the defenders of Warsaw, will be included on his program that night. He has not played here since he made a guest appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the 1929-'30 season.

David M. Nichol, newspaper man, will be the guest speaker today before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. His luncheon address at 12:30 o'clock in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House will be on "How Hitler Loots Europe." Among those invited to sit at the speaker's table are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bentley, Mrs. Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Hays McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Fisher.

The Service club will elect officers at its annual meeting at 12:30 o'clock today at the Arts club. The meeting will be the first for the new members recently taken in by the group.

Comfort Kits Provided for Bluejackets

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Willette Chambers and some of the new comfort kits that the Chicago chapter of Bundles for Bluejackets is providing for sailors in the Chicago area. Each kit contains a pocket handkerchief, dental powder, shaving cream, long shoelaces, razor blades, repeater pencil, pocket lighter, and playing cards. Mrs. John P. Cohane is chairman of the women's committee. Headquarters are at 333 North Michigan avenue, telephone Franklin 7720. Volunteers to raise money for the kits—one dollar provides a kit—and to pack them are needed.

Style Creators Present Smart Spring Clothes

BY REA SEEGER.

Spring fashions offered by the Style Creators of Chicago have beauty, all kinds of new details, color, and a definite wearability especially for women in and around Chicago. These exciting new spring collections present snappy checked and plaid wool suits and coats. These are especially smart, bright colored wool coats teamed with gay print dresses. The coats have interesting new details such as shoulderlines, new collars, accents of a variety of cut pockets, flattering silhouettes and waistlines with and without belts.

Nice crisp two piece suits are very feminine, even tho meticulously tailored. One vivid green and white checked wool jacket worn with a butter yellow plaited dress was a winner. So was another plaited all the way round dress of smooth beige silk with a couple of beige colored tassels attached high on the left shoulder.

Suavely draped dinner dresses of clinging jersey flaunted the new gigantic and bold colored printed designs . . . also the new double draped skirts to make the brand new figure silhouette. Large flowered printed jersey was combined with clear white for contrast in other dinner costumes. Lovely evening gowns of printed chiffon, airy net, and lace made picture book models, the ideal waltz and party dresses for the young and even not so young.

Bright flaming red is one of the most popular colors. It is used in snappy little two piece suits, in long coats over dramatic black and white printed silk dresses and in short jackets with checked or dark skirts. All purpose coats for spring have a neat, smooth streamline with a flattering flare at the lower hem.

Everything on display is original, designed, cut, and finished right here in Chicago, including clever street and daytime clothes, together with the most unusual new designs in evening and dinner costumes. Since the membership of the Style Creators Guild of Chicago includes a hundred designers of many years' experience, this spring show should be exceedingly interesting to all shoppers and buyers as well as fashionwise women of Chicago.

Mills College Club Gives Luncheon Today for Dean

The Mills College club of Chicago will give a luncheon at 12:15 o'clock today in the north tearoom of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. for Miss Esther Dayman, dean of undergraduates on the California campus. Mrs. Diran Nahigian, president of the club, is in charge of reservations.

Women in War Work . . . . By India Moffett

Members of the Illinois Opera guild who are organizing the Victory Bridge flights to finance the guild's defense program will meet today in the home of Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy, 1130 Lake Shore drive, Evanston. Under the plan to play bridge for defense and victory, a bridge flight captain obtains 10 couples and arranges for each couple to play every other couple in the flight before June 1. The bridge fee is donated to the cause, and the winning flight couples will compete in a tournament in which the prize will be a defense bond.

Mrs. Millard Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Frank R. Fuller, co-chairmen of the plan, will be assisted by Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, Mrs. G. Henry Mundt, Mrs. William H. Spurgeon, Mrs. Harry J. Dooley, Mrs. William McGibbon, and Mrs. John W. Ogren. Others who have volunteered to organize flights are Mrs. James G. McMillan, president of the guild, Mrs. Dan Brown, Miss Mary Jane Brummel, Mrs. Owen S. Coon, Mrs. Louis Hoffman, Mrs. Eugene A. Howard, Mrs. Hadar Ortman, Mrs. Theodore Susen, and Miss Betty Vincent.

Soldiers from Fort Sheridan and sailors from the Great Lakes Naval Training station who visit the Highland Park USO center like to entertain themselves. Many are musicians and wish to keep in practice, but it's impossible for them to carry around their instruments. In order to meet this problem, Mrs. Ray D. Smith, assistant civilian hostess, who is in charge of music appreciation on Monday nights, is asking for donations of instruments of all kinds. The boys wish to organize a band, and they can use violins, cellos, clarinets, trumpets, banjos, ukuleles, guitars, flutes—everything except a piano. That's already been donated. If the instruments need slight repairs, Nicholas Young, YMCA worker in charge of the center, will arrange to have them fixed. They should be delivered or sent to the center in Green Bay road, in care of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Richard Bentley, chairman of the Girl Scout defense program committee, announces three civilian defense training days for all adult members of Girl Scouting. The training will be given in all day sessions.

The north side training day will be today, and the meeting places will be the Paul Revere fieldhouse. Mrs. H. M. Ross, chairman of the northeast district council, will preside at the meeting which will be held from 10:30 until 3:30 o'clock. South side members will meet at the Hamilton park fieldhouse tomorrow during the same hours. Mrs. W. E. Hutchinson will preside. She is chairman of the southeast district council. Mrs. John McComb, vice chairman of the central district council, will be in charge of the central section meeting on Feb. 2 at the same hours in the Pure Oil building.

For those who cannot attend daytime meetings, there will be a fourth session in the Pure Oil building at 7:15 p. m. on Feb. 4.

The morning of each session will be taken up with a discussion of the Girl Scout program and how it is applicable to the problems of today. Mrs. Hays MacFarland, president of the board of directors, will address the noon meetings, and during the afternoons Mrs. Morton Bassett, executive director of the Chicago Girl Scouts, will talk about the specific defense activities that may be performed by Girl Scouts.

Forty-six accredited schools of nursing in Chicago will join with the 51 other state schools in holding open house this week to acquaint prospective students and the public with opportunities in the nursing profession. Miss Charlotte F. Landt, executive secretary of the Illinois State Nurses' association, said there are 277 vacancies in the mid-year classes to be opened in February in many of the Chicago schools. Forty-two of the schools have reported a present enrollment of 3,771 now in training.

"The recruiting program is designed to meet post-war as well as present needs," said Mrs. Ada R. Crocker, chairman of the State Nursing Council on Defense, which is sponsoring the open house program. Some of the hospitals are planning teas and other special events.

A volunteer letter writing service for parents of service men who find it difficult to write is being started on the south side by four girls. The girls, Miss Sylvia Abrams and three sisters, Miss Norma, Miss Ethel, and Miss Marion Conell, will be in the Chinese room of the Hyde Park YMCA, 53d street and Dorchester avenue, each Tuesday and Thursday night from 7 o'clock until 9. They will take dictation or help compose the letters. A typewriter has been lent to them by the Billings Memorial hospital and they wish to borrow other typewriters. Parents are asked to supply their own stationery and stamps.

"Among the many volunteers which your article of Jan. 16 brought to us were two most attractive young matrons, Mrs. A. B. Parvin of Chicago and Mrs. George J. Bloom of Glencoe, who have set as their goal an ambulance for civilian defense. We accredit you with this fine piece of work and wonder if you will help us to get it started," writes Mrs. Florence C. Barrete, director of the midwest chapter, British American Ambulance corps.

We thank you, Mrs. Barrete, and oblige by announcing that Mrs. Parvin and Mrs. Bloom will start toward their goal this week by having a display booth on the first four days of the week in the Congress hotel.

Mary Hastings Bradley, author, will speak on defense stamps and bonds at an all day meeting of presidents and national defense chairmen of the Conference of Jewish Women's organizations today in the conference headquarters, 116 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Bradley will speak at 10:30 a. m. followed by Mrs. John P. Welling, vice chairman of the women's coördinating committee of the Chicago Commission on National Defense, and Miss Mary T. Mark, director of the consumer relations. Any one interested is invited, according to Mrs. David Wodlinger, national defense chairman.

RETURN.

As the stillness broke, Delia came up out of that drowned sleep into the place where the bell was ringing. For a moment she did not know where she was. Then the bell rang again close beside her, and she put out her hand to the switch on the bedside lamp.

The golden glow of which Mrs. Parker had disapproved shone out, making a warm, comforting circle all about her.

The telephone was at the head of the bed. She lifted the receiver and brought it to her ear, acting mechanically, as you do when your body is awake but your mind not fully conscious. She said "Hullo!" and heard the voice which she had thought she would never hear again.

"Is that you? Darling, is that you?"

She drew as deep a breath as if she had really been drowned and was coming back to life. On that deep, gasping breath she said his name.

"Antony!"

It reached him, but only just. He said:

"Better keep off names. I'm back."

Delia began to shake. She said in a voice that caught and stumbled:

"He said—you were—dead."

"I very nearly was. But who said so?"

"Cornelius."

"What?"

The shaking had increased. Her teeth chattered as she repeated the name.

"Cornelius. He came. He said you were—dead."

"Darling, hold up! What's the matter?"

"I thought you were ——"

"Do I sound dead? Brace up! I've got to get this straight, and I can't if you jitter. Did you say Cornelius was over here?"

"Yes. He came to see me. He said—you were dead."

"When was this?"

"Yesterday. At least I suppose it was yesterday. I don't know what time it is."

"Just after 11, and a good loud air raid going on. Can you hear it?"

The air raid didn't seem to reach her. She said, more steadily.

"Then it wasn't yesterday. It was today—after tea. He told Parker his name was Brown, but as soon as we were alone he said he was Cornelius, and that he had come to tell me you were dead."

At the other end of the line Antony whistled.

"Cornelius? Well, well! We do get about, don't we?"

"I thought it was true."

"My poor sweet—how hellish! Darling, do brace up—I'm awfully alive. I can't bear it when your voice wobbles and I'm not there to kiss you. Stop it at once and tell me about Cornelius! Where is he?"

"I don't know."

"Do you mean he just blew in and said I was dead and blew out again?"

Warm waves of happiness had begun to flow over Delia. Every time Antony spoke she felt them come flooding in. They took away the numbness. They made her feel light and joyful. She gave a little unsteady laugh and said,

"Not quite like that. He said he wanted his parcel."

"His parcel?"

"He said he'd sent you one. I don't know how. I thought you couldn't send parcels from places where the Germans were."

She heard him laugh, too.

"You can't take passenger tickets, either, my sweet—but as I said, we do get about."

"Well, he said he sent you a parcel to Uncle Philip's office and it arrived just when they were bombed, but Mr. Holt saved the parcel."

"Cornelius told you all this?"

"No, darling, Mr. Holt told me that part. He brought the parcel down to me because he thought perhaps Uncle Philip had a safe here and he'd been burgled and hustled at a bus stop, and Mrs. Holt had had a sham man from the water company trying to get into the house, so he thought the parcel had better be in a safe. And somebody has been nearly murdered here since I had it——"

"Darling, what do you mean?"

Delia was seized with a belated discretion.

"I don't know whether I'd better say it on the telephone."

She heard him whistle again. He said:

"Holt ought to be shot! Why didn't he put it in the bank?"

"Uncle Philip told him to keep it."

"So he dumped it on you! Where is it now? Have you still got it?"

Delia hesitated.

"In a way. I put it in the bank after the murder—only she isn't dead."

"Who isn't?"

"Well, I'd better not say. I mean, it's too long to tell you about. But Cornelius is coming back in the morning and he'll want me to get the parcel out of the bank and give it to him."

There was a pause before Antony said:

"Who is it addressed to?"

"'Antony Rossiter, Esq. By hand.'"

"Then I rather think it belongs to me. And I think"—his voice faded out and then came back again strongly—"I think I'd like to have a look at it before Cornelius does another disappearing act."

"He says he's in an awful hurry. He says it's full of frightfully important papers and he must have them at once."

Antony laughed.

Delia said "No-o-" in rather an odd voice.

She heard him laugh again.

"Look here, I'll tell you what—you get on to the quarter-to-nine bus and come along up to London. There's still quite a lot of it left. I'll meet you at Hyde Park corner if I can. If I'm not there, come to the club at 1, and if I haven't been able to meet you, there'll be a note or a message. I'm sorry to be so vague, but I don't know what I'm doing yet. Anyhow, it will get you out of the way. Cornelius can't bully you if you're not there. And"—his voice changed and deepened—"do I want to see you!"

Delia said, "Do you?"

He tried to tell her how much.

* * *

Antony came out of John Norton's flat and walked along a dark street. There was a deafening noise of gunfire and a lot of very disturbing flashes. One moment it was so dark that you didn't know whether you were coming or going, and then all at once the sky was all white fire, with a zig-zag outline of roofs, houses, and spires standing black against it. Some of the houses were only one wall thick, and the light came thru the empty splintered holes where the windows had been. It was strange walking, and easy to lose your way, because so often it was a corner house which had fallen in or stood there stark and changed past recognition.

He came at last to the block where Col. Garrett had his flat, and found it intact. One of the uglier buildings in a city where the extremes of beauty and ugliness live side by side, it might, for any esthetic value it possessed, have very easily been spared. The small, lovely church a mere stone's throw away lay crumbling. The lightning of the guns flared thru its ruined arches.

Antony ran himself up in the lift and rang Garrett's screaming bell, the noisiest in London. He was wondering whether Cornelius would have been before him here, and what Garrett's reactions would be receiving him from the dead.

A bolt creaked, a key turned, and the door swung in. There did not appear to be any reactions. Garrett merely said, "O, you're back, are you?" banged the door behind him, and walked over to the sitting room. The roar of the barrage had died down. The place seemed unearthly still—still, very pleasantly warm, and as usual fuggy, with a not disagreeable blend of tobacco smoke and wood smoke. There was a blazing log on the fire—Garrett always had very good fires—and there were drinks on the table by the window.

Garrett appeared to be drinking cocoa laced with whisky out of an immense cracked china cup with a pattern of pink rosebuds all over it.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

Necessity is going to mother one of the most important beauty movements of this decade, if we're any judge.

With the exit of the girdle we predict that you're going to see the entrance of an exercise program such as the women of this country have never welcomed before. We can't think of anything that could give greater impetus to the physical fitness program for women [a phase of the national defense plan] than this change which is going to make war more real to the average woman than all the maps, speeches, or casualty lists! Already many women we know are thinking more about silhouette control than they have done for years.

We hope to heaven that this first fear and trembling about the bulges will galvanize them into action. Exercising to firm muscles and work off the accumulations of fat that have gathered during their lazy years is exactly what they need to provide them with the best possible kind of a girdle, a healthy muscle structure that has health as well as beauty value. If ever a dark cloud had a silver lining, this is it, from the beauty adviser's point of view!

The gymnasiums, the parks where physical education instruction is available, the beauty salons and the private instructors should do a land office business from now on. We hope they do, because we can think of few trends that will contribute as much to feminine health and good looks as this forthcoming one toward physical fitness.

Vanity may motivate it now, but the net results should be quite wonderful. Exercise is one of the greatest benefits a woman can discover, for well being, energy, and the kind of a silhouette that makes a house apron look like royal raiment.

Monday, Jan. 26.

While today's background vibrations are still calling for calmness, the minor and more temporary indications favor thinking things out, dealing with superiors and inferiors in government and business, and with the opposite sex in the home.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if born on this date, is promising. You can adjust restrictions from past, take new opportunities, improve love, life, develop self. From July cultivate inferiors. Danger: June 8-23; Nov. 2-10.

Tomorrow.

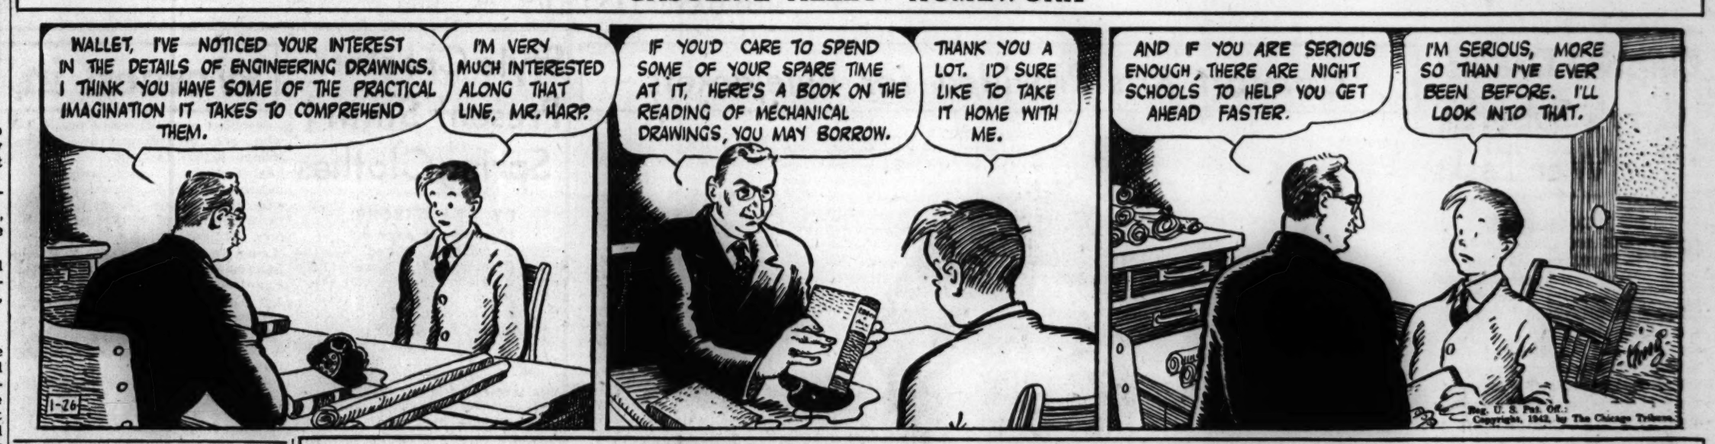
GASOLINE ALLEY—HOMEWORK



Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

The Red Cross drive reminds us that there is a great need for women to train for nursing. It has been my experience that the ideal nurse writes a very characteristic script, due partly to her training in printing records and partly to the fundamental characteristics she possessed in the first place. If you are wondering if you have the qualifications to take up nursing, look at the four words above. Each word was taken from a different letter, and all reveal a combination of traits which makes a good nurse.

Well handwriting analyzes addresses

First note that the writing is very even, written with a steady pen, and that the letter formations are round and well formed, simple and without ornamentation. These points indicate that the writers are practical, level headed, even tempered, neat, and methodical. There is nothing careless, flightly, or indecisive reflected here.

The will is firm, but not too aggressive. The pressure shows endurance and stability. If that describes you, and you want to be of service, join the nursing ranks. But even if you lack all these virtues, you still can give money to the Red Cross—that's still solid and serviceable!

ClubFederation Told to Include Foe in Prayers

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Delegates to the defense forum of the General Federation of Women's Clubs today attended a special church service in the Washington cathedral, where Adm. Dewey and Woodrow Wilson are buried.

Dr. Ze Barney Phillips.

The Rev. Dr. ZeBarney Phillips, dean of the cathedral and chaplain of the United States senate, delivered the sermon and called on the club women to pray for the nation's enemies as well as its allies.

The women toured the national gallery of art in the afternoon and returned to the Mayflower hotel, forum headquarters, for a tea at which Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., federation president, and Lady Halifax, wife of the British ambassador, received. Members of the executive committee, among them Mrs. William T. Bruckner of Hinsdale, chairman of the board of directors for the general federation, were hostesses, assisted by department chairmen.

The sessions tomorrow morning will be devoted to plans for the annual convention to be held in April in Fort Worth, Tex., and to other business matters. A resolution opposing congressional enactment of any law concerning mandatory joint income tax returns will be discussed.

The resolution, presented yesterday by Mrs. J. S. Atwood of Roswell, N. M., national chairman of the American citizenship department, was held over for consideration tomorrow.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator and director of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare services, will speak at a luncheon tomorrow. A health forum later in the day will bring Maj. Gen. James C. Magee, surgeon general of the army; Rear Adm. Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy department, and Dr. Helen S. Mitchell, principal nutritionist of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare services, before the federation.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the selective service system, will speak tomorrow night at the closing forum. His subject will be "The Defense of Americanism."

Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr., wife of the treasury secretary, will entertain the federation directors at a tea in her home.

Mayonnaise really is an extravagant dressing for salad if you use it without dilution. In these days of strict food economy, we probably shall make and buy the boiled dressing more often than genuine mayonnaise And when we do use the oil dressing, we shall dilute it with evaporated milk, sour cream, pickle juice, catsup, chili sauce, or plain milk, so that it will cover more salads and sandwiches than it usually does.

Mayonnaise is almost entirely oil. A good salad oil is the choice of most of us nowadays. Olive oil is pretty much of an extravagance.

Mayonnaise.
[1¼ Cups.]
1 egg yolk
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon paprika
Few specks cayenne pepper
1 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons vinegar

Put egg yolk and seasonings into a bowl and beat well. Add ¼ cup of the oil gradually, at first by half teaspoonfuls, gradually increasing the amount, and beating constantly. Add one tablespoon vinegar and continue beating. Add more oil, very gradually, and as mixture thickens, add remaining vinegar. Beat constantly until mixture is very thick.

Mayonnaise will curdle if oil is added too fast. Constant beating is best accomplished by an electric mixer. Second choice is a good rotary egg beater.

Economical Boiled Dressing.
[1¼ Cups.]
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1½ tablespoons flour
1 egg
¾ cup milk
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon margarine

Blend sugar, salt, mustard and flour. Add egg and stir until smooth. Add milk, mixing thoroly. Then add vinegar, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat and add margarine. Cool and store in covered jar in the refrigerator.

Dilute boiled dressing for use with evaporated milk, sour cream, fruit juice, whipped cream, catsup, chili sauce, tomato juice, etc.

Either mayonnaise or the cooked dressing may be further seasoned with any of these for salads in which the addition would be suitable: Chopped onion or chives, prepared mustard, finely chopped cucumber and a little celery seed, curry powder, chopped green pepper, onion and pimiento, piccalilli or peanut butter.

THE Kitchen Kibitzer

BY MARIAN CARTER

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

Shallots, scallions, green onions. Which is which, and does it matter? No, it doesn't really matter. The true shallot is a green onion with a bulb. The scallion is a green onion which is bulbless, like a little leek.

Boil those shallots, scallions or whatever you call 'em, sometime. Serve them with lots of butter, salt and pepper. They make a wonderful cooked vegetable. Pretty, too, with those green tops.

* * *

Oh, come on, now, don't ruin those green beans by hacking them to pieces, French style! The slivered string bean originated with a mess of old, tough and stringy beans. 'Twasn't intended for tender, crisp ones like yours—leave them whole, pretty please!

* * *

Yes, red salmon looks nicer, but the pale kind is just as good for you, and it's less expensive. Tastes as good, too.

* * *

What's the diff between graham and whole wheat flour, you ask? None whatsoever. They used to call it "graham" because a man by that name was its early promoter.

* * *

Most frozen foods don't need to be thawed before cooking. But follow the directions on the package to get best results.

* * *

Large olives are more expensive than small ones, but they aren't any better to eat, so there!

* * *

Beef shank bone and knuckle bone are two thrifty cuts which make flavorsome soup. Cook vegetables with them for a fine meal. Potatoes, carrots, turnips or onions, to name a popular choice.

* * *

It's economy to plan a week's menus at a time. Then you can provide for the use of leftovers. Saves last minute worry about what to have for supper, too. And guarantees better and more nutritious meals, if you plan carefully.

TRIBUNE ADVERTISING FEATURES

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Crispy icebox cookies win today's recipe prize of $5. The cookie dough may be kept in the refrigerator for several days, and the baking may be done whenever it's most convenient for the cook. Mrs. George Wright Sr., Hillside road, Frankfort, Ill., sent in the recipe.

Send your own favorite recipe to the Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and perhaps you, too, will receive a $5 prize.

ORANGE PECAN ICEBOX COOKIES.
[Six dozen.]
1 cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg, well beaten
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup pecan meats, finely chopped

Cream the butter until soft, add the sugars, and mix until light. Add the beaten egg, orange juice, and grated rind. [Cooking Editor's note: We suggest using a little more grated rind for additional flavor.] Beat until smooth. Stir in the dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, and add the chopped nuts. Shape the dough into rolls about 1½ inches in diameter, and wrap in waxed paper. Chill for several hours, or until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 10 to 12 minutes.

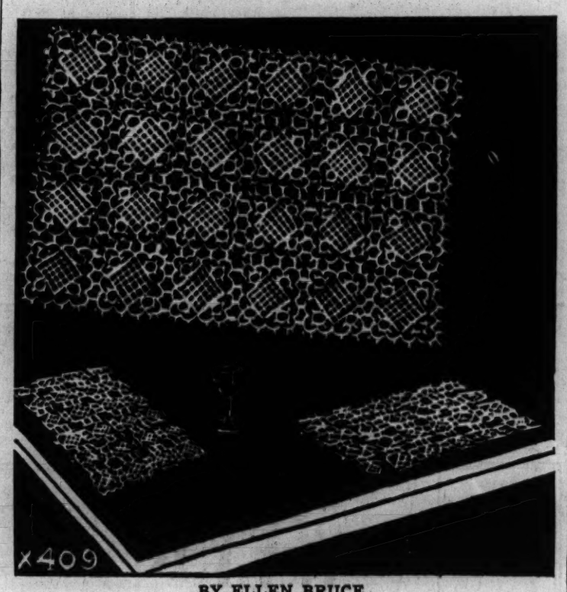
Lovely English Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The simple elegance of a crocheted doily made from an old English design never can be fully appreciated until one sees how handsome it is when completed and set with a table service. The medallions are made and joined as the work progresses. Ivory, mercerized crochet cotton is most effective on a dark table, while any shade may be used on painted furniture.

For instructions in crocheting the English medallion luncheon set, No. X-409, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Looking at Hollywood

—By John Chapman—

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 25.—Sunday—Some home work, and Lieut. Col. Robert S. Barr and wife arrive for a visit, on their way to a new army assignment. . . . Out of the notebook: Patricia Hitchcock, young daughter of Director Alfred Hitchcock, is in New York for a principal rôle in "Solitaire." In an interview she told of her acting ambitions but said she didn't want to be in one of her pappy's movies. Bob Hope, having read the piece, wired Hitch: "Don't feel badly. My kids don't think I have any talent, either."

Monday—Golf with Col. Barr and Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, and the two talk guns. I ask Brennan, who is a small-arms fancier, what about the Japs carrying .25 caliber rifles. He says it's probably because they're so small, averaging 110 to 115 pounds, that a man's size gun would knock 'em over.

Tuesday—To the Disney studio and into the sacred precincts of the camera department. A tough place to crash, because of fear of dust. You enter thru a vacuum cleaner room, where howling winds whoosh at you. When the new plant was opened dust kept turning up unaccountably. They finally found the cause: a workman had dandruff. . . . The camera room is a wonderland for a machinery minded guy. Cameras are mounted vertically and for pan and truck shots can be moved on gears as little as a thousandth of an inch. As you know, the Disney "cells" are photographed one by one. But, as I didn't know, three exposures are made of each cell, thru blue, red and green filters. When the negative goes to the technicolor laboratory for printing, the printing machine exposes only every third frame. Then the film is run back and exposed to the second set of frames, and so on. In the live action studios, technicolor cameras shoot three reels of film at once. . . . Costliest and biggest camera wonder is the multiplane camera, in which seven layers of cells, lying on great shelves, can be photographed at once to give perspective. This requires more intense light the deeper the layers go, and this lighting must be accurate to the tenth of a foot-candle. The first layer, for instance, will have 265 foot-candles of light on it—and the seventh, 398. Mazda bulbs provide the light, and there's always a supply of slightly used ones. Brand new ones have a higher color temperature and must be broken in before use.

Wednesday—To Columbia, where Jean Arthur is threatening to bash Cary Grant with a baseball bat in "The Gentlemen Misbehave." Seems that Grant breaks into Jean's house out of the rain. He has a sprained ankle. Jean retreats up a stair and he limps imploringly after. Just before she can sock him he faints and falls backward down the stair. Well, he starts to fall and Director George Stevens calls "cut." Later on, probably, a stunt man will take the tumble . . . even between takes Grant limps—just to keep himself in character, I suppose.

Thursday—Most of the day at the desk, and then to the funeral of Otto Winkler, Metro publicity man who died with Carole. Clark Gable attends, and there are MGM stars and executives, many newspaper men and a number of cops from downtown—for Otto once was a police reporter.

Friday—To Universal, where Gregory La Cava is shooting Irene Dunne and Patric Knowles in "The Sheltered Woman." Next week Greg takes his company on location at a gold mine near Phoenix, Ariz., where a ghost town has been built.

Saturday—Desk work all day, except for lunch with Nat Lief, who's returning to New York by air in the afternoon; and for dinner at the Robert Sisks'.

Film of Algiers Is Fascinating —and Familiar

"PEPE LE MOKO."
Presented by Arthur Mayer and Joseph Burstyn.
Directed by Julien Duvivier.
Presented at the World Playhouse.
The Cast.

Pepe le Moko	Jean Gabin
Gaby	Mireille Balin
Carlos	Gabriel Gabrio
Slimane	Lucas Gridoux
L'Arbi	Dallo
Grandpere	Saturnin Febre
Regis	Charpin
Ines	Line Noro
Pierrot	Gilbert Gil
Inspector	Bergeron
Prehel	Tania

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"He carries his heart on his sleeve—and a knife up it. . . . He has the respect of all, I tell you . . .!".

So speaks an admirer of Pepe le Moko, French fugitive from justice, who has found haven in the Casbah, outcast quarter of Algiers. . . . Here criminals are safe. . . . But let one overstep the deadline and the police are on his trail like hounds after a fox.

Sure, you've seen it—as "Algiers." With Charles Boyer in the title rôle; with Hedy Lamarr as the girl, Gene Lockhart as the stool pigeon; with Joseph Calleia as the detective, Slimane, and with Sigrid Gurie playing Pepe's Algerian sweetheart.

And—despite my admiration for Jean Gabin and all his works, and the great respect I feel for the manner in which, as a whole, "Pepe le Moko" has been turned out—I think I liked "Algiers" better. . . . The people got under my skin more deeply. . . . The suspense was keener.

The story's locale is the Casbah. . . . As it opens you find Pepe restive. He longs for his native Paris with an almost unbearable longing. . . . He is bored with his native sweetheart, who worships him, and fed up with his whole existence. . . . Then, one night—Gaby comes slumming . . . Gaby from Paris. And in the flash of an eye, Pepe sees in her everything he wants — THE woman, potato chips, and the subway and coffee and moonlight and perfume and music. . . . In other words —PARIS . . .!

Gaby responds to his passion. . . . Slimane, the provincial detective who has sworn to catch Pepe if ever he sets foot outside the Casbah, glides and watches and waits. . . . and lies.

The ending is tragical—if you see it that way.

Jean Gabin is his usual completely natural, believable self. He just, somehow, didn't play on my sympathy as did Boyer. . . . Mireille Balin is a sexy, pretty Gaby. . . . Line Noro is fiery and pathetic as the adoring Inez. . . . Lucas Gridoux is a clever Slimane—but Joseph Calleia had him beat a mile.

The film is acutely atmospheric. It is fascinating. It is frightening. And direction was most adept and intuitive.

Hospitality Makes Home, Tho Humble

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Not long ago a woman, who has eight children, and I had a long talk. Or rather, she talked and I listened. Some of the things she said I believe would be interesting to a great many mothers, and to just as many boys and girls.

"We live in a very old house," she said, "and it needs about everything done to it. When the children were younger and fewer, this used to fret me a great deal. I would try to save money to have old floorboards replaced, and the woodwork painted, and try to keep the covers on the sofa and big chairs fresh. In fact, I was very conscious of the deficiencies of our home, altho we were always happy as larks. But as the years flew by, and the babies kept coming, I could see that we never were going to have enough money to do all those things, so now I just enjoy the house as it is and don't let it worry me.

"The other evening my daughter said: 'Mother, couldn't we do something about the living room curtains? I've been wanting for a long time to ask the choirmaster for Sunday supper but . . . and she hesitated.

"'But you feel a little ashamed of the way the house looks?' I asked. I could see she didn't want to hurt my feelings, so I didn't press her for an answer. 'Well, honey,' I said, 'I know just how you feel and there are lots of things the house needs and that I'd love to do to it, too. But just keep in mind that your real friends and people that are worth knowing don't come to see your house, but you.

"The choirmaster was invited for the very next Sunday. I put on my very best supper for him. He must have enjoyed himself, because he's been here several times since. And not long afterward I was much intrigued when we visited a new neighbor in her modern, up-to-the-minute home to hear my daughter say afterwards: 'It's a lovely house, mother, but it's sort of . . . cold, isn't it?' We haven't much money, but we're such a happy family," and my neighbor sighed with content.

Of course, I believe a woman should make her home as charming and use as good taste as possible and keep it in as reasonable order and as clean as she has the strength to keep it. But the thing that makes it a "swell" place for the children to live in and bring their friends to is the warm hominess and the spirit of hospitality that pervades it.

Weddings

The marriage of Miss Dorislee Atteberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Atteberry of Indianapolis, Ind., to Ensign Henry L. Goerlick III., U. S. N. R., took place yesterday in the chapel of Grace cathedral, San Francisco, Cal. Mrs. Goerlick Jr. of Evanston was in San Francisco for the wedding, but the bridegroom's father was unable to make the trip west. Duane Atteberry gave his sister in marriage, and Ensign Randall Washburn was best man. The former Miss Atteberry attended Lindenwood college, Northwestern university, and the Vogue School of Design. Ensign Goerlick was graduated from the Northwestern university school of commerce in 1939 and volunteered for active duty the following year.

The marriage of Miss Betty Dudley Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Dudley Taylor of Kenilworth and New York, to William Beverley Shattuck of New York took place on Jan. 3 in the eastern city. The Rev. Philip Cowell Jones of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church performed the ceremony before relatives and a few close friends. Mr. Shattuck is the son of Mrs. Roy Shattuck of Brazil, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Ruekberg of Highland Park announce the marriage of their daughter, Muriel, to Dr. Jules H. Last, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Last of Chicago. The wedding took place on Jan. 11 in the home of the bride's parents.

Heating Stoves in Demand for Needy Families

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

A worker on the north side of the city has requested a coal stove for a needy family. The father is working, but earns a very small salary which is far from sufficient to supply all the needs of his wife and four children. A two burner oil stove now provides the only heat in the house. The older children are in school, but the youngest one is at home all day and feels the cold intensely.

We have many similar appeals from families able to use only soft coal burners. There are many parents living with small children in five or six rooms, with a stove for only one room in the house.

Mrs. D. has a large family of youngsters to care for, and is much in need of a coal or wood cooking stove. She is now cooking for the entire family on a small garbage burner. Her husband is employed at a minimum salary, as is the oldest daughter, but with 11 children to feed, clothe, and house, the family cannot afford money for a stove.

Soldier and Civilian Are Rivals in Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am a young girl of 19, and even tho so young, I've a serious problem. In the early part of 1941 I started a correspondence with service men. A friend of my mother's had a son in the service, and he asked me to write to him. I did so. Several months ago, while on his furlough, we met and fell in love. We continued our correspondence, altho it was quite different from that prior to our meeting.

"We were to become engaged at Christmas time, but because of the national situation we didn't. However, he wrote and told me to continue seeing other friends. I have been doing so.

"A little over a month ago I went out with one of the fellows from my place of business. Ever since then I've continued seeing him. He is a good sport, a good dancer, and has a wonderful sense of humor. My mother has, of course, met him and likes him as much as she likes the soldier. Both boys know of one another, and my fellow employé is jealous of the soldier.

"In the beginning I told him what the soldier means to me, but now he refuses to listen to reason. I admit I like him a lot and don't want to lose his friendship. I have, however, threatened to refuse to see him again, but he is desperate. I never have given him reason to believe that I care for him more than just as a good friend. Please advise. PATRICIA."

Altho it is nice to be so sought after, Patricia, you must keep your head working in affairs of the heart. The soldier has been honest and fair to you, and the other man has tried to be fair and honest, but his jealousy is getting out of bounds. In a way, you can't blame him, for he has competition that is hard to beat. You, on the other hand, are only 19. You don't have to marry any one for several years if you don't want to. So, why not be good friends with both of them and let the future take care of itself? If the man you see often sulks, let him.

Parent-Teacher Managers to Consider Wartime Plans

The board of managers of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, with a comprehensive wartime program already set up, will consider what further services its organization could contribute in the national emergency at a two day meeting opening Wednesday at the Stevens hotel. Particular attention is to be given to problems of public health and nutrition, and the state body also will study the resolution passed last week by the national executive committee at its meeting here calling on the Office of Civilian Defense for a nation-wide system of registration and identification of children. Mrs. F. Russell Lyon will preside.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Some contracts are so difficult to fulfill that the average player need feel no shame if he falls by the wayside. In the hand below, for instance, a double squeeze would produce the requisite 12 tricks. If that had been the only successful method of play, the declarer would not have merited criticism for his failure. Actually, however, there was available a very simple plan that would have been just as effective.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	3 hearts	4 spades
5 diamonds	Double	5 hearts	5 spades
Pass	6 spades	[final bid]

West opened the seven of hearts. Declarer won and, probably with the wild hope of "sneaking a diamond trick," led his singleton. West, however, climbed up with the ace and returned a heart.

As mentioned previously, declarer could have won the remaining tricks by running off every trump and the diamond king. East would have had to discard his last heart in order to keep a club stopper, and dummy's five of hearts would have been good.

But squeezing would have been unnecessary if declarer had had the vision to delay his lead of the singleton diamond. On the bidding it was obvious that East had started with at least seven hearts. This would leave West with only two. It was vital that declarer remove West's remaining heart and thereby remove his only safe exit card. After winning the heart ace declarer should have crossed to dummy's spade king and ruffed [high] a second heart. He then should have drawn trumps, after which he should have led his singleton diamond. West would have to win with the ace or give up any hope of defeating the contract. After winning, however, West would not be able to make a return that could prevent declarer from taking every remaining trick. A diamond return would give declarer a free finesse and permit the discard of two clubs. A club return would be equally fatal, since it would enable the declarer to avoid the loss of a club trick. The club jack, for example, would be won in dummy with the king, and declarer then could finesse against East's queen. A low club lead by West would trap East's queen.

Miss Shonts, who lives at 2421 Coyle avenue, yesterday demonstrated her ace in the hole—Beau Jeanne, a 9 year old horse, and a second hand sulky that cost her $50.

The Horse Knows.

"I've driven horses all my life," she said, "and don't you dare ask me how long that is. Long enough, that the horse knows I mean business."

She has been principal of Haugan, which is at 4540 North Hamlin avenue, for six years and has been using her car to cover the four mile trip between the school and her home twice a day.

"I've got two new tires on the front wheels but the rear ones are in bad shape," she explained. "The day they go 'pouf' my garage becomes a stable and Beau Jeanne gets pads for her hooves."

Solves Tire Problem.

The pads are necessary if the horse is to negotiate the pavement successfully, according to Miss Shonts.

"My father taught me to drive when I was a child in Horicon [Wis.] and I've made a hobby of it ever since. And right now I'm convinced I picked the right hobby—it certainly solves my tire problem."

What if it snows?

"I'm prepared for that, too," Miss Shonts replied. "I've got a sleigh—and I'm not sure but what sleighing is even more fun than driving the sulky."

Miss Shonts is convinced that if the stringent tire restrictions continue, she'll be only one of many who retreat to the horse and buggy era—and enjoy it.

Parents and Five Children Killed by Heater Fumes

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Commercial vegetable growers and breeders have introduced new varieties of vegetables this year that are especially designed for the small home garden, and deserve a place in the war garden.

This is the time of year to study the latest seed catalogs, and plan what types of vegetables will be best suited for your garden.

One of the newest vegetables featured in the catalogs this year is a sweet corn hybrid blend that will answer the family's call for a continuous supply of corn. The hybrids do away with the tedious work of planting several rows each week to assure a difference in maturity rate.

Mixture of Four Strains.

The blend is a mixture of four strains, Surprise, Golden Cross, Erlibird, and Golden Nugget. Each strain has a different maturity rate ranging from 64 to 79 days. Thus all the seed can be planted at once and the gardener will have a longer harvest period, with a weekly supply of fresh corn on the cob.

A green leaf lettuce, the Oak Leaf, is especially recommended for its long harvest season and ability to remain tender and sweet long after the hot summer months begin. It is an excellent source of vitamin A and matures in 40 days. This green lettuce is recommended by nutrition experts as being more healthful than white lettuces.

Experts, for the first time, have developed a stringless pole bean—the Pole Bean Decatur. The bean matures in 65 days and gives a heavy yield. Its producing period is longer than that of the bush bean, and it produces a round pod about six inches long. It is stringless even when mature.

Tomatoes for Small Space.

A special tomato adapted for a small space is the Bounty. Maturing in 60 days, the vine spreads over a diameter of only 18 inches instead of the usual four feet.

Another good tomato for the war garden is the Mingold. This vine produces a golden yellow tomato in 85 days. It is one of the most uniform and high yielding plants on the market. It was developed by the University of Missouri.

The university also has produced a midget cucumber that will fit perfectly in a small garden. The plant attains a size of from 6 to 12 inches, with few lateral branches. The fruits are dark green and are born in a natural huddle, making it possible to set the plants only 18 inches apart. It matures in 70 days.

New Carrot Variety.

Touchon is a new carrot variety that provides important supplies of vitamin A. It is sweet and almost without a core. It can be grown in 60 days.

These are only a few of the many vegetable varieties that are obtainable in packet form for use in the war garden. Designed for maximum production in a minimum of space, they answer the demands of the gardener who has only a small spot to cultivate.

Baby 8 Days Old Found Dead in Hospital Crib

Judith Anderson, 8 days old, was found dead last night in her crib in the nursery of Woodlawn hospital. She had been smothered under her blanket. Detective John Kustusch of the Woodlawn police station quoted Dr. Benjamin Freiband of the hospital staff as saying it had been necessary to permit the infant to sleep on her stomach because of a back irritation. Judith was the daughter of Eric and Mrs. Annette Anderson, 703 East 80th street. She was born in the hospital Jan. 18.

NEGRO LYNCHED BY MOB; BODY BURNED IN STREET

300 Force Missouri Jail and Seize Prisoner.

Sikeston, Mo., Jan. 25 [Special].—A mob of 300 broke into the city jail here today, removed a Negro accused of attempting to rape a white woman and lynched him.

Map locates Sikeston.

The mob dragged the Negro 10 blocks thru the streets behind an automobile until he was dead and then burned the body in a street in the Negro section.

An immediate "searching and thoro investigation" and indictment of every person who had "any part, great or small, in this mob violence" was ordered tonight by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell in Jefferson City.

Grand Jury Action Urged.

Donnell concurred in a suggestion by Scott County Prosecuting Attorney David Blanton that a grand jury be called to investigate the case. Sixteen state highway policemen and American Legion members patroled streets in the Negro section tonight.

Negroes were ordered to remain indoors and white persons were prevented from entering the section. Approximately 2,000 Negroes live in the area.

Police said the lynching victim, Cleo Wright, 30 years old, a cotton oil mill worker, admitted breaking into the home of Mrs. Grace Sturgeon, 29, shortly after midnight and stabbing her when she fought off his attempt to rape her.

Husband in Army.

Mrs. Sturgeon, the wife of Sergt. Dillard Sturgeon, a member of the Missouri National Guard called into the federal service, was near death in the Sikeston General hospital.

After the attack, which was witnessed by Mrs. Sturgeon's son, James, 8, and by her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Sturgeon, with whom she lives, Wright was arrested on suspicion by Policeman Hess Perrigan, who found him walking toward the Negro section. A bloody knife was in Wright's pocket.

As Wright was being taken to the police station in a squad car he drew another knife and slashed at Perrigan, cutting him on the face and neck. Perrigan, sitting beside Wright in the police car, fired three shots, wounding the Negro.

Perrigan and Wright both were taken to the hospital, where Wright received emergency treatment. He was removed to the city jail when a mob gathered outside the hospital. The mob broke up, but formed again outside the jail.

Mob Forces Jail.

At the jail Chief of Police Walter Kendall and Prosecuting Attorney Blanton pleaded with the mob to disperse. The two were shouldered aside, however, and the mob forced two jail doors and dragged Wright outside.

He was thrown, unresisting, into the trunk of an automobile and taken to the Negro district. There he was tied behind the car, and dragged thru the streets. The mob then poured gasoline over the body and set it on fire in the center of the street. The body remained in the street several hours and then was removed in a city truck.

Woman Given Transfusions.

Mrs. Sturgeon, an employé of a shoe factory, was stabbed several times in the abdomen and her hands were cut. She was given three blood transfusions.

Her sister-in-law told police the assailant apparently had watched their home for some time. She said he smashed the glass in the kitchen door, but, failing in his attempt to enter that way, broke a window and climbed thru.

A movement was under way among Sikeston's 6,000 white residents to raise a fund to pay Sergt. Sturgeon's transportation to Sikeston if he is given a leave of absence from the army.

German Owner of Radio Sending Set Is Arrested

Ernest Paul Max Pawlak, 39 years old, described as a German enemy alien, was arrested by Hudson avenue police yesterday after a large radio short wave sending set was found in his home at 2306 Lincoln avenue. Detectives George Schert and John O'Malley made the arrest following anonymous information. Police were ordered to hold Pawlak for federal agents.

The tally-drunk Blackhawks last night delighted most of the 18,679 hockey fans who jammed Chicago Stadium with the season's largest crowd by slapping down the skilled Toronto Maple Leafs, 6 to 4. It was a great hockey match. The Chicago score was remarkable because Goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs was leading the league as the most successful net minder when he went into the contest. He has allowed 65 goals all season, and 10 of these have been made by the Hawks in two games in the last eight nights.

Once more the players managed to entertain superlatively, without aid of brawling. The only hoodlumism was by those funny fellows who throw debris on the ice. One of them was grabbed last night and President William Tobin of the Hawks announced he would be prosecuted. President Tobin said others will be nabbed if the renewal of the dangerous and annoying practice continues. The gent dragged out last night gave his name as John Cocomise. He gave a north side address.

Thoms Scores Two Goals.

The score was tied in each period of the game. Bill Thoms made two goals and one assist for three tally points and Alex Kaleta gained three assist points. The other goal makers were Cully Dahlstrom, Joe Cooper, and Doug Bentley, and Earl Seibert.

The first goal was produced out of a power play generated when Don Metz was lodged behind the red door for interference. Cooper cut loose with a long shot which caromed off a pair of shins before it got to Goalie Broda's upholstery. Kaleta grabbed the puck, nudged it to Dahlstrom and Cully rammed it into the cage. The time was 11:13.

The Leafs tied the score in 6:25 of the second period on Gordon Drillon's shot and went ahead, 2 to 1, in 15:45 of the period in a maneuver which caused Goalie Sam Lo Presti to denounce Bingo Kampman vociferously. Kampman picked up a loose puck, fired straight at Sammy's boots for what appeared an elemental save. Lo Presti let it sift between his pads into the cage after he had stopped the force of Bingo's shot. It was tallied a solo for Kampman in 15:45.

Hawks Tie, Then Move Ahead.

Less than two minutes after the Leafs had gone ahead, the Hawks tied the score, and less than a minute after they had tied the count at 2 to 2 the Hawks went ahead, 3 to 2.

In 17:20 of the second period Thoms took the puck from Art Wiebe and headed straight for Broda and scored one of the trickiest goals of the year. Wiebe gained an assist. Cooper banged a long, hard one which whizzed past Broda at a couple of hundred miles an hour in 18:47. Thoms and Cully Dahlstrom rang up assists on Cooper's line drive counter.

The score became 4 to 2 for the Hawks in 3:05 of the third period when March made an unobstructed dash the length of the rink for a hard shot against Broda's pads. Doug Bentley pounced on the rebound and shot it home. March drew an assist.

Plenty of Action!

In 7:17 of this period Syl Apps and Drillon executed the first of two startling forays with which the Leafs tied the score. Apps scored on an assist by Drillon and 22 seconds later Drillon scored on an assist by Apps. Metz also got an assist on the tying tally.

In 9:33 the Hawks made the score 5 to 4. Seibert whizzed in a 40 footer. Kaleta won an assist. The Hawks' sixth goal was made by Thoms on an assist by Kaleta in 17:09.

Some of the old actors may be missing, but no six day bicycle cast ever was more enthusiastic than the 10 teams which swished up and down the white pine boards in the Coliseum last night as Chicago's 44th race got under way with 7,000 sitting in the old green seats.

The first of the 147 hours of pedaling kept the crowd in a constant uproar. There were numerous stolen laps as the performers, new and old, sought to gain an early advantage. There were two spills, at opposite ends of the oval and to the credit of the crashees' handlers, it must be said they examined the temporary victims before rushing over to inspect the damage, if any, accruing to the precious tires.

Cleveland Rider Goes Down.

William Anderson, a skinny youth from Cleveland, O., was the first rider down. He crashed at the north end, but after a liberal dash of mercurochrome he returned to the track. Two fellows were involved in the second traffic accident. Charles Bergna of Paterson, N. J., went down in a tangle with his machine and the front wheel was cracked. William Kuehn, a Chicagoan making his professional debut, couldn't swerve out of the prostrate rider's way and he, too, became unseated.

Before the first hour was concluded, three teams had emerged from the welter of flying wheels. These were Cecil Yates of Chicago and Doug Peden of Victoria, B. C., the red, white, and blue team; Torchy Peden of Victoria, B. C., and Charley Yaccino of Chicago and the United States army, and Bergna and Angelo DeBacco, the New Jersey team. Each stole three laps. In all, 19 laps were pilfered in the first 60 minutes.

Yates and Peden Favorites.

Yates and Peden, younger brother of Torchy, were the favorites to win, if there were any. The former, rated the fastest man on a wheel, rode with his chin almost grazing his front wheel during the more enthusiastic moments of the go-around. Jerry Rodman of Chicago replaced Ewald Wissel of Newark as Joe De Bacco's partner in a last minute switch as the race opened.

If the lads needed any more encouragement to whirl around the track, they got it when George F. Barrett, Illinois attorney general, put up $50 for a special sprint, divided into five heats. The first winner was Doug Peden. Attorney General Barrett also started the race. It was Peden and Yates who started the lap stealing by scoring first. The Barrett Athletic club team of William Jacoby and Ed Carfagnini managed to nail down two laps during the first hour.

In Old Fashioned Setting.

The return of the bike race to the south side sports arena after a lapse of 13 years drew praises of many old timers. The arena had an old fashioned setting, with the bunks of the riders on the outer fringe of the infield. Inside was a refreshment booth, its counters covered with blue and white oil cloth.

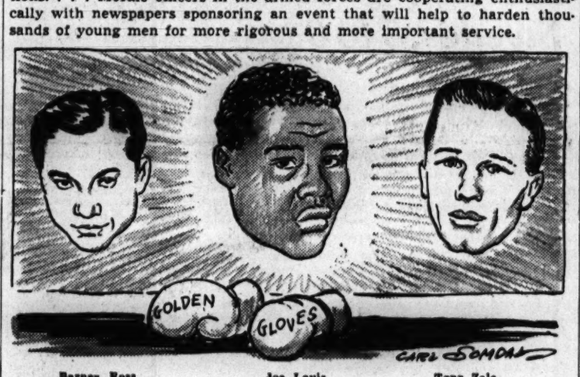
Results of the 2 a. m. sprints:

1—Carfagnini, A. De Bacco, Letourner, Yates.
2—Audy, Kuehn, Bergna, Rodman.
3—Carfagnini, Yates, A. De Bacco, Desroches.
4—Anderson, Rodman, B. Peden, Abt.
5—Carfagnini, T. Peden, A. De Bacco, Eller.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WAR or no war, the Golden Gloves tournament goes on. . . . The battle for the Chicago championships begins tonight at St. Sabina's gymnasium on the south side. . . . North side candidates will start firing Wednesday night. . . . The survivors of the two sectional meets will fight it out for the city titles at the Coliseum, Feb. 12. . . . Then will come the Tournament of Champions at Chicago Stadium the last week in February, which will involve winners from at least 40 qualifying centers stretching from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Alleghenies to the Rockies. . . . Then the grand champions will move into New York for the 15th annual intercity bouts with the best amateur glove wielders along the Atlantic coast. . . . And 1942, by the way, is the year those New Yorkers say they're going to whip us. . . . The last time the eastern champions scored a victory over Chicago's representatives was way back in 1934 and they're plenty mad. . . . The huge field, inside and outside Chicago, which is starting down the long trail that leads to fistic glory this year will include sailors, soldiers, aviators, and marines, as well as office workers, newsboys, students, and boys from various and sundry vocations. . . . Morale officers in the armed forces are coöperating enthusiastically with newspapers sponsoring an event that will help to harden thousands of young men for more rigorous and more important service.



Barney Ross. Joe Louis. Tony Zale.

We have invited to competition every boy with a good body, stout heart, and some knowledge of the art of self-defense. . . . The Golden Gloves competition is no secret. . . . Every one who goes into it knows what it is—the toughest amateur tournament in the world, one calling for endurance and courage, one in which a contestant may be called upon to fight five or six times before he reaches the final round. . . . He may never get by his first match. . . . He may be thumped to the canvas in his second appearance, but the fact he had the guts to enter is evidence that he had the right stuff in him. . . . Golden Gloves offers no inducement to the faint of heart. . . . Only the brave succeed. . . . The road to amateur boxing's greatest goal is barred to no one. . . . All start equally with two legs, two arms, two fists, and a ticker. . . . Every one gets a square deal, whether he is white or black, Protestant, Catholic, or Jew, or whether he comes from Podunk, Ark., or Chicago. . . . He can win, if he has it in him. . . . Golden Gloves champions have been found in strange places. . . . Boys who went into the event on a lark or a dare suddenly have found themselves under the white spotlights of Chicago Stadium or Madison Square Garden to vanquish a foeman before 20,000 pairs of eyes. . . . It happens as quickly as that.

Altho three world champions have come out of Chicago Golden Gloves—Joe Louis, Tony Zale, and Barney Ross—it isn't the intention of the sponsors to start boys on careers as professional fighters. . . . We are happy that we can give these young men, many of whom have been deprived of the thrill of interscholastic or intercollegiate competition, a chance to build their bodies, to share the spotlight for a few weeks and to learn the importance of sportsmanship, even when the tide of battle is going against them. . . . Then, too, it will do no harm for Young America to have had some experience in the fundamentals which have made the United States the greatest nation the world has known—competition and individualism.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Illinois' undefeated Big Ten basketball leaders are resting two weeks and undergoing their scholastic tests, the attention of the conference centers on Purdue. The Boilermakers have lost only one game in four starts and hold second place, a position they will defend tonight in Lafayette against the challenge of Minnesota's twice beaten third place quintet.

Illinois came thru last week in critical games with Iowa and Minnesota. The Illini, by piling up a tremendous early advantage Saturday against the Gophers, have demonstrated beyond question their right to lead the conference court parade. Now it's Purdue's turn to show its power and Minnesota provides the best opportunity to judge Ward Lambert's team since its one point defeat by Indiana.

Indiana Plays Michigan.

Purdue plays at Ohio State Saturday and already holds a 45 to 32 decision over the Buckeyes. Four conference teams—Northwestern, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa—do not play this week. Indiana, now beaten three times, is host tonight to Michigan, which registered an upset Saturday over Ohio State, 55 to 39. Indiana plays at Chicago Saturday. Chicago at Ohio State tonight and Minnesota at Michigan Saturday complete the abbreviated week's schedule.

Purdue has not played for two weeks and since its three victories were registered against Chicago, Ohio State, and Michigan, now the last three in Big Ten standings, the Boilermakers may not be as good as many of their supporters believe them to be.

Purdue Closes with Illini.

Purdue still has 11 conference games and 7 of these will be played away from home. The program concludes with an invasion of Illinois in what can be the climactic battle of the season. When Minnesota last met Purdue the Gophers won, 68 to 50, and established a high scoring record which lasted until Jan. 10 this year when Northwestern ran over Chicago, 69 to 50.

Purdue will depend, of course, on speed. In four conference games the Boilermakers have scored 76 field goals and 32 free throws in 62 attempts. Forrest Sprowl, veteran forward, leads in individual scoring with 51 points. Capt. Don Blanken and Al Menke, sophomore center, have scored 13 field goals each. Mickey Tierney is expected to start with Sprowl at forward and the other guard will be Bob Riley, Charles Caress, or Cecil Polk.

Badgers Are Coming Up.

Altho Wisconsin lost its first three games, the Badgers now have won four and have pulled up to fourth position in the race. Three defeats, in view of Illinois' lead, probably are an insurmountable barrier, but the Badgers will have a lot to say about who does take the title they are defending. Paced by Johnny Kotz, who got 23 points Saturday while Wisconsin was whipping Indiana, 42 to 36, the Badgers are playing as fine a game as any conference team. The big blot on the record is their opening defeat by Illinois, 55 to 40. On Feb. 23 the Badgers travel to Illinois to do something about it.

JACK FOX, YOUNG HOCKEY PLAYER, KILLED OVERSEAS

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Jan. 25 (AP).—Cpl. Jack Fox, captain and defenseman with the Winnipeg Monarchs when they won the Canadian Junior Hockey championship in 1937 and later property of Toronto's Maple Leafs in the National league, has been killed while serving overseas with the Canadian army, his father was notified last night. Details of his death overseas could not be learned.

Chicago Wins 3 Skate Titles at St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25 [Special].—Chicago Silver Skates champions won three titles today as the North American outdoor speed skating meet was concluded on slush ice in Como park.

Senior titles went to the defending champions, Kenny Bartholomew of Minneapolis and Carmelita Landry of Fitchburg, Mass. The Chicago Silver Skates winners were John Martin of Champaign, Ill.; Don Laser of Hollywood, Ill.; David Roll of Glen Ellyn and Roy Parker of Chicago.

Martin Overshadows Juniors.

Martin, who broke the national junior 440 yard record yesterday, won the 220 and 880 yard events and placed second in the mile to total 120 points for the junior crown.

A fall by Laser in the juvenile 880 yard race gave Roll his chance to win the event and tie Laser for the juvenile title. Each had 70 points.

Ronchetti Fails to Place.

Bartholomew won the senior mile and placed second to Ted Ellenwood of Fort Johnson, N. Y. in the 880. His 140 points gave him a wide lead over another Minneapolitan, Bob Fitzgerald, the runner-up. Fitzgerald

BY HOWARD BARRY.

This is the night when Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament opens. Each year it's a great occasion for boxing fans. From past experience they know that during the coming weeks they'll sit in on one show after another that is packed with action, that is replete with variety, personality and human interest.

At 7 o'clock this evening a couple of youngsters will climb thru the ropes of the ring in St. Sabina's gymnasium. They'll be novices—a bit uneasy about their first appearance in a big show. At the stroke of the bell they'll let fly the first punches of Chicago's south side tournament.

Each Bout a Show in Itself.

From that moment until the champions of all the vast Golden Gloves territory are crowned in early March, there seldom will be two bouts alike. Each one is a show in itself because these lads have none of the predictable routines of professionals. Almost anything is likely to happen at any time. And that's one of the things that make the Golden Gloves tournament such an entertaining show. The entire project is sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., with the coöperation of newspapers and radio stations over a wide area.

In the course of three successive nights of fighting—tonight, tomorrow, and Wednesday—the south siders will pick their champions in both the open and novice divisions. The open class fighters will be looking a long way ahead. They'll feel that every punch they let fly will have a direct bearing on their chances to move successively thru the south side eliminations in St. Sabina's, the city championship event in the Coliseum, the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium, and on to the finals and a Golden Gloves title.

Chicagoans Win Their Share.

Many a previous Golden Gloves winner started out in one of Chicago's sectional events just as these boys will be doing tonight. In the course of the long history of this competition, Chicago youngsters have won more than their share of titles against the best fighters which could be mustered from all Golden Gloves territory which, counting the regions tapped for the intercity matches with New York, includes the entire area east of the Rocky mountains.

The novices will have a closer objective in their south side sectional bouts. They'll be aiming at city championships in their class. Like the open division fighters, the south side's best novices will face those who survive the north sectional eliminations. The showdown for the city title will be held in the Coliseum on Feb. 12. The open division winners will go on from there to the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium, but the novices will be thru for this year. Many of them will be back again next season to try among the veterans.

North Siders Open Wednesday.

The north side will take up its tournament in Loyola gymnasium before the south siders are thru. There will be one night when the events overlap, the north side beginning on Wednesday evening while the south side is holding its finals. Fighting will continue on the north side thru Thursday and Friday.

Meanwhile the battle will be going on in many other sections. There will be fighting in 10 other centers during the coming week, not to mention eliminations in many towns which send representatives to the various regional centers.

Cleveland will hold its semi-finals tonight, Fort Wayne will run off its preliminaries, and Des Moines has its second round scheduled. Fighting will begin tomorrow in Milwaukee, Muncie, Richmond, Ind., and Nashville.

Admission to this week's shows in St. Sabina's and Loyola will be 75 cents each evening. No seats will be reserved.

Horace Mann, Evansville, Unbeaten, Clash Tonight

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 25 [Special].—Central High school of Evansville and Horace Mann of Gary, the only two undefeated prep quintets in the state of Indiana, will meet here tomorrow night. Central and Horace Mann last Friday night dropped two other quintets from the unbeaten list. Central winning from Washington, Ind., and Horace Mann defeating Hammond Tech.

HOGAN TIGHTENS HOLD ON LEAD IN CALIFORNIA GOLF

Scores 136, 8 Under Par, at Halfway Mark.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 25 (AP).—Ben Hogan took a tighter hold on first place in the 72 hole San Francisco open golf tournament today. He cleared the half way mark with an eight under par total of 136.

The star from Hershey, Pa., who set a first round pace of 65 before the tournament was twice postponed due to unfavorable playing conditions, resumed his attack today over a soggy course with a 34—37—71 to pick up one stroke on the field.

Bassler, Little Trail.

At the end of 36 holes, Hogan held a four shot advantage over his closest rivals, and except for a blowup in tomorrow's last two rounds seemed certain to chalk up his second tournament victory. He took top money in the recent Los Angeles open and followed with a two way tie for second place in the Oakland open last week.

Four strokes behind Hogan were Harry Bassler of Los Altos and Lawson Little of San Francisco. Bassler came in with another 70—A 33—37. Little put up the best round of the day, a 69. He went out in 34 and was home in 35. Par is 36—36—72.

Six Others Under Par.

Among the seven players still under par at the Halfway mark were Dick Metz, with a 70-71—141, Lloyd Mangrum and Al Zimmerman, tied at 142, and Jim Ferrier, Harry Cooper, and Bob Mort, deadlocked at 143. Mort, a San Francisco shipyard worker, was the low amateur at the end of 36 holes, coming in today with a 70.

The field was trimmed today to the 51 low professionals and 11 amateurs for tomorrow's two rounds. The leaders:

Ben Hogan	65	71	136
Harry Bassler	70	70	140
Lawson Little	71	69	140
Dick Metz	70	71	141
Lloyd Mangrum	71	70	141

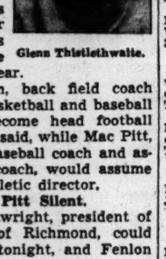
Thistlethwaite Reported Thru at Richmond U.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 25 (AP).—The Times Dispatch said today it had learned from a reliable source that the contract of Glenn Thistlethwaite, head football coach and athletic director of the University of Richmond, would not be renewed. Thistlethwaite's present one year contract expires at the end of the current school year.



Glenn Thistlethwaite.

Fenlon, Pitt Silent.

Dr. F. W. Boatwright, president of the University of Richmond, could not be reached tonight, and Fenlon and Pitt would not comment.

Thistlethwaite completed eight years of coaching at Richmond last fall. He came to the university in 1934 from Carroll college under a three year contract. He was given another three year contract in 1937, but in 1940 he was placed an a regular faculty basis with a one year contract. The contract was renewed for a year in November, 1941.

Lost Seven in 1941.

Thistlethwaite also has coached at Illinois college, Earlham, Oak Park High school, Northwestern university, and the University of Wisconsin. During the 1941 season Richmond lost seven games and won two, from Randolph-Macon and Hampden-Sydney. Richmond lost to every Big Six team in the state.

HOWARD TO SEND RACING STRING TO HIALEAH TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25 (AP).—Charles S. Howard made arrangements today to ship 10 of his handicap horses, including Mioland and Porter's Cap, to Hialeah Park, Fla., tomorrow. Howard and others have been waiting in a hope that Santa Anita Park might yet be permitted to hold its winter season, canceled at the request of army officials.

About half the 1,400 horses originally stabled at Santa Anita are still there, but a railroad official estimated that 20 carloads would be shipped between now and Feb. 1, some going to Hot Springs, Ark.

A City and a Sports Department

(The Tribune Grows Up with Chicago)

[This is the 23d of a series of articles on the highlights of the development of sports in Chicago, with especial reference to the part played by the Tribune sports department in reporting them from pre-Civil war days to the present time.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

THE memories of many an old time baseball fan in Chicago will react immediately to three names which stood out in the pages of THE TRIBUNE as a triumvirate of reporters of the national pastime who were hard to beat. They were Charley Dryden, I. E. [Si] Sanborn, and Hughey Fullerton. Mention the name of any of the trio today to an old time baseball writer, and he'll be happy to say that he knew all or one of them.

Of the threesome, the man who left the greatest impression not only on baseball writing, but on sports rhetoric in general, was Dryden. Charley, who died in 1931, is still credited with coining such original nicknames as "The Old Roman" for Charles A. Comiskey, and "The Peerless Leader" for Frank Chance. It was he also who wrote that Ed Walsh, one-time White Sox pitching star, was "the only man in the world who can strut standing still."

Dryden's entry into the newspaper business was accidental. While working in a foundry in Monmouth, Ill., he amused himself betimes by setting down whatever funny ideas came to him. A friend suggested that he give up the foundry for writing, and he took heed by doing a number of books, most notable of which was, "Off the Bread Wagon." This was more or less an autobiography, detailing many of his own experiences, including a hitch in the United States navy.

Dryden Puts It Over on the Copyreaders.

Before coming to Chicago, Dryden had worked in San Francisco and New York. The latter tenure marked one of the highlights of Dryden's career. As Harvey T. Woodruff later wrote, "Charley was a man of wide experience and a delightful fellow personally. But he was a source of irritation to careless copyreaders. He had a habit of dropping into his story somewhere a daring sentence, or one in which a double meaning could be read, and replates and changes were not uncommon if the copyreader booted one."

During his term in New York, Dryden's favorite target was one Andrew Freedman. Not only was Freedman an early forerunner of such manglers of the language as Sam Goldwyn and Mushky Jackson, but he also was proprietor of the New York Giants' baseball club in the late '90s. Mr. Freedman took exception to one of Dryden's little whimsies, and after reprimanding him with the following. "Young man, you are standing on the brink of an abscess," told Charles never to darken the gates of the Polo Grounds again.

Harvey Woodruff Pays Tribute to Sanborn.

This hardly thwarted the wily Dryden. He managed to get reports of the games from friends after each was played, and continued to write stories on the Giants. He wrote one day that he had watched the game from a telegraph pole. Freedman promptly had all such in the neighborhood of the park surrounded by gendarmes. Later, Charley reported that he had enjoyed the contest in the guise of an old lady. Several indignant grandmothers became quite wroth at being challenged by Freedman's stooges within the ball park. Mr. F. ultimately sold the club.

Sanborn, who died in 1934 at the age of 67, enjoyed a TRIBUNE fame comparable to that of Hughey Keough, for their by-lines indicated a daily high in their respective fields. Whereas all sports fans identified Keough's work under the signature, "By Hek," all good baseball followers recognized Sanborn by the tag, "By Si."

"Si ranked, in my mind, as the best all around baseball writer I ever have known," Harvey Woodruff once said. "He was not a humorist, but he could condense more good English into a stirring account which left you a vivid picture of what had happened than any of his contemporaries. Si was a warm friend of Ban Johnson and sat in on many of the secret councils when the American league was formed and waged the fight which eventually resulted in recognition and peace with the older National league."

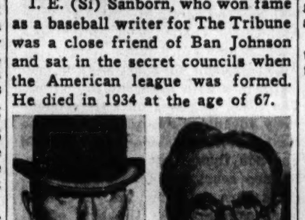
Hughey Fullerton, who is still very much among the living, was famed not only as baseball writer, but also as one of the conductors of the Wake of the News and as an all around writer, who could cover anything from the world series to the Mackinac yacht race or the National Open golf tournament. He was an imaginative reporter who earned a reputation as a dopester in preseason rating of baseball races, and commercialized his baseball knowledge probably better than any writer of his time, his syndicate articles finding a ready market.

I. E. (Si) Sanborn, who won fame as a baseball writer for The Tribune was a close friend of Ban Johnson and sat in the secret councils when the American league was formed. He died in 1934 at the age of 67.



Charles Dryden. Hugh Fullerton.

Charles Dryden, Tribune sports writer who died in 1931, was credited with originating many famous sports nicknames. Hugh Fullerton, a former conductor of the Wake of the News, is now a magazine writer.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta Ogden Dairy soccer team remained undefeated yesterday as it won an easy victory, 5 to 0, over the South Side Swedes before 1,500 in an Illinois state second round match in Sparta stadium.

The Spartas were held to one goal in the opening period, Jimmy MacDermott scoring from 18 yards out, but counted four times in the second half. Joe Weirer scored the second goal 20 minutes after the second half had opened, and George Hamous duplicated Weirer's effort six minutes later. Millard Lang scored the fifth goal and Jimmy MacDermott got his second and his team's fifth and final goal near the game's end.

Next Sunday the Swedes will meet the Slovaks in a fourth round amateur cup match in the Sparta stadium.

No Wind, So Fox Lake Iceboat Race Is Off

Competition on Fox lake for the Fox Lake Ice Yacht club's Commodore Ted Mead trophy was called off yesterday because of a lack of wind, altho the ice was ideal for iceboat racing. The regatta will be sailed next Sunday.

St. Cornelius Fives Retain CYO Leads

The St. Cornelius junior and senior teams continued to dominate the action in the CYO basketball league yesterday as they routed St. Constance seniors, 70 to 26, and St. Genevieve Juniors, 68 to 16, to strengthen their hold on first place in both sections of the St. Tarcissus division.

The senior quintet's victory was its 40th consecutive league victory in four years and its sixth straight this season. Center Ernie Daws sparked the heavies with 20 points and Forward Tommy Shields was high point man for the juniors with 25 points.

Also in the St. Tarcissus division yesterday Johnny Miller of St. Peter's seniors set a new individual scoring mark for the season with 18 baskets and two free throws as St. Peter's routed St. Mary, 65 to 36.

Guardian Angel, leader in the prep division in the West Side Community center section, topped all prep teams with a 55 to 25 victory over St. Helen. In the Fenwick division the St. Odilo No. 1 senior team went into first place by whipping St. Mary Celle, 20 to 14.

KRAMER LOSES TO MULLOY IN FLORIDA TENNIS

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP).—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami came from behind today to beat Jack Kramer of Oakland, Cal., 3-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4, in the finals of the University of Miami's second invitational tennis tournament. Kramer, whose strong all-around game earned him the ninth rating in the country last year, indicated he was making his final tournament appearance for some time. He plans to return home to apply for admission to the coast guard, he said.

Another star, Wayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., made his final amateur appearance in the doubles final. He teamed with Billy Talbert of Cincinnati to defeat Kramer and Mulloy, 4-6, 6-1, 8-6.

WIESNER'S GIVEN STATE BOWLING MEET FOR 1943

The Illinois Bowling association, at a meeting in the Congress hotel yesterday, awarded the 1943 state tournament to Milo Wiesner's recreation on the southwest side. The 1942 tourney will open April 10 in the Sylvan Dell at Aurora. Entries close Feb. 21.

The Chicago Bowling association, meeting following the state session, voted the 1942-43 tournament, held during the holidays, to the Windy City alleys on Cicero avenue. The association also decided to open permanent headquarters in room 1514 at 32 West Randolph street.

Westby Bowlers Will Aid Paralysis Fund

Westby, Wis., Jan. 25 [Special].—Westby's leading bowlers will gather in the Westby recreation alleys Friday for one of the biggest events of the season. Part of the proceeds of the evening's activities will be donated to the infantile paralysis fund.

MOTISI TO FACE NYBERG TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD RING

Pierce to Oppose Villa in Semi-Final Bout.

Tony Motisi, former Catholic Youth organization welterweight champion, and George Nyberg of Port Arthur, Ont., will meet in a 10 round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Each will be making his second appearance of the year. Both scored upsets in previous fights, Nyberg conquering Sammy Secreet on Jan. 5 and Tony defeating Harvey Dubs Jan. 12.

Prior to his conquest of Secreet, Nyberg was knocked out by Dubs. Despite this embarrassment, George and Motisi are evenly matched. Altho both have done all their fighting as welterweights since opening their professional careers in 1938, they have opposed similar opponents only twice.

Each Fought Howell.

In addition to Dubs, Tony and Nyberg each met Tommy Howell. Howell, Danville boxer, who since has retired from the ring, held George to a five round draw decision in their first meeting. In a rematch Nyberg beat Tommy in six rounds. Tony also was successful in his test against Howell, scoring a victory in five rounds. All three of these matches were held in 1939.

Jimmy Pierce, West Allis, Wis., 155 pound fighter, is paired with Danny Villa of the west side in a six round semi-windup. Villa surprised by hammering out a five round verdict over Jimmy Crow a week ago. Frank McBride, south side middleweight who has not boxed since being stopped by Johnny Colan last June 16, will return to action in a five round event against George Mitchell of Hammond. If Mitchell appears in the form he displayed while knocking out Lefty Lou Flyer of Los Angeles recently, McBride may be sent into retirement once more.

Two Preliminary Bouts.

Four round preliminary encounters will bring together Al Capalby, Indiana Harbor 165 pound fighter, and George Feltes of the Great Lakes and Armand Sicilia, Springfield, Ill., lightweight, and Willie Jones of the south side.

Charley Burley, Pittsburgh welterweight who stopped Jack Burke of Ogden, Utah, in Minneapolis last Friday, is being sought for a spot on a national defense show in Chicago Stadium Feb. 27. . . . Frankie Gilmore, Cincinnati lightweight, who faces Nick Castiglione in 10 rounds in Midway arena Feb. 6, will clash with Freddy Hunt in a round contest heading a show in Zanesville, O., this evening, proceeds of which will go to the Red Cross.

Walter Bietila Takes Central Ski Jump Title

Beloit, Wis., Jan. 25 [Special].—Walter Bietila of Madison, Wis., displaying almost flawless form, took the Central United States class A ski jumping championship this afternoon before a crowd of 2,000.

Wet snow kept the jumpers from approaching the 212 foot record for the Beloit slide. Bietila's first jump of 179 feet was tied by Ola, one of five representatives of the royal Norwegian air force training in Canada, but the champion stretched out to soar 186 feet in his second jump, the longest of the meet.

It was the third major championship in three weeks for Bietila. The leaders:

Harold A. Asplund of Denver, Colo., fired an aggregate of 1,692 pins for eight games across 16 alleys yesterday to take first place in the Petersen Individual Bowling classic at the Archer-35th recreation center.

Asplund, rolling with the 4 o'clock squad, replaced Ervin Schlechte of St. Louis and Bud Tierney of Kansas City, Mo., at the top of the table.

Schlechte Had Early Lead.

Schlechte had taken the lead Saturday with a 1,691 aggregate and this was tied yesterday by Tierney, who rolled with the first squad. The classic will end next Sunday when the last of 24 squads, each consisting of 32 men, complete their schedules.

Third place in the tourney is currently held by Frank Mataya of St. Louis, who spilled 1,673 pins yesterday in rolling with Tierney's squad. This was good enough to take the spot from Chester Bukowski of Detroit, Mich., whose 1,661 was second best on Saturday.

Carlson Is Fourth.

Adolph Carlson of Chicago, bowling with the evening squad, rolled an aggregate of 1,663, to take fourth place in the table. Another Chicagoan among the upper bracket of leaders is Fred Tanner, who rolled 1,627 last night to place 10th in the standings.

A total of $19,200 is being awarded in prizes, of which $4,000 will go to the winner. Twenty per cent of all the prize money will be paid in defense bonds.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—The New York Rangers, in their first home game since capturing the National Hockey league leadership on the road, gave a display of scoring power tonight in defeating the Detroit Red Wings, 11 to 2. A crowd of 14,789 fans attended the contest in Madison Square Garden.

In running up the highest score of the season the Rangers kept their one point margin over the second place Boston Bruins. It was the second victory in two nights over Detroit.

Grant Warwick, whom the Rangers are boosting for the rookie of the year award, got three goals and an assist, while Clint Smith collected a goal and three assists and Alan Kuntz a goal and two assists. In taking the worst defeat in Red Wing history, Jack Adams' club fell apart in the second period, when the Rangers scored six goals, three of them in 48 seconds. Lineup:

GARFIELD BEATS B'NAI B'RITH FOE; STILL UNBEATEN

Garfield kept its record clear in the lodge division of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization basketball tournament by beating Albany yesterday, 49 to 40. Sammy Keith made seven field goals and two free throws for the winners.

Austin won from West Rogers Park, 46 to 36; Kraus defeated Sachar, 27 to 26, and Cardozo defeated Salomon, 27 to 20.

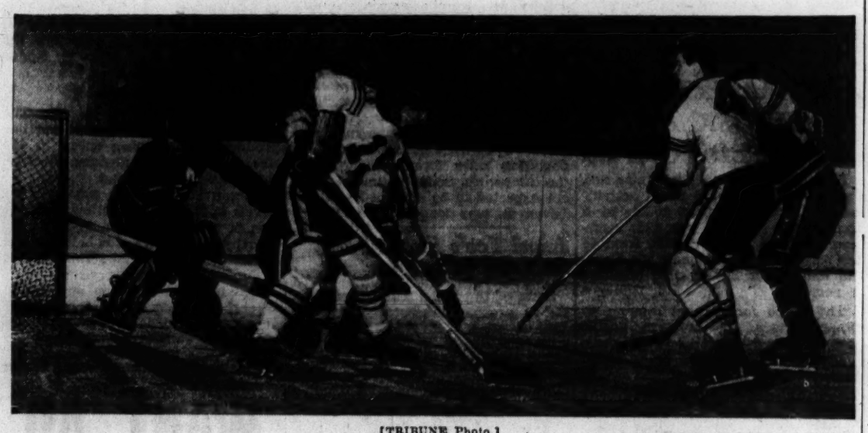
CLOVIS TAKES GLEN VIEW CLUB SHOOT WITH 100

Paul Clovis won the Glen View club's weekly singles trapshoot with a perfect 100 score yesterday. L. S. Gordon won the doubles event after shootoff with Glen Smith. The protection shoot went to L. A. Crowell and H. M. Harper who had a 96½ total.

J. J. Healy captured the final round of the Red-White-and-Blue event. H. M. Harper's 50 won the skeet shoot and Mrs. C. A. Crawford's 49½ won the women's event.

Toronto's Turk Gets in Hawks' Way



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Turk Broda, Toronto Maple Leafs' goalie, successfully turns back a drive by the Blackhawks in the first period of last night's National Hockey league game in the Stadium. A crowd of 18,679 saw the contest. Blackhawks in the play include Cully Dahlstrom (No. 15) and Alex Kaleta (No. 4). The Hawks won, 6 to 4.

Busy Mr. Halas Finally Takes a Vacation

George Halas, who perhaps was the busiest man in American sports in 1941, left for a Florida vacation last night, but the betting among his acquaintances was that the owner-coach of the world champion Chicago Bears would make it short and sweet so he could hurry back home to start worrying about the 1942 campaign.

Halas' intentions were of the best, however.

The Bears' coach said the 1941 season was the most wearing of all his other 20-odd campaigns in professional football.

"The loss to Green Bay on Nov. 2 did it," he said. "Had we won that game we could have coasted on in, but it forced us to work all the harder week after week until we finally won out."

During the season Halas parried queries on whether the 1941 Bears' team was the best one he had ever coached. Yesterday, tho, he admitted this not only was true, but that he believes they were the greatest aggregation ever assembled.

Halas believes that perhaps 10 of the championship team will go into the nation's service, and that most of them will be key men.

War Cuts Down on "Pushover" Football Games

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25 (AP).—There'll be fewer warm up games in football next fall, and a scarcity of breathers. War is whittling the list of little fellows in intercollegiate athletics.

More than half the small colleges in the south are curtailing schedules or abandoning sports entirely, an Associated Press survey of 50 schools discloses. Only 45 per cent are carrying on.

Gone from the Sunday football scores will be the names of Mercer, Howard college, Sewanee, Spring Hill, and Centenary—all veteran campaigners against big time foes. Gone also will be Erskine, Louisiana college, Georgia Teachers' college, and Cumberland, which have joined Stetson, Jacksonville [Ala.] Teachers, Loyola of New Orleans, and Birmingham-Southern in discontinuing football.

Mercer and Georgia Teachers announced recently their withdrawal from all intercollegiate athletics for the duration. Howard dropped baseball and track, along with football; Sewanee also discontinues basketball, and Spring Hill is abandoning baseball and tennis.

The seven member Dixie conference has been cut to four by the action of Mercer, Howard, and Spring Hill, leaving only Chattanooga, Millsaps, Mississippi college, and Southwestern. The eight team South Atlantic conference, which undertook to organize a year ago on "a purely amateur" basis, never operated.

Five Classic Teams Beat 3,000 Mark

Classic league bowling teams averaged 1,019 last night as five out of the eight clubs topped 3,000, with the Washington Shirts leading with 3,261 in the Cheltenham Recreation.

Eddie Hymes of the Washington broke teammate John Munch's 756 record by four pins when he led off with 277, 266, and 217—760. The Washingtons scored two victories over the Koenig Braus, which pulled them out of a first place tie with Schlitz, winners of two games with National.

Great Lakes, St. Joseph's Meet Tonight

Six weeks ago in Hammond, St. Joseph college of Rensselaer, Ind., gave the Great Lakes basketball team what the Bluejackets themselves later considered their hardest game of the season. Great Lakes won, 52 to 48, on a rally in the last four minutes after St. Joseph's had led thru every second of the game to that point.

Tonight in Gary Memorial stadium St. Joseph's will be given a second opportunity to stop the Bluejackets, who in their last three games have whipped Northwestern, Chicago, and Nebraska.

The contest will be played for the benefit of the American Red Cross War fund.

Great Lakes has been beaten only by Michigan State and Ohio State. Among the other teams which have succumbed to the sailors are Notre Dame, Purdue, Indiana, Butler, and Camp Grant.

In scoring 16 victories in its 18 games Great Lakes has rolled up 934 points, an average of 51.8 against all types of collegiate and service competition.

No individual in the Bluejackets' lineup has carried the scoring burden. Frank Baumholtz, Forrest Anderson, Ernie Andres, Bob Calihan, Dick Klein, Jim Currie, Bill Menke, George Rung, and Bob White have managed to divide the scoring task.

Substitute Yacht Race Planned by Miami Club

Miami, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP).—The Miami Yacht club is planning a 40 mile race as a substitute for the Miami-Nassau and Sir Thomas Lipton events, canceled because of the war. Chairman Robert E. Collins of the club's race committee said the tentative course would be from a point off Miami to Port Everglades and return. Yachts would be divided into classes by size and rig, he said.

FIGHT POSTPONED.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25 (AP).—The Richard Lemos-Chalky Wright fight, scheduled for Tuesday night, was postponed for a week today because of the illness of Lemos, who has influenza.

The teams have met seven times in the last three years with the Hoosiers victorious in four of the games.

Previous to yesterday's game their last meeting had been in the Loyola tournament semi-finals last spring when Leo upset the then two time champions, 28 to 27, and went on to capture the championship. The Loyola tournament now has been discontinued for the duration of the war.

Bob Baggott and Jim O'Halloren paced the Leo attack yesterday, the former accounting for 19 points and the latter 16. Leo led at the half, 28 to 20. In a preliminary game the Leo Juniors defeated St. Gregory, 45 to 28.

St. Ignatius invaded Marmion Military academy gym at Aurora yesterday and won a double header, the juniors defeating the cadet frosh-soph outfit, 22 to 15, and the seniors winning, 40 to 26. In the latter game St. Ignatius led, 17 to 11, at the half.

INDUSTRIAL USE OF SILVER SETS ALL-TIME PEAK

War Materials Take Larger Amounts.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—United States and Canadian arts and industries used a record total of 80 million ounces of silver in 1941, Handy & Harmon estimated today, reporting a 95 per cent increase over the 41 million ounces consumed in 1940, the former peak year.

"Silver is proving indispensable in increasing the efficiency and durability of war materials and in speeding up production," G. H. Niemeyer, president of the precious metals concern, said in commenting on its annual review.

"Recent research has discovered many new and unsuspected industrial uses for silver which are revolutionary," Niemeyer said. "Silver and its alloys are helping to build battleships, bombs, guns, shells, tanks, torpedoes, trucks, and airplanes.

Silver Plane Bearings.

"The use of silver bearings in airplanes, for example, makes possible increased speed and the ability to withstand shock and vibration.

"Silver is also doing valuable service as a substitute for copper, nickel, zinc, and other metals, releasing them for use in war. America is fortunate in having an ample supply of silver to draw upon in carrying out its war program. In Europe and Japan the silver supply is limited."

Western hemisphere silver production for the year was estimated at 203,500,000 ounces, a drop of 10 million ounces from the 1940 rate. United States output was placed at 70 million ounces; Canada, 22 million; Mexico, 79 million; Central America and the West Indies, 4,500,000, and South America, 28 million ounces. These figures represented decreases except in the United States, where output was up 3 million ounces.

Federal Purchases Drop.

United States government silver purchases for the year were placed at 139,900,000 ounces, a drop of 68,200,000 ounces from 1940, and the smallest total since the start of the silver buying program.

Handy & Harman said gold purchases during 1941 were "sufficient to prevent any but nominal progress toward the goal set by the silver purchase act that "one-fourth of the total monetary value of the gold and silver stocks shall be in silver.'" Instead, the company said, the proportion of silver at the end of 1941 was 15.7 per cent, compared with 15.6 per cent a year earlier.

Forecast Drift to Compulsion in War Effort

New York, Jan. 25 [Special].—Many of the difficulties with which Great Britain has contended in executing its war program are similar to those confronting the United States, the Guaranty Trust company said today in its monthly review of business.

"British experience seems to demonstrate that voluntary methods in complete mobilization for war can be fully adequate only in its early stages," the bank reported.

"It is to be expected, accordingly, that increasingly these methods will be replaced by one or another kind of compulsion, in the United States as well as in Great Britain, as unified action approaches its peak."

Vast Power Obtained.

Altho it conceded that the power of industrial conscription in England has been invoked only within narrow limits, the bank observed that British authorities set up an "elaborate organization" to assure delivery of supplies to the fighting forces and obtained emergency powers to take over, if necessary, labor or property.

"Safe reliance upon British experience as a guide in directing our own wartime agencies and procedures is limited by obvious differences in industrial organization, in dependence upon imports and in vulnerability to air attack," the bank said.

Patterns Found Similar.

"Much more important, however, are the points of similarity in the political and economic systems of the two countries and in the conditions under which they must operate. These elements of likeness provide an essential basis for assumption regarding possible uses in both countries of similar patterns for the organization and prosecution of the joint undertaking.

"Official policies continue to emphasize a preference for voluntary methods, a characteristic of democratic political systems."

RISE IN HERCULES POWDER PROFITS SHOWN FOR YEAR

The Hercules Powder company yesterday reported net earnings of $6,098,712, equal to $4.23 a share on common stock, for 1941, compared with $5,807,769, or $4.01 a share, for 1940. The company provided an additional reserve of $500,000 for contingencies arising from the war.

Net sales were $85,612,161, an increase of 63.3 per cent over the 1940 level. In addition the company was engaged on large projects for the construction and operation of munitions plants for the government.

The number of employés has risen to about 20,000, or three times the normal peacetime level, according to Charles A. Higgins, president.

Corn Products Plants Operate at Fast Tempo

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Plants of the Corn Products Refining company at Argo, 63d street and Archer avenue, are consuming nearly 100,000 bushels of corn—a trainload—a day, officials disclosed yesterday. From the corn the company extracts starch, syrup, sugar, cooking and salad oil, and a wide variety of industrial materials.

Packaged items sold at retail make up only 20 per cent of the company's sales on a tonnage basis. About 50 per cent of its output goes to confectioners, food and textile manufacturers, bakers, iron foundries, paper mills, and scores of other industries.

Lend-lease buyers have been steady customers, taking large quantities of dextrose, special starches, and other materials that England will use in caring for its sick and wounded and in making munitions.

Machines Run Continually.

To supply domestic industry with plastic materials, to relieve the shortage in fats and oils, and to supply regular customers, the corn grinding machines must be run 24 hours a day, seven days a week, officials said. In addition to the Chicago plants, others at Pekin, Ill., and Kansas City, Mo., are working at capacity.

The company requires about 70,000 bushels of corn a day at Pekin. At Kansas City, 25,000 bushels go into processing machinery daily. Purchasing all this corn and keeping the plants constantly supplied is one of the company's biggest tasks.

Headed by Le Roy D. Godfrey, Corn Products buyers stand at a small table on the trading floor at the Chicago Board of Trade purchasing corn at a rate of $200,000 a day. Almost 200,000 bushels of corn are required daily to supply all the plants.

Expect 1942 Increase.

Last year the three plants consumed about 55 million bushels. This year the figure is expected to be increased by several million bushels. For economic reasons only shelled corn is used. At Argo it is stored in 40 silos and bins having an aggregate capacity of one and a half million bushels.

Corn Products Refining company probably is the grain men's biggest corn customer. Dealers report the company has taken a substantial part of the corn sold by the government since the start of the year. The grain men estimate that the government has been selling corn at the rate of a million bushels a day.

Treasury Will Spend 48 Millions on Furniture

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—The treasury's procurement division reported today that it expected to place orders for 48 million dollars worth of wood office furniture during 1942.

HILL FORECASTS RISE IN AMERICAN TOBACCO DIVIDEND TO $1 LEVEL

New York, Jan. 25 [Special].—George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco company, announced in a message to stockholders today that he would recommend payment of a dividend of $1 a share on the common and common B stock for the first quarter of 1942 at a meeting of directors to be held Wednesday. The company paid 75 cents a share for the last quarter of 1941, but prior to that paid $1.25 a share on the stocks each quarter.

George W. Hill.

Referring to his letter of last Oct. 25, in which he explained the reduction to 75 cents, Hill said: "Results for the year, both as to volume and as to earnings per share, will be slightly in excess of the estimates mentioned in my letter. Our business volume continues strong."

AUSTRALIAN AREA WAR RISK RATES RAISED TO $7.50

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—Increased Japanese military and naval activity near Australia resulted today in a sharp boost in cargo war risk insurance rates to $7.50 per $100 from $4 for Australasian shipments via Panama and across the Pacific, effective tomorrow.

The rate for cargoes moving to other parts of the western Pacific was continued at a stiff 10 per cent.

Truck Pooling Termed Aid to War Transport

Pooled operations are expected to provide one way for the nation in the war emergency to get increased use from the more than 600,000 "for hire" trucks now rolling over city streets and country highways, Harry F. Chaddick, president of the Central Motor Freight association, said yesterday. He said that pooling should end the need for trucks used in the public service to make return trips empty after having delivered loads.

Operations of for hire trucks are under control of the Interstate Commerce commission and other public agencies which are empowered to put teeth into pooling.

Full Capacity Is Goal.

"The chief purpose of the pooling committee recently set up," Chaddick said, "is to see that all trucks are used to full capacity, and to expedite shipments. We believe we can increase the amount of tonnage carried by as much as 50 per cent over the 1941 volume with no increase in equipment.

"Under the program just established no truck will start out with a load of only a few hundred pounds. When a truck has delivered its cargo in another city it will proceed to pooling headquarters for instructions as to where it can pick up a return load."

Frank Purse, district director of the ICC bureau of motor carriers, is chairman of the pooling committee for the middle western industrial area served by the Central Motor Freight association.

Will Outline Routes.

Chaddick said that the committee in addition to arranging for the pooling of loads will outline routes in many cases. Emphasizing the volume of detailed work involved, he said that on the Chicago-St. Louis run, for instance, 40 licensed lines operate and on the Chicago-Detroit run there are 25. All will have to be considered in setting up equitable arrangements.

Under the pooling arrangement there will be little need for the transportation sales forces employed by the companies. Some of the salesmen are expected to be absorbed as truck drivers as was done in World war I.

Jewel Tea's Fiscal Year Sales Gain 42 Per Cent

Sales of the Jewel Tea company in the 53 weeks of the fiscal year ended Jan. 3 were $41,614,584, compared with $29,197,297 in the 52 weeks ended Dec. 28, 1940, the company reported yesterday. The increase was more than 42 per cent. Excluding the extra week in the 1941 year, the increase was 39 per cent.

REPORT DRASTIC MOVE TO BOOST SCRAP SUPPLIES

Action on Hoarding Held Likely.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 [Special].—Drastic steps to relieve the critical steel scrap shortage are about to be taken by the government and may include criminal charges for hoarding vital war material, it was reported today. The hoarding, the government contends, is a conspiracy on the part of many scrap dealers to force higher prices.

Evidence has already been obtained of dealers selling above fixed prices. Some steel mills may be charged with complicity, it was said, because they were forced to pay bootleg prices for scrap to keep their furnaces turning out steel for guns, ships, and tanks. Steel producers have been forced to shut down a number of furnaces in recent weeks because they lack scrap.

Operations Narrowing.

Several companies are operating on a narrow margin of shipments, the magazine Steel said today, "with no assurance of continuance."

A special house committee investigating scrap hoarding is expected to hear this week from government agents who have been gathering evidence for three months.

In confirming reports of profiteering, Chairman Wright Patman [D., Tex.], of the special committee said he had already received evidence that there was an "available supply of scrap which finds its way into the arms program only after an undue toll is exacted by dealers."

War Switch Gaining.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 25 (AP).—The transition from peacetime to wartime production is gaining speed in the steel industry, the magazine Steel reported today. Its review stated:

"Scrap scarcity has not been relieved sufficiently to allow resumption of steel production in idle open hearths. Some method is being sought to obtain the potential scrap existing in automobile wrecking yards.

"Slightly better scrap supplies at several steelmaking centers caused an advance of 1 point in the national production rate last week to 97 per cent of capacity."

INSURANCE IN FORCE REACHES NEW RECORD FOR CONNECTICUT LIFE

A $51,079,479 gain in insurance in force during 1941, the largest increase in 11 years, was reported yesterday by Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, Hartford. The total of insurance in force at the end of the year was $1,135,915,272, an all-time high mark. Assets, rising $29,112,162 during the year, also established a record at $423,993,718.

James Lee Loomis, president, said that the net rate of interest earned on the company's assets was 3.86 per cent. He declared that life insurance is contributing a service "of first magnitude" to the war effort by directing a large stream of premium funds into government bonds to help finance armaments and by lending capital to private enterprise to maintain the national economy.

Growth • Strength • Service in War as in Peace

Through four wars, eight major depressions and three epidemics Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company comes into its 97th year with an impressive record of growth, strength and service.

RAILROAD OPERATIONS.

Do you have figures or estimates showing the combined operations of railroads in the United States in 1941? For example, do you have total gross income, total taxes, etc.?—B. I.

Answer: Gross revenues of class 1 railroads totaled about $5,325,000,000 in 1941. This was a gain of 24 per cent over the 1940 gross, but 15 per cent under the 1929 total. Operating expenses of approximately $3,660,000,000 were 18.5 per cent higher than those of the preceding year. Taxes in 1941 amounted to $550,000,000, an increase of 39 per cent over 1940. It is estimated that net railway operating income last year was $980,000,000, compared with $682,000,000 the preceding year.

Freight volume was at a record high in 1941, with revenue ton miles totaling 470,000,000,000. [A revenue ton mile is the transportation of one ton of freight one mile.] Passenger traffic was the highest since 1929. Class 1 railroads recorded 29,000,000,000 passenger miles [the movement of one passenger one mile] for a gain of more than 22 per cent over 1940. More than 3,000,000 troops were carried during 1941. An estimated 80,000 new freight cars and about 600 new locomotives were placed in service last year.

SPECIAL STEEL.

Please furnish me with a brief report on Crucible Steel, listed on the New York Stock exchange. How does this company rank in the industry?
—E. G. D.

Answer: Crucible Steel Company of America is the largest producer of high speed, tool and other special steels used where exceptional strength and resistance to wear, heat and corrosion are required. The company is also one of the largest manufacturers of ordnance and this division has been expanding with rearmament and war.

In the nine months thru last September, Crucible Steel had net profit of $4,275,064, equal to $6.79 a common share, against $3,554,698, or $5.17 a share, in the same 1940 quarters. Earnings for recent years follows:

1939	47,067,538	2,803,606	2.84
1938	29,125,598	*2,237,026	...
1937	59,679,895	4,017,931	5.26

*Loss.

There are 334,320 shares of 5 per cent convertible preferred stock, $100 par, and 445,198 shares of no par common outstanding. In October, 1940, under a plan of capital readjustment and in settlement of preferred stock arrears, the old 7 per cent preferred was replaced by the 5 per cent shares and par value of the common was reduced from $100 to no par. An initial dividend of $1 was paid on the new common stock in December last year. Nothing had been distributed on the old common since 1931. Funded debt of the company includes a $15,000,000 issue of 3¼ per cent debentures, due in 1955.
